Junkyard Law Is Under Discussion

A discussion on enforcement of a county-wide junkyard ordinance was held during a meeting of the County Commissioners on Monday, June 8.

Jack Hinebaugh brought before the board the eventual result of a new business opening in Deer Park concerning the selling of used cars and operation of an auto sales business. He told the commissioners he was fearful the business would develop into a business of dismantling cars and storage of old cars and parts, which would subject the man to the junkyard ordinance.

Hubert Friend, president of the commissioners told Mr. Hinebaugh he would not tell any man what he should do or should not do in the operation of his business and Ross Sines, another commissioner, stated a similar opinion. Allen S. Paugh, the third commissioner, said he would have to insist on strict compliance with the ordinance. Also discussing the matter were Eston Nazelrod, mayor of Deer Park, and Mr. Madigan, of Madigan's Auto Sales. The commissioners suggested that the mayor adopt an ordinance regulating junkyards and automobile dismantling yards within the town limits of Deer Park.

Zoning Discussed

Planning and zoning in the county also was discussed by Mrs. Betty Friend, owner of Patterson Boat Company, Inc. Mrs. Friend showed particular concern about recreation at the lake and the lack of adequate sanitary facilities. The county has no zoning ordinance.

Bids for operation of the county trash dumps showed five bids, from $3,600 to $15,938. Ervin L. Lowdermilk, low bidder, said he did not have the necessary equipment to perform the required work. No contract was awarded but two commissioners agreed to let Harry Durst, second low, have the contract for a month at $383.35. Mr. Durst bid $4,600 for the year. Other bidders were Roy G. Moreland, Sanders Enterprises and Franklin T. Beckman.

The board recommended three names to the Department of Social Services, for the appointment to fill the unexpired term of William W. Grant on the Board. Suggested were Arthur Fitzwater, Sr., Swanton; Clarence A. Penman, Oakland; and Fred A. Thayer, Oakland.

Gems In Clippings . . . .

Newspaper has its own peculiar trials and tribulation, but it has its rewards that can't quite be matched in any other field of endeavor. One of the rewards is the opportunity to bring to the people of the community vital commercial information—what is for sale, how much it costs, and where it can be bought. It is no idle boast that the cornerstone of the free enterprise system is our free and independent press.

Likewise it is true that the conduct of government by the people is largely dependent upon the newspaper for information on government and legal transactions, candidates and issues, so that the people can make wise decisions based upon accurate information.

Our commercial advertising, in turn, enables us to gather and publish information about people, places and things—known as "the news." Then we have the privilege to express our independent opinions and thoughts on all manner of things under the heading of editorials.

A BIG FINGER IN THE PIE—These people above had a large finger in the pie in deciding that the Bausch and Lomb opthalmic lens plant would locate in this county. The three million dollar unit is now under construction just east of Mt. Lake Park, in the Shady Acres area, and near the soon-to-be Broadford Dam. Some 200 will be employed when the first phase of the facility is completed. In the photo are some of those whose work in the project was recognized at the get acquainted dinner held Tuesday night at the Wisp. They are, left to right, Col. J. Haig Jackson, executive director of development for the Community Action organization; Jack Harby, vice president for operations, Bausch and Lomb; Bob Melville, vice-president and general manager for B. and L.; J. D. Gorman, vice president of Monongahela Power company; William McQuilkin, president and chairman of the board for Bausch and Lomb, who was the speaker; William A. Shirer, president, Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce, master of ceremonies; Chal J. Mellon, manager of area development for Monongahela Power; Irvin R. Rudy, Jr., president of the Garrett County Development corporation; and Keith Allen, area development representative for Monongahela Power company.

Around 200 At Get Acquainted Dinner Tuesday

William W. McQuilkin, Bausch & Lomb President, Is Speaker

Approximately 200 persons were in attendance at the get-acquainted meeting, jointly sponsored by the Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce, Bausch and Lomb Company, Inc., and Algernon Blair, Inc., on Tuesday evening at the Wisp, McHenry.

They heard William W. McQuilkin, president and chairman of the board of Bausch and Lomb to declare his company was "most happy to be here," and he added, "because of you." He said the people of the area had been most cooperative in the company's efforts to find a suitable location and told his listeners this was one of 82 sites originally considered for the facility.

He termed the action another milestone forward and expressed his confidence that the project would go and grow and live up to the expectations of the people. He felt the place for the facility was suitable in every respect and in a location where potential for expansion was as great as their expectations. He termed the get acquainted meeting "very rewarding for us." He said the rewards would be "far greater than you can realize" but added, it "will be good only if it works well both ways."

William A. Shirer, president of the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce, was master of ceremonies and introduced visiting officials of Bausch and Lomb and Algernon Blair, Inc. The latter which has a main office in Montgomery, Ala., began construction of the 175,000 square foot facility several days ago and Mr. McQuilkin expressed his pleasure at the progress.

Mr. McQuilkin has been with the firm since 1932. He said after the company had trimmed its list to five it shortly afterwards selected Oakland as the final site. A staunch advocate of education, he added one of the reasons for the plant site was the Garrett County Community college, now in the process of construction.

Mr. McQuilkin praised the people of the county for their deep attachment for their land, emphasizing that it adds much confidence to the company in what is doing there. The new community college, he declared, "is a mighty added inducement

Casselman River Watershed Project Sign Up Slated

The sign-up period for the recently approved Appalachian Land Stabilization and Conservation Program will begin on July 1 and continue through August 14, I. William Umbel, Chairman, Garrett County ASC committee announced today.

The Appalachian Program was started in 1966 under authority of the Appalachian Regional Development Act of 1965. For two years it was concentrated in the southern part of the Potomac Watershed in this county. During 1968 and 1969 it was in effect in the Casselman River Watershed and it will apply to this area in 1970.

The program provides for cost-share payments at about 80 percent of the cost for performance of a wide range of practices designed to conserve and develop soil and water resources. Complete farm plans are developed and long term contracts are entered into by co-operators. The Soil Conservation Service, Extension Service, State Game and Inland Fish Commission, and Department of Forests and Parks help develop individual farm plans.

Mr. Umbel said the primary purpose of the program is to promote long range economic growth and that low-income rural people, living on farms with a potential for further development, would be given priority. He urged all interested persons to contact the ASCS office at Oakland.

Commission'rs Seek Co. Roads Workers

The County Commissioners are seeking to employ eighty-three workmen to do work on the County Roads. They authorized the insertion of an advertisement in this week's issue of The Republican.

The board also promised to provide other benefits.

The former road workers went on strike April 7 while still having a contract with the commissioners until June 30, and after refusing to return to work, were subsequently fired. There has been no road construction or repairs since that time and numerous pot-holes have been reported.

Senators requested full accounting for Vietnam war cost.

Accidental Shot Injures Youth

A fourteen-year old youth of Turkey Neck road, narrowly escaped serious injury in a shooting accident late Saturday night in the Turkey Neck section of Deep Creek Lake.

The incident occurred about 11 p. m., and was investigated by State Police. Police said the 14-year-old Douglas Fitzwater, was one of four boys riding horseback when the shooting occurred. Police reported that the boys were riding in a wooded section of the Lake and were accompanied by several dogs that began barking at a noise in some bushes. Young Fitzwater dismounted to investigate and shortly afterward a gun was fired, the shot hitting a fence post and one of the dogs, and ricocheting off the post and striking the boy on the top of the head.

Upon investigation it was determined that the shot was fired by William Millican, 21, a camper visiting in the area. Mr. Millican explained to police that he fired the shot because he is afraid of dogs.

The Fitzwater youth was taken to Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland but his wound was termed superficial and he was treated and released. Several pellets entered the top of the head it was said.

Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill last Thursday granted a motion for judgment of acquittal in all four cases of assault against a state trooper, Tfc. Dana O. Whiteman, who was endeavoring to disperse a crowd inside the court house in Oakland on April 27, during a strike confrontation.

Whiteman had been charged with assault by Wilford Stoll, of Baltimore, an official of the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Workers, AFL-CIO, and three members of former county roads workers, Hollie E. Atwood, Robert O. Wilt and Wellington J. Sowers.

The charges stemmed from an incident last April 27 during which a group of striking county roads workers blocked the doors of the County Commissioners in the Oakland court house and allegedly refused to allow the county commissioners to leave.

Tfc. Whiteman used his chemical mace during the incident and he placed Stoll under ar-

First National Declares Extra 30 Cent Dividend

The Board of Directors of The First National Bank of Oakland has declared a regular semi-annual dividend of fifty cents per share and an extra dividend of thirty cents, or a total of eighty cents per share, payable Wednesday, July 1, to stockholders of record June 17, according to George K. Littman, Chairman of the Board, and Courtney R. Tusing, President.

This is the same rate declared from the first six months' earnings of 1969, although a year ago, it amounted to $40,000.00, being paid on a total of fifty thousand shares, while the current declaration is being made on sixty-five thousand shares for a total of $52,000.00. The increase in the number of shares resulted from the merger with The Citizens National Bank of Westernport and The First National Bank of Barton as of December 31, 1969.

The Board has also authorized the transfer of $200,000.00 from Undivided Profits to the Surplus account to further strengthen the capital structure of the bank.

Mr. Tusing stated that this increase in the Surplus will make a total of $2,000,000.00 of Captital and Surplus, thus raising the legal loan limitation to one borrower from $180,000.00 to $200,000.00. He said further that the First National Bank of Oakland will be enabled to meet the increasing demands of business and industry as the economy of the area continues to expand.

Deposits at the First National have increased approximately $1,000,000.00 since December 31, 1969 and now has total resources of over $32,000,000.00.

Summer Starts Cool With More Rain

Last Sunday, the first day of summer, was more like early spring, that is, cool. More rain and thunderstorms featured the past week's weather.

A thunderstorm arrived about 1:30 p. m. Thursday. There was then some clearing with the temperature going up to 76 degrees. About seven in the evening another electrical storm passed over.

There was partial clearing on Friday with an afternoon high of about 70 degrees. Saturday was a generally pleasant day. Sunday, the first day of summer and the longest day of the year, was rather cool. The day began with rain, then changing to mostly sunny by mid-afternoon.

Cloudiness again set in later in the evening. The Monday low was 53 degrees with drizzle and cloudiness all day and the temperature getting up to only 59 degrees.

Tuesday began clear but with some fog and rather cold. It was 45 degrees around Oakland and 37 at Accident. It then warmed up to 72 degrees by mid-afternoon under mostly clear skies. Wednesday followed the same general pattern as Tuesday but with the temperature at 77 degrees at 4:30 p. m.

Thursday morning was milder and mostly overcast.

Sermonette By Area Ministers

The Characteristics Of A Christian

"And the disciples were called Christians first in Antioch." Acts 11:26.

It was in the city of Antioch in Syria, third largest city in the Roman Empire, that the pleasure-loving Antiochians coined the term "Christian" that characterized the followers of the Christ. It is thought that it was a term of derision. Be that as it may, they could not have chosen a more fitting expression. To be a Christian is a most worthy attainment. A Christian has been defined as "one who thinks with the mind of Christ, who feels with the heart of Christ, who lives in the presence of Christ, and who serves in the spirit of Christ."

To think with the mind of Christ gives length, breadth, height, and depth in one's growth in the spiritual life. It covers the whole range of Christian conduct, the past, the present, and the future. In Paul's letter to the Christians in Philippi, he commented: "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus . . . but made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men; and being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross." Phil. 2:5-8. To possess the humility that Christ imparts will enable one to go farther, accomplish more, and bring greater glory to his master than he will ever realize in this brief life. A young candidate for the ministry went to a certain church for his trial sermon. As he walked up the aisle with his head held high and with a self-confidence that he was in complete mastery of the situtation, he was presented to the congregation. In his opening remarks, he became confused and embarrassed, and forgot his message, and was forced to come down out of the pulpit very much crestfallen. He was met by one of the women of the congregation with this motherly remark: "son, if you had gone up like you came down, you would have come down like you went up."

Feeling with the heart of Christ is not a fleeting desire but an inwrought compulsion by the Holy Spirit to share Christ's concern for those in need. The Master's heart continually went out to such. When the multitudes thronged him, "he was moved with compassion toward them, and healed their sick." His lament over Jerusalem reveals how deeply he yearned for his own people that they be saved from the desolation that was to come upon them. To see human need, to become involved, and share Christ's compassion reveal how deeply is one's commitment to his Lord.

Living in the presence of Christ characterizes the very warp and woof of our lives. It will enable us to see Christ in the lives of those with whom we differ. In the Ashrams, where religious leaders gather to share their religious convictions, they have adopted the following motto: "Here we enter a fellowship, sometimes we will disagree, but always we will learn to love and unite to serve." To be guided by such a spirit would make all discussion and study and action fruitful.

Serving in the spirit of Christ is the high water-mark of a devoted follower of the lowly Nazarene. Some years ago a young man, highly talented, college and seminary trained, and offered one of the prominent churches in a growing city, felt that God was calling him to give his services through the Salvation Army. He presented himself to the founder of the Salvation Army, General William Booth. Knowing the young man's background, Mr. Booth tried to discourage him because of the Army's strict discipline but to no avail. For his first assignment he was sent to the basement of a dingy building to blacken a dozen pair of boots. As he knelt to perform that lowly task, the devil seemed to say to him: "Brengle what a fool you are with all your ability and opportunity! The young man replied: "If Christ could wash the feet of his disciples, surely I can blacken the boots of those who serve Him." From that lowly assignment, Samuel Logan Brengle rose to be one of the great spiritual leaders of the Salvation Army, a man who truly exemplified the spirit of his Master.

The Disease Of Apathy

By Bob Paugh

Throughout Garrett County, particularly in our high schools, a new disease is taking over the souls of our citizens. This affliction is apathy. Some of the symptoms are: lack of interest, followed by extreme boredom; a disjointment in communication between people; and, an unwillingness to become involved with other people. During the period of illness, the patient's vocabulary is dominated by such phrases as, "I don't want to," or "Oh, who cares." This malaise is not isolated to Garrett County, although its symptoms might tend to make you believe that ours is its area of origin.

Apathy seems to be the social disease of our high school this year. Our high school students have been afforded several opportunities this year, but the majority of them don't want to utilize these opportunities. They "know" that there will be someone to take their places. They can shrug off the majority of their responsibilities, because a person with apathy feels no obligation at all toward his friends. The patient feels no desire to cooperate with anyone, because apathy instills in him a constant goal of achieving a state of idle existence.

Apathy is, however, a terminal disease. So let's get busy and do something to eradicate the causes of apathy. What do we do? "Oh, I don't care....."

to coming to Garrett County."

He said the community college fills a specific place with a specific distinction in providing many higher education who could not have had the opportunity. The rewards of a community college are much more far reaching than persons can realize, he maintained. The county is in the process of constructing a junior college at McHenry, to be open for students in the fall of 1971, about the same time that the initial 200 employes will be hired by Bausch and Lomb when their first installation is completed.

He said it was not the allure of the physical beauty of the countryside but that it comes down to the people themselves.

"I can't tell you all the phases of cooperation that we have received. The fine development corporation all reflected the people of Garrett county. We found that B and L could make a contribution here."

The plant is expected to be completed by the spring of 1971 and will employ approximately 200 persons at first.

Special tribute was paid last night to Irvin R. Rudy, president of the Garrett County Development corporation; J. Haig Jackson, executive director under Community Action, and Keith Allen, public relations man for the Monongahela Power company for their efforts in getting Bausch and Lomb to decide on the location.

Letters from Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and Rep. J. Glenn Beall, Jr., were read expressing regrets at not being able to be present.

At the head table in addition to Shirer and the speaker were Rev. W. Shelby Walthall, who offered the invocation; J. D. Gorman, vice president, Monongahela Power; Jack Harby, executive vice president, B. and L.; Bob Rudy; Charles Shumate, president of Algernon Blair, Inc.; Bob Melville, vice president and general manager, B. and L.; Terry Taylor, project manager, Algernon Blair; William Pate, director of Economic Development, State of Maryland; Edward Close, manufacturing director of opthalmic division of B. and L. future of our county and its institutions may be reaffirmed.

"I have been fortunate to represent the people of the Sixth District of Maryland as a member of the 91st Congress. I have been moved and inspired by my contact with them. I have felt the depth of their own commitment to the American system of constitutional government—their desire to participate in the political process. And I have also felt their frustration with the institutions of government—with sluggish Congressional response to change.

"The people have kept the faith—but their Congressional leaders have not. A heavy part of the responsibility for this feeling of estrangement among the people of our state must rest with a philosophy of government in which political leadership is chosen by a democratic process; but when the people turn to government they find only the stone face of bureaucracy. The inportant decisions are to be made behind closed doors, by experts in Washington—or by entrenched Committee Chairmen. And the doors are closed to change.

"In 1968 the people elected a new administration pledged to reverse the flow of power—to return authority to the people and to those units of government closest to them—to state and local governments long undermined by federal bureaucracy and by continuous new assertions of federal authority.

"In the Congress, however, the old philosophy still prevails. The same Committee Chairmen remain in office, obstructing important legislation submitted by the President to fulfill his campaign pledges. The same partisan maneuvering paralizes the government. The same spirit of aloofness pervades the chambers of the Congress.

"I believe we must change the control of the Senate before we can change the direction of the government. I do not believe we can bring our people together, restore the spirit of national community, as long as the Executive and the Congress are in conflict—separated not only by differences in political philosophy but also by Congressional maneuvers of political strategy."

Gems In Clippings . . .

Not the least of our joys is that of passing on to our readers various and sundry items which hopefully, may serve to inspire, challenge or to cheer, prompt a chuckle or a smile. We never cease to be amazed— and gratified— at the appearance of an old, faded clipping from some cherished hiding-place; an old Bible, a treasure chest, a scrapbook, a diary, or a cookbook.

A message found in such an ancient clipping seems appropriate now when so many of our youth have left school to embark upon the rocky road of life. Here it is—

May you have—enough happiness to keep you sweet, enough trials to keep you strong, enough sorrow to keep you human, enough hope to keep you happy, enough failure to keep you humble, enough success to keep you eager, enough friends to give you comfort, enough wealth to meet your needs, enough faith to banish depression, enough determination to make each day better than yesterday.—U. Yule Trees Are Reported Doomed

A National Parks Service scientist declared last Friday that the Christmas tree business in Western Maryland was doomed because of the air pollution.

Plant Pathologist Horace V. Wester made the comment following a tour of a tree plantation near the Mt. Storm electric generating plant. He was part of a contingent of state and federal scientists who made a field inspection of the area.

It was determined last fall that sulphur dioxide fumes from the plant were the reason the trees are dying and being disfigured. Other vegetation in the region is showing the same signs of troubled growth, it was stated.

The Virginia Electric Power company which owns the Mt. Storm station, hired its own scientists who disputed the findings of Maryland and federal experts. The federal government has brought equipment to the area to settle the dispute by checking the pollution level. The company also has hired people to check the pollution density. The federal government has not yet completed its study.

The federal law could require the plant to change from a high sulphur fuel to one with less sulphur. A federal study done last year reported the Mt. Storm station emits 22.4 tons of sulphur into the air every hour.

Final Check Underway For "Missed" Families

One of the final steps in the 1970 census in rural and small city areas of the southern states—a check by mailmen—is now under way, according to the U. S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of the Census.

The 1970 census was taken by two methods: by mail-out and mail-back of questionnaires in most major metropolitan areas and by census takers in the rest of the United States. The latter proceduce entailed the mailing out of questionnaires and subsequent visits by census takers who would pick up filled-in forms or, lacking this, interview families while following a house-to-house route.

Tri-State DAR Meet Well Attended

Garrett County's Youghiogheny Glades Chapter, DAR, was hostess, on June 13th at Will O' the Wisp, for the annual Tri-State meeting of officers and members.

Present were Pennsylvania's Bedford Chapter, West Virginia's Potomac Valley, Fort Ashby and South Branch Valley Chapters, and Maryland's Cresap Chapter. Mrs. John A. Cupler, II, of the latter chapter, is State Registrar. About 45 Dauhters attended.

Mrs. Mary K. Paugh and Mrs. Lewis R. Jones, co-chairmen, carried out a patriotic theme. Programs and nut cups were red, white and blue. The decoration for the speaker's table featured an eagle which had been a push toy of Mrs. Jones when she was three.

Mrs. Wilson King Barnes, former Maryland State Regent and now Organizing Secretary General of the National Society, DAR, spoke on accepted methods for securing new members for the Society. She mentioned that the national membership is about 189,000. There were 13 new chapters organized in Maryland during her term of office as State Regent.

Mrs. Barnes brought with her several pins of amber and crystal in the form of a bee. All members of DAR wearing the "Bee" pin will be showing their support of Mrs. Barnes's candidacy for the office of President General (April, 1971), the highest office in the society. The slogan for her campaign is, "Bee" with the winners!

Capitol Comment

By Charles McC. Mathias
U.S. Senator

Court Reorganization Should Not Be Delayed

A man at a recent public meeting stood up, announced himself as a resident of the District of Columbia and said he wondered how a Senator from Maryland could understand the fear of the people in the District about the serious crime problem. He said criminals had struck within one block of his house during the previous week. I think he raised a serious question, one which not only illustrates the fear that exists in the city of Washington about crime, but also illustrates the fact that we need to pull together as a country in dealing with the crime problem.

In the District of Columbia, people should feel reassured that there is a widespread area interest in every aspect of the crime problem. There are Marylanders who do business in the city of Washington. There are some District of Columbia residents with business interests in Maryland. There is a complete interchange of interest and concern throughout the Washington metropolitan area.

In this age of Beltway crime, political boundaries are of no particular significance to those intent upon breaking the law. A criminal who holds up a store or breaks into a house in the District of Columbia can, in 10 minutes, be in either Virginia or Maryland. All of us, whether we live in the Washington metropolitan area or in the most remote parts of the United States, should make it clear that we are in the fight against crime together and not allow the residents of the Nation's Capital to feel beleaguered and alone with their particular problems.

President Nixon has noted that a number of the proposals he has made for the alleviation of the nation's crime problems have not been acted upon by Congress. This is a double tragedy. Each day that action is delayed on some needed remedy to the crime problem, additional crimes are being committed. And, it is a double tragedy because at least in some instances, this delay is unnecessary. For instance, there are some parts of the District of Columbia omnibus anti-crime bill which are relatively non-controversial, but the whole issue is tied up in a dispute on other sections.

There are some of the President's proposals that everyone agrees to at least in principle. There is no reason why these particular parts of the President's crime package could not be enacted into law and the public be receiving the benefits immediately.

But, there has been used the tactic of the omnibus bill, where the bitter and the sweet are loaded into a single legislative package. And as a result, the controversy over the parts of the bill that some find bitter have slowed down the rapid enactment of the beneficial parts that nobody opposes.

I don't blame anyone for exercising not only his official responsibility but his conscience and standing for what he feels is right in our criminal code. But I think everyone in the Congress must share the responsibility for failing to find some way to enact promptly the non-controversial beneficial features of the bill: notably court re-organization and similar proposals which the President has recommended, which the police say are vitally necessary and which the public demands.

Phone Directory Distributed Here

Distribution of the new telephone directory for Garrett County began June 22, according to G. C. Crabtree, manager for the C & P Telephone Company in Oakland.

As on other 1970 phone books in the Western Maryland area, the cover features a color photograph of the Museum of Fine Arts in Hagerstown, one of the three county museums of its kind in the United States.

The directory will provide callers with about 6,500 phone numbers, and the Yellow Pages section has more than 100 pages of listings for local businesses and professional people, said Crabtree.

The Call Guide in the front of the directory, which gives telephone users a wealth of information, has been rearranged for easier reference, he added.

The inside front cover has a new format for displaying emergency numbers, and the number for the U. S. Secret Service has been added.

Also there is a notice stating the penalty for reporting a false fire alarm.

Delivery of 8,300 of the new telephone directories will take about a week to complete.

Eligibility Change, Farm Queen Test

Two major changes in the Maryland Farm Queen Contest have been announced by Mrs. James Bigelow, chairman of the Maryland Farm Bureau Women's Committee.

The age limit has been extended by one year to that of 19 years of age. Contestants must be 16, but not 20 years old, as of August 31.

On judging the participants, greater emphasis will be placed on farm and home responsibilities this year as a result of a scoring change.

Two other judging areas are: general appearance, and personality and manners.

A girl, to be eligible, must be from a family actively engaged in farming, and a member of a county Farm Bureau prior to the county contest. A home must be maintained on a farm, however, the individual may be working in town or be in college.

A county "queen" will be selected at the agricultural fair in August. She will represent the county in the Maryland Farm Queen Contest on August 31, at the opening of the State Fair at Timonium.

J. Glenn Beall, Jr. Reports from Washington

Congressman, 6th District, Maryland

Air pollution continues to threaten the health and well-being of all Americans. I was therefore happy to participate in Congressional action against it when the House of Representatives passed legislation on June 10 entitled Clean Air Act Amendments of 1970.

While a start has been made in the fight against air pollution since the Air Quality Act of 1967 was signed into law, progress has been regrettably slow. This has been due to a number of factors including cumbersome procedures called for under the Act; inadequate funding at all levels of government; the scarcity of skilled personnel and sound technology to carry out pollution testing and control measures; and the failure of the 1967 Act to impose sufficiently strong controls.

On the other hand, since the Air Quality Act was passed, citizens and officials at all levels have become seriously aroused over the threat of air pollution. With this arousal has come a public demand for the effective imposition and enforcement of more stringent anti-pollution measures. The Clean Air Act Amendments just passed by the House would, in my opinion, do much to fulfill this justified demand.

Under the bill, the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare would be authorized to establish nationwide minimum air quality standards, while the States would be free to set up even stricter standards within their geographic areas. The establishment of nationwide requirements should represent a the present method in which only the State set pollution restrictions. The existing system has meant, for example, that one State might give itself an advantage in competing with other States for new industry by passing less rigorius pollution legislation. While this may bring short-term economic gains, it introduces unacceptable long-term health hazards to State residents.

In order to facilitate the establishment and enforcement of nationwide pollution control standards, the Clean Air Act Amendments would, upon enactment, declare each State an air quality region. Presently, the process for designating air quality regions is so lengthy that actual air pollution enforcement activities have been delayed and limited to only a few areas. By making each State an air quality region, the amendments would carry the war against pollution at a uniform rate into every part of the United States. Moreover, national pollution control standards would be issued within thirty days after the regions are designated.

Because automotive exhaust emissions account for over 60 percent of our national air pollution problem, the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1970 place particular emphasis on the automobile. Under the bill, the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare would be authorized to test the exhaust emissions of not only new car prototypes but also of any new motor vehicle as it comes off the assembly line. In order for a car manufacturer to obtain and keep a required certificate of pollution control conformity, his products would have to pass these tests. Additionally, the new legislation provides that a State must require the inspection of motor vehicles in actual use if it is found that the pollution content in its air quality region continues to exceed prescribed standards.

In a further effort to reduce automotive pollution, the bill would establish Federal standards on fuel ingredients which are deemed hazardous to public health and welfare or which impair the operation of emission control devices. This provision, of course, is based on the valid assumption that automobile and fuel manufacturers share a responsibility for controlling air pollution caused by motor vehicles.

To pay for the provisions in the Clean Air Act Amendments, which also focus on pollution from stationary industrial sources, aircraft, and Federal facilities, a total of $200 million would be appropriated for fiscal year 1971, $250 million for 1972, and $325 million for 1973 Approximately 40 percent of these amounts would be used for research directed at discovering efficient and economical methods for testing and controlling air pollution caused by the combustion of fuels.

It is clear that the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1970 offer a number of promising alteratives to existing law. By virtue of their strong nationwide approach I believe that if enacted they should give us the legal ammunition necessary to strengthen our fight against air pollution.

Non-Profit Nursing Home Is Sought By Tucker County

The Tucker county-wide project to obtain a non-profit nursing home, to be located one-fourth mile south of Thomas on the Thomas-Parsons road, is going forward.

According to Cortland Acres Association, Inc., the corporation will receive $514,892 in Hill-Burton funds and $308,935 in Appalachian Regional Commission money. Local participation is required to get the project off the ground with at least $25,000 necessary to be used for architects' fees, soil investigation engineers, land contour drawings, secretary's salary, office supplies and traveling expenses. Total cost of the facility is estimated to be around one million dollars. The board has plans to borrow the extra amount needed that is not realized by the fund drive.

It would be a 60-bed facility. As of last Thursday some $5,000 had been contributed. An appeal is being made to all county industrial facilities and businesses as well as those who do business in the county, professional persons, clubs, church groups and individuals.

There is not a licensed nursing home in the county with a population of 7,700. County residents are considered 52 per cent medically indigent with 11 percent of its people over 65. Checks may be made to the Tucker County Chamber of Commerce, Box 389, Parsons, W. Va.

88th Annual Camp Meeting Is Set

People from a number of states will arrive this week to attend the 88th annual campmeeting at Mountain Lake Park. During last January the heavy snow crushed the main tabernacle but arrangements have been made for the erection of a large tent to accommodate the people. A new tabernacle will be built soon after the close of the present session of camp, so Dr. C. I. Armstrong, president of the camp, announced.

The staff of workers includes Dr. Roy S. Nicholson, Brooksville, Florida, and Dr. Paul H. Wood of Asbury Seminary, Wilmore, Ky., as daily speakers. Rev. Eldon Niehoff of Jackson, Ky., is youth worker. Rev. and Mrs. Herbert Durham, of Alliance, Ohio are in charge of youth activities. Rev. and Mrs. Joseph Crouse, Wilmore, Ky., are in charge of music. Mrs. Mary Lee Rodeheaver Moore will be pianist.

The camp is interdenominational. The date of this 88th session will be Friday, June 26th, through Sunday, July 5th. The three main services daily are: 10:30 a.m., 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. Next Sunday at 2:30 p.m. will be the annual missionary service. Rev. Wm. Cox of Burundi, Congo, Africa, will be the speaker.

Cosner-Moreland Vows Taken

In a June 20 early afternoon ceremony before an altar of tapered candelabra and vases of daisies and carnations, Judy Marie Cosner became the bride of R. Stephen Moreland. The bride's parents are Mrs. Frieda R. Propst of Mt. Storm, W. Va., and Rollin Cosner of Petersburg, W. Va. Mr. and Mrs. Russell A. Moreland of Mt. Storm, are the parents of the groom.

The double ring ceremony was solemnized by Reverend J. Samuel Moore in Saint Paul's Methodist Church, Oakland. Mrs. Merritt Feather, organist, provided traditional nuptial selections. She accompanied soloist Mrs. Frances Hanlin as she sang "O Perfect Love" and "Because."

The bride wore a full-length gown of imported bridal satin. Double scalloped French lace adorned the front of the A-line skirt, with matching French lace daisies at the neckline. A wide cathedral train of satin fell from the empire waistline. The gown featured long tapered sleeves of bridal satin.

A headpiece of pearl droplets and organza petals hld a full three-tiered veil of imported bridal illusion. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations, blue and white daisies, and blue and white streamers. Her only jewelry was a pearl solitaire, a gift of the groom.

Miss Susan Smeltzer, Towson, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Dixie Collette, cousin of the bride and Miss Becky Moreland, sister of the groom. Both are of Mt. Storm. Flower girl was Miss Renee Halsey of Elkton.

All attendants wore identical full-length gowns of blue and white dotted swiss, with blue organdy sleeves and empire bodices. White ribbon headpieces, white shoes and gloves completed their ensemble. The maid of honor carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and blue painted daisies. The bridesmaids' colonial bouquets were of blue tinted carnations and white daisies. The ensembles of the attendants and the bride were designed and made by Mrs. Sue Bradford of Keyser.

Serving as best man was Larry McDowell. Ushers were James Collette, Walter "Buck" Kitzmiller, Mt. Storm, and David Davis, Elk Garden.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Propst chose a two-piece pink knit suit with black and white accessories. She wore a corsage of red roses. Mrs. Moreland chose a beige ensemble with brown accessories. Her outfit was completed by a yellow rose corsage.

A reception catered by Mrs. Robert Hawley was held in the social room of the church. A four-tier wedding cake and bridal candles graced the bride's table. At the serving table were Mrs. Hawley, Mrs. Vernon Hanlin, Mrs. Robert Burns and Miss Roberta Moreland. Registering guests was Miss Sue Moreland.

For travel to historical areas of Virginia, Mrs. Moreland chose a navy and white knit ensemble with navy accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The groom's parents entertained with a buffet at their home following rehearsal.

The bride is a graduate of Potomac State College, where she received her degree in Medical Secretarial Science. The groom is a graduate of West Virginia University, majoring in Animal Science. He is employed by the United States Department of Agriculture as an agricultural statistician. The couple resides in Albany, New York.

The Spirit of '70

People sometimes make cynical remarks about flag-waving. But it sure beats flag-burning.

Our belief in this nation is something far deeper than mere patriotism. It is the expression of honor and respect for the institutions and blessings we possess as Americans.

One of those institutions is a church independent of state control. One of those blessings is the right to worship according to the dictates of conscience.

Of course, there are some earnest, well-meaning people who don't give a nickel for the Church — or to it either. Even their right not to worship is equally guaranteed by our Constitution!

That kind of freedom is hard to come by. It was hard to come by in 1776. And, in our opinion, it is best understood and most firmly preserved by those who thank God for it.

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

A VISION OF HOPE

Lesson for June 28, 1970

Background Scripture: Revelation 21 through 22:5.
Devotional Reading: 1 Peter 5:6-11.

"Why study a bunch of old visions, anyhow?"

This was the response of a highschool youth confronted with the prospect of studying the Book of Revelation in a church school class. After all, he reasoned, these visions talk about the distant future and we are busy enough with the present!

Rev. Althouse

Yet, just as the past has served to shape the present, what we do now can be greatly affected by what we expect of the future. And people do wonder about the future. Among the questions they ask are these:

1. Will our world go on unendingly, or will it someday be brought to a close?
2. In what direction is the world heading? Is it getting "better" or "worse"? Is it staying the same?
3. Will Christianity be undisputably vindicated at some point in the future? Will "good" be triumphant once and for all over "evil"?
4. Will there be a day of reckoning for each of us?

A new heaven and earth

It is to questions such as these that the Book of Revelation is addressed. People in those days also wondered about the future and needed an assurance to buttress their hope. In looking at John's visions it is important that we do not get hung-up on the details of his visions, but that we concentrate on the message behind those details.

For example he speaks of "a new heaven and a new earth." This is an expression of faith that indicates that God will transform the world so that it eventually fulfills the purpose for which he made it. Today it is a far cry from what God intends it to be, but we belive it will someday be a far different world, a world so different that it will seem a "new world." This will happen, not because "day after day" man simply will get "better and better in every way," but because God is moving this world along toward that goal.

John also saw a vision of a "New Jerusalem." Jerusalem was for the Jew the center of all his religious hopes. It had been destroyed a number of times by enemies and had been rebuilt again. The Jews remembered with pride the beautiful temple that had once stood in the midst of the city and looked forward to that day when it would be there again. They also believed that when God's plan was fully accomplished, people from all nations would look to the temple in Jerusalem as the center for the worship of God.

At the center: Christ

John saw the coming of a new Jerusalem, but it is something rather different than a city which is restored. Far above any human city will be the person of Christ. What this means for us is that whatever the future may hold for the world in which we live, Christ will be at the center of it. It means that that which we have partially experienced in this world will be perfectly and completely experienced in this new existance. This is what Paul alluded to when he said: "Now we see only the puzzling reflections in a mirror but then we shall see face to face. My knowledge now is partial; then it will be whole . . ." (NEB 1 Corinthian 13:12).

With this hope of the future within him the Christian can draw power to live in the present. Though life may seem to ride roughshod over him, though he may have to taste again and again the bitterness of seeming defeat, he can still be a conqueror: "He who conquers shall have this heritage, and I will be his God and he shall be my son" (Revelation 21:7). We are like soldiers who fall wounded in a battle that we know will eventually be won by our side. We can accept these wounds because we are secure in our knowledge of victory.

It is the vision of our hope for the future that makes us truly unconquerable in the here and now of the present.

When your water system lets you down... CALL Naylors
YOUR JACUZZI DEALER!
A thirsty cow is apt to be bullish about an empty water trough. And she'd have a legitimate beef if it's because of a faulty water system, because you could have bought dependable Jacuzzi equipment to begin with. Then you would ALWAYS have water when she needs it.
But it's not too late. We can offer you a pump tailor-made for your system, or a system tailor-made for your needs . . . both of them backed, of course, by Jacuzzi's 40 years of experience in developing newer, better water systems.
So if water system problems have you hollering calf rope, hoof it on down to see us. We won't give you a bum steer!

C and P Concludes Project In County

Work has been completed on a project that required many months of planning and work by employees of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co., it was announced. Nearly 600 telephone subscribers have been transferred from the exchange in Oakland to a new exchange located at Thayerville, near Deep Creek Lake.

To accomplish this a new building has been erected and additional dial telephone equipment installed. Many miles of new cables have been placed and spliced. Additional work crews have been in the area for several months assisting in the project.

This transfer of the customers to the new exchange was timed to coincide with the delivery of the new 1970 Garrett County Telephone directory. G. C. Crabtree, business manager for the telephone company, said that changing numbers at the same time the directory is delivered would minimize any possible confusion. In addition, Mr. Crabtree said, all of the numbers that were changed have been placed on automatic intercepting equipment to prevent anyone from missing a call.

Mr. Crabtree said the new exchange at Thayerville and the transfer of customers into it has been made necessary by continuing increased demands for telephone service in Garrett County and the desire of the telephone company to continue to provide the best service possible to its customers.

Juvenile Cases Heard Last Week

Two cases were heard in Juvenile Court June 19 by Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill, Jr., sitting as juvenile judge.

Virginia Mae Conneway, Mt. Lake Park, was charged with a willful act of omission which caused her daughter to be adjudicated a neglected child. She was found guilty and the sentence of the court was that she be committed to the custody of the Commissioner of Correction and ordered to the receiving and diagnosis center of the Maryland Correctional Institution for Women at Jessup for a period of one year. At a trial on June 22, the sentence was stricken and she was placed on continuous probation. At another trial the same day she was placed under supervision of the Garrett County Department of Juvenile Services for an undetermined period.

At a trial on June 19, a 14-year old female of Mt. Lake Park, was found to be a neglected child by Associate Judge Hamill, and it was ordered that she be committed to Montrose School for Girls until she be discharged by due process of the law.

The National Council of Churches and elder statesmen saw both churches and nation being torn by the same basic kind of intense, bitter conflict.

THE REPUBLICAN

It's About Time . . . .

People in the nation's capital relate that the "power of the people" is being felt in Washington as never before in recent years. There are signs everywhere. Little things, big things, whatever it is, the voice of grass roots people of America is being felt there.

What started off as a simple over-the-coffee-cup idea by a few people has ballooned into what promises to be a big event—an old fashioned Fourth of July celebration in Washington. Headed by National Chairman Bob Hope and Rev. Billy Graham, the "Honor America Day" event boasts a long list of sponsors, including Mrs. Eisenhower, former presidents Lyndon Johnson and Harry Truman, national chairmen of both major national political parties, and others.

Said Bob Hope, "Let's make this a day to live, a day to celebrate, a day to enjoy each other. Let's put our real meaning behind the Fourth of July, and show our patriotism and love of our country and flag." The

Some 465 Apply For Road Work On Co. System

No County Roads Repairs Since Strike Began On April 7

Some 465 applications are on file for employment with the Garrett County roads department, according to information supplied this week by John Ross Sines, vice-president of the County Commissioners.

Mr. Sines said the total included 45 applications which were processed over the weekend. Some of the applications have been on file since January 1, 1967.

The county road workers went on strike April 7 while still under a contract which included a "no strike" provision. After refusing to return to work the workers were fired and there has been no construction or repair of roads since that time.

The workers' contract expired Tuesday and the commissioners have not indicated what course of action they will pursue. Nothing was decided at the weekly meeting of the commissioners on Monday. They said that the previous Monday a group of former workers had met with the commissioners and demanded recognition of their union. This was not done.

The board advertised for applications last week in an effort to replace 83 workmen for its roads department. The advertisement said the commissioners would consider, along with those already received applications from county residents, including former road employes.

It was also provided that "all employes will be required to sign a 'no strike' agreement."

Local Store Gets 2 Grocery Awards

The Browning Foodland grocery store received two district grocery awards and a Westernport grocery, owned by the Brownings won awards at a Foodland seminar, held at Lake View County club in Morgantown, last Monday and Tuesday.

The Browning Foodland was named the Foodland store of the year 1969 in the Charleroi division area which has 80 such stores. It had won the same award in 1967, and apparently has been the only store to make a repeat on the award.

It also was named the store having the best dairy department.

The Westernport Foodland, owned by the Browning family, won the award for having the most outstanding grand opening for 1969. This store opened for business on September 14.

The meting last week was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Browning.

Seeks Nomination For Commissioner

Asa F. Nethken, a resident of the Sunnyside section of the county, about six miles south of Oakland, filed last Friday, June 26, for the nomination for County Commissioner on the Democratic ticket. He would compete in commissioner district No. 3. This is his first try at a political office. He named Nada A. Nethken as his campaign treasurer.

In last week's issue for the announcement of F. R. Corliss as County Surveyor, there should have been a junior after his name, for he is the candidate and not F. R. Corliss, Sr. The present county surveyor is F. R. Corliss, Jr.

Four Injured And Car Damage Heavy

Four persons were injured and considerable car damage was sustained in nine accidents the past two weeks, according to records in the office of the Maryland State Police, Oakland.

Two accidents occurred in the Crellin-Hutton area. A car driven by Charles W. Strawser, Jr., Deer Park, was traveling east on route 39 when a westbound car apparently in the process of passing in the westbound lane, forced the Strawser car onto the shoulder and into an embankment. A warrant was obtained by Strawser against Frank Fultz for improper passing. Damage was light. There were no injuries and no charges were made. Tfc. Robert Lashley investigated the accident which occurred 7:50 p.m., June 21.

At the underpass at Hutton last Sunday at 10:45 a.m., a car driven by James F. Millican, Crellin, was apparently going south on Hutton road at an excessive speed and started to enter the railroad underpass. Millican noticed a car driven by Miles B. Edgerton, Washington, D. C., entering from the opposite end. Millican applied his brakes causing him to skid across the center line, striking the Edgerton car. Two passengers in the Millican car were injured slightly. Millican was injured to the extent that he was taken to the Garrett County Memorial hospital in the Durst ambulance. Damage to his car was considered total. Millican was charged with failing to keep to right of roadway by Tfc. R. S. Lewis who investigated. Damage to the Edgerton car was light.

Health Department Seeks More Funds

Dr. Elmer L. Hill, acting county health officer, and Mrs. Shelby Paugh, secretary, appeared before the County Commissioners on June 15 to request funds that would bring the money designated by the board up to the level of the budget requested.

The Commissioners provided $55,000 in the levy and Dr. Hill renewed his request for the original amount of the request of $66,463. The board made no change.

Jack R. Turney and George Perrine, attorney to the Sanitary Commission and secretary-treasurer, respectively, requested $20,000 from the board for the commission for purchase of land for the sewage disposal plant. No action was taken.

Col. Haig Jackson and Charles Briner discussed access road and other matters concerning the Bausch and Lomb plant. Edward J. Tasker asked that repair work on county roads be started as soon as possible.

Commissioners agreed to award contract for care and maintenance of four county dumps May 1 to June 30 to Ervin L. Lowermilk for $3,600, providing a performance bond be furnished.

Funds Provided For Broadford Water Project

Congressman J. Glenn Beall, Jr., announced yesterday that the Appalachian Regional Commission had approved a $374,000 grant for assistance for a water project near Oakland. It was explained this meant the Broadford Run project.

The project will serve a residential and industrial area just outside the corporate limits of Mt. Lake Park, specifically the Bausch and Lomb complex, now under construction.

The new facility will consist of a water intake structure, a chemical treatment involving filtration, fluoridation and a pumping station. The total cost was placed at $480,000 with the Appalachian Regional Commission providing 78 percent, and the remainder coming from other federal and local funds. The new water supply facility will help supply the new Bausch and Lomb facility and provide water for residential areas.

Playhouse Season To Open July 7th

Final rehearsals are now underway for "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running," the Broadway hit which opens the Garrett County Playhouse's 16th season next Tuesday, July 7. The comedy continues through Saturday, July 11.

Performing in the Blue Barn on Beekman's Penisula on Deep Creek Lake, the players will stage a new play each week during the eight week season, under the auspices of general direcor Gene Yell.

In addition to "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running," the season's bill includes Agatha Christie's classic mystery "The Mousetrap," the English farce "I'll get my Man," as well as "What did we do Wrong?", "There's a Girl in my Soup," "Love in E-Flat," "Big... Bad... Mouse," and Peter Shaffer's twin bill "The Private Ear" and "The Public Eye," with the season closing August 29.

Written by Robert Anderson, one of the foremost contemporary playwrights, "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running" first opened on Broadway in 1967, with Eileen Heckart and George Grizzard in the leads. Like Anderson's "Tea and Sympathy" and "I Never Sang for my Father," the quartet of playlets was an overnight hit, enjoying a two year run in New York.

Always tasteful, frequently explosively funny, sometimes poignant, the topic of the four plays is sexual mores and forays, at all ages and in all settings—in the theatre, in a department

Comptroller Issues Checks to Counties

Checks were being mailed this week from State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein for local income tax revenue distribution from two sources. Garrett county received two checks, one for $48,844.82, for tax revenue from withholding receipts for the months of April and May of 1970, and a check for $42,066.74 for revenue from payment on income tax returns filed for the calendar year 1969. Receipts were from the 50-cent piggy back tax on income.

The totals from the state were $20,750,144.23 from withholding receipts for April and May, and $30,562,291.33 for the distribution for the calendar year 1969.

Mr. Goldstein explained that under Chapter 165, Laws of Maryland 1969, employers withholding transmittals for April and May were includable in the collections of the state for the current fiscal year which ended June 30, instead of the ensuing Fiscal Year as was the case under prior law. In effect the amount of the distribution was a so-called "windfall" due to the change in the withholding reporting requirements.

Temperatures Go From Chilly to Hot

Chilly temperatures were experienced on the Mountain top during the week with more rain and a "tornado watch," then getting hot and humid.

Last Thursday afternoon was hot with temperatures getting into the upper 70's and mostly overcast skies. Friday was mostly overcast but with high temperatures, going from 70 degrees at 11 a. m. to 79 at 4 p. m. Chilly temperatures with rain and light drizzle occurred up until about mid-afternoon on Saturday. A tornado watch was called for from 2 p. m. to 8 p. m. Saturday, but none developed in this area. The rest of the day was mostly sunny but still cool.

Sunday started with low temperatures in the upper 30's and remaining cool with sunny skies the rest of the day. Monday was mostly overcast with temperatures in the low 40's in the morning but going up to 74 by afternoon. It was cloudy and threatening to storm most of the day Tuesday. Temperatures were in the lower 60's in the morning going up to the low 70's later in the day.

Wednesday was partly cloudy and quite warm with readings in the low 60's in the morning, then up to 80 degrees at noon with high humidity. It was 84 at 4 p. m. and by 7 p. m. it had only dropped to 80 degrees. The temperature stayed at about 72 degrees throughout the night and into this morning. Scattered showers occurred during the night and today started mostly overcast.

Injunction Is Issued Against Bakery Strikers

Ordered To End Mass Picketing And Further Property Damage

A writ granting a temporary injunction was issued last Friday and filed in the Circuit Court on Monday, enjoining bakery and confectionery workers of a Cumberland bakery from mass picketing and constraining them from blocking of ingress and egress to the bakery plant on South Third street in Oakland, from making threats, engaging in acts of intimidation or coercion, engaging in any activities resulting in damage to property, trespassing, and from pursuing or following company vehicles.

The complaint was made by Stroehman Brothers, company, a Pennsylvania corporation located in Cumberland, against local 246, Bakery and Confectionery Workers, International Union of America; Wayne Shook, president, and Coy R. Huffman, financial secretary and treasurer, of Cumberland. The bill of complaint was signed by Augustus T. Riggleman, vice president; Charles A. Caffrey and Fred A. Thayer, solicitors.

The complaint termed the union as an unincorporated labor organization of Allegany county.

The complaint declares that membership of local 246 and officers on June 24 and 25 committed "certain unlawful acts and threatened to continue commission of such acts; have engaged in mass picketing at the plant location of the complainant in Oakland; preventing ingress and egress to and from said plant by company officials and other employes not involved in any labor dispute."

They also charged that some 15 pickets at the entrance of the plant at South Third street had surrounded a Stroehman company truck, restraining its movement, slashing its tires and severing the air hose, making its brakes inoperable; subsequently broke and entered on the premises where they "slashed tires on trucks inside the building and broke off ignition keys of vehicles."

They said such acts would continue restrained by the court.

The complaint also said that officers charged with protecting the property "have failed and have been unable to furnish adequate protection to prevent blocking of ingress and egress to and from plant and to prevent destruction of property."

It further said that Wayne Shook had advised officers that "he is unable to control activities of his membership on the picket lines or to guarantee safety of anyone entering or leaving the plant."

The bill declares that the restraining order was necessary to avoid substantial irreparable injury to property and personal safety of officers and employes.

The respondents were ordered to show cause on or before the first day of July at 2 p.m., why a permanent injunction should not be granted. The order was signed by S. F. Hamill, associate judge.

The order limited picketing to no more than two persons.

Pickets Slash Several Tires

Trouble flared at the quonset hut on South Third street early last Friday morning when pickets from the striking bakery workers slashed several tires of the Stroehman bread company of Cumberland, and otherwise damaged the trucks' mechanism.

Eleven pickets finally left the scene when a state policeman appeared and warned them of the legal consequences. City and county authorities also were called to the scene. A temporary injunction was obtained through the courts following the incident and no further trouble has developed.

Reports from Washington
Congressman, 6th District, Maryland

In continuing Congressional action with respect to our water resources, the House of Representatives last week considered legislation called the Public Works for Water, Pollution Control, and Power Development and Atomic Energy Commission Appropriation Bill of 1971.

This legislation embodies a dual approach to water resources. On one hand, it contains appropriations to pay for the development and utilization of our water resources—for example, it allocates $329 million for the construction of new hydroelectric plants. On the other hand, it authorizes money to pay for the purification and preservation of our water resources—for example, it reserves $1 billion for Federal Water Quality Administration grants for the construction of waste treatment facilities to abate pollution.

In the past, as we all are coming to realize, emphasis on water resource utilization far outstripped emphasis on water resource quality, with the result that today water pollution has become a major problem. By placing strong emphasis on both vital areas, the Public Works Bill now before Congress, I think represents a significant step toward redressing the kind of imbalance which has been harmful to our natural environment.

Specifically, the Public Works Bill would authorize a total of $5.2 billion for fiscal year 1971. This represents an increase of some $467 million over this year's appropriation, and is almost $27 million less than the 1971 Budget request.

A total of over $1.5 billion in the proposed legislation would be used to finance efforts by various Federal agencies to make improvements in environmental quality. For example, the Atomic Energy Commission would receive $71 million to conduct research on the biological effects of exposure to radiation, radioactive waste management, and the effects of thermal alteration of the environment. Research in these areas is essential because atomic energy represents one of the most promising ways to meet our ever-increasing demands for electrical power. These demands, which are doubling every eight to ten years, have already produced serious power shortages in many areas which could lead to total power blackouts. If atomic energy, then, is to be used to fulfill these needs, we, of course, must ensure that it poses no threat to us or to our environment.

Currently, there is a critical backlog of urgently needed projects to be undertaken by the Army Corps of Engineers for the provision of water supply, pollution control, and flood control services. The Public Works Bill of 1971 places special emphasis on providing funds for these essential projects, several of which are located in Maryland.

For the State of Maryland, the bill would authorize a total of over $1.5 million to finance five new projects involving water supply, water quality, and flood protection. These involve the Chesapeake Bay Basin, the Elk and Little Elk Rivers, the Nanticoke River, the Patuxent River, and the Youghiogheny River Basin. Funds for Chesapeake Bay Basin research alone would come to over $1.3 million.

Several Corps of Engineers projects in Maryland which are already underway would also receive substantial financial support under the bill. These concern the Anacostia River, the Baltimore Harbor and Channels, and the Bloomington Dam and Reservoir, which is of special interest to those of us in Western Maryland.

I an pleased to report that the Public Works Appropriation Bill would provide a full $4.8 million for advanced engineering and design, land acquisition, and construction of the Bloomington facility. Located on the North Branch of the Potomac River, the Bloomington Dam will have important consequences for our State. By increasing the water supply along the Potomac, it offers a great potential for economic growth in our area. Increased water volume, of course, will also mean a decrease in pollution concentration. Moreover, included in the Bloomington project are plans for the development of a recreation area to accommodate up to 50,000 visitors annually for boating, picnicking, and camping.

The Public Works Appropriation Bill of 1971, by virtue of its dual emphasis on water resource utilization and water quality, does indicate, I think, that government resource planning not only recognizes the increased demands for resource use imposed by national growth, but also at last is becoming equally sensitive to considerations of environmental quality.

July Fourth

Our Country's Birthday!

It is an old custom to bring gifts on a loved one's birthday. Assuming that we love our country, what gifts should we bring to her today? Not money. She has an ample supply of that. Not power, nor honor, nor glory. These are hers in abundance.

Friends, we should give of ourselves, our loyalty, our love and our service. On this day of days, we should dedicate ourselves anew to obedience of the United States Constitution and the laws of our state, and a whole-hearted support of our public officials, from the President down to the youngest law officer in our community.

It is good to voice our patriotism on a day like this, for we are truly proud of our country's achievements, of her place of honor in the world. But let us not confine ourselves to mere expressions of sentiment. Let us, on this anniversary of our nation's birth, bring a deeper meaning to the word "patriotism" through our own unselfish giving to the causes of liberty, justice and equality for all men.

Frantz-Harsh Nuptials June 18

Neva Jean Harsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin R. Harsh, Eglon, W. Va., became the bride of Donald LeRoy Frantz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond H. Frantz, Sr., also of Eglon. The candlelight service was held Thursday evening, June 18, at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Galen Wine, pastor. Mrs. Wilma Mae Teets, organist, accompanied Mary and Gary Roth who sang "My Special Angel" and "The Lord's Prayer." The church was decorated with daisies, greenery, and candles. The acolytes were James Frantz, brother of the groom, and Gary Beckman, cousin of the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin floor length gown that featured a high waist, princess seaming and a detachable lace train. It had self fabric bands and bows at the bodice and was trimmed at the neck and wrists with a wide band of sequins and pearls. Her elbow length veil was attached to a cluster of sequin and pearl pedals. Her only jewelry was a white gold locket given to her by the groom and she carried an arrangement of daisies and carnations with a lift out corsage on a white Bible, and a handkerchief that had been carried by her grandmother and mother at their weddings.

Maid of honor was Brenda Harsh, sister of the bride, who wore a floor length pastel green dress of bonded crepe with pearl trimming at the neck and carried an arrangement of painted daisies with a burning candle. The bridesmaids were Mary Knotts, Aurora, and Jackie Kuykendall, Petersburg, classmates of the bride, who wore dresses identical to that of the maid of honor but in pastel yellow. They also carried arrangements of painted daisies and candles.

Raymond Frantz, Jr., served as his brother's best man with Robert Frantz, David Frantz, brothers of the groom, and Stanley Harsh, brother of the bride, serving as ushers. They all wore white tuxedos identical to the groom with a red caranation boutonniere.

The flower girl and ring bearer were Kay and Jeff Harsh, cousins of the bride. Kay wore a floor length yellow, covered with white lace, gown. She spread daisies up the aisle. He wore a white dinner jacket, red carnation, and carried a lace trimmed white satin, heart shaped ring pillow.

The bride's mother wore a blue and white dress with white accessories while the groom's mother wore a pink and white flowered dress with white accessories. Both had white carnation corsages.

Krista Harsh was at the guest book and Karen Cox, cousin of the groom, Betsy Teets and Sandra Hauser opened and displayed the gifts.

A reception followed the ceremony with Mrs. Lillian Cox, aunt of the groom and Mrs. Helen Strawser serving the cake, and Mrs. Ellen Harsh and Mrs. Ruby Feathers presiding at the punch bowl, Mrs. Grace Harsh and Mrs. Florence Harsh, aunts of the bride, and Mrs. Barbara Hauser also helped with the reception.

After a short honeymoon in Virginia the couple will reside at 207 Doris Avenue, Brooklyn, until Donald reports to the Navy.

Still Mystery Man

Edward Close, manufacturing director of the ophthalmic division, Bausch and Lomb, still remains the "mystery man" for the company. In the photograph appearing on page one of The Republican last week, of persons who had a hand in getting the B. and L. plant here, Mr. Close is the third man from the right, but his name was missed entirely in the cut lines underneath. Our apologies to Mr. Close.

Being named one of the mystery men of the company was somewhat of a joke, as related by William A. Shirer at the get acquainted dinner on June 23. Close and another member of the company, when they visited Oakland many months ago to inspect the area for the possible site of the Bausch and Lomb plant, were known by officials only as Bob and Ed. It was not until several weeks ago that the identity of the pair was learned.

store, in suburbia and for senior citizens.

"The Shock of Recognition" pokes fun at nudity on stage, while "The Footsteps of Doves" is a tender comedy about a mid-fortyish couple shopping for their first twin beds after twenty five years of happy marriage.

In "I'll be Home for Christmas," another couple reflects on the facts of life before talking to their teen age children.

A touch of absurdity is provided by "I'm Herbert," where an ancient couple reminisces about their several marriages, happily mixing up memories of former mates.

The Playhouse production will be directed by Richard Nesbitt, who acted with the Players in 1966. The cast includes some new faces and some old favorites.

As on Broadway, the actors will double roles in the four plays. In "The Shock of Reccognition," Tony Bruskas plays the producer, David Cramer the playwright, while the cameo role of the actor who will do anything to get a part is played by Milburn Mehlhop.

Susan Stoner and Milburn Mehlhop are cast as the couple in "Footsteps of Doves," with Marsha Wischusen played by comely divorcee who is shopping for a double bed. Susan Stoner and Paul Cramer are featured as the parents in "I'll be Home for Christmas," with Jana Hahn as their teen age daughter. In "I'm Herbert," the senior citizens are played by Marsha Wishusen and Milburn Mehlhop.

Gene Yell and Sean Spriggs design the settings for the theatre-in-the-round production.

Season subscriptions are still available for the eight week season, entitling the subscriber to nine admissions which may be used in any combination. Subscriptions are available at Englander's Pharmacy, Proudfoot Pharmacy and Gregg's Pharmacy.

All performances begin at 8:30 p. m. response has been colossal. The same thing could occur in every community.

A new full color 11x14 inch lithographed print of the Flag with the Pledge of Allegiance below it, is selling faster than it can be produced by the Bureau of Printing and Engraving at 75 cents a copy, including postage and mailing.

Congressmen and Senators on the Hill report that their mail from grass roots constituents has never been heavier. Retail stores in the capital have sold out every American flag in stock and new supplies are going as fast as they come in. Not only automobiles but trucks and delivery wagons everywhere sport Flag decals on their doors and windows. This is indeed encouraging news from the capital of our country.

Let's hope patriotism continues to flourish.

Youth Asks Court Review, Jail Term

A Morgantown teen-ager asked the State Supreme Court of W. Virginia on Tuesday to determine if he got an impartial hearing when his probation was revoked and he was sent to the Moundsville penitentiary to serve a sentence for possession of marijuana.

Samuel Blaine Rose, 19, a student at West Virginia university, was indicted on charges of possession of marijuana. He pleaded guilty Feb. 19, 1969, and his 2 to 5 year sentence was suspended in lieu of probation.

While under suspension Rose was not to leave the state without consent of the county court. The petition said Rose was going to visit a friend in Aurora, Preston county, when the roads were snowy. To take the safest route the petition said, Rose went into Maryland to get to Aurora. Enroute Rose picked up a hitchhiker, Kenneth Leopold, who wanted to go to Oakland. However Leopold continued to ride with Rose to Aurora and returned with him. On the return trip, Rose again stopped in Oakland at Leopold's request. The petition said while Rose was waiting for Leopold in Oakland, a policeman arrested him on a charge of conspiring to violate Maryland narcotics laws.

Leopold apparently had attempted to pass a forged prescription and was later convicted of this, although charge against Rose was dropped, the petition said. When Rose returned to Monongalia county he was ordered to appear for a hearing and the state had Rose's probation revoked.

Rose and Leopold were two of the three young people who were tried in Garrett county circuit court proceedings after being arrested in Oakland in January.

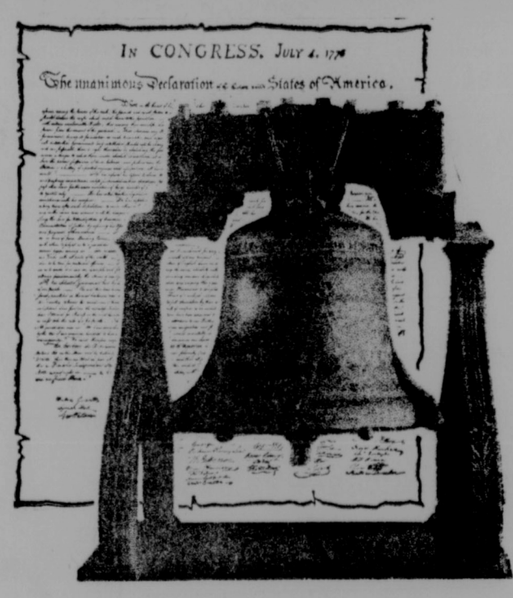
INDEPENDENCE DAY Our Proudest Moment



As we join together to celebrate this Fourth of July, let us remember that, above all, this is a day to show our gratitude to our forefathers for their great fortitude and vision in establishing this great nation upon the foundations of freedom, and their steadfastness in upholding that freedom.

Let us affirm our faith in the principles for which they stood and pledge anew, dedicating ourselves unswervingly to the ideal that liberty may ever endure.

Citizens of Garrett County

Once again, the two stubborn Commissioners of Garrett County are showing their arrogance and ignorance.

The Federal and State Governments outlawed personal contracts commonly called "Yellow Dog" agreements in 1936. Why are the Commissioners asking potential employes to forego their constitutional rights by signing a no-strike, non-union clause?

The Governor of the State of Maryland offered to send mediation services to Garrett County in order to settle the strike in its early days. Why did Commissioners Sines and Friend ignore the Governor's offer?

Your local Ministers have tried, unsuccessfully, to get the Commissioners to sit down with the Road Workers. Why did these two stubborn men—who profess to be devout Christians—tell the Ministers to "mind their flocks—we'll take care of our business!"

The Garrett County Road Workers have been trying to sit down with the County Commissioners since January of this year. They finally gave up and went on strike on April 7, 1970. Why have the two stubborn men of Garrett County refused to recognize the legally accepted Union of the Road workers?

Citizens of Garrett County—Look across the line into Allegany County. In this County, the same union, AFSCME, AFL-CIO, has excellent relations with the County. The workers have decent wages, hospitalization, overtime and many fringe benefits.

What are these two stubborn men afraid of?

They have nothing to fear. They will not succeed in their efforts to keep men in servitute and they will be drawn into the 20th Century regardless of how much they fight against it. In fact, the only thing they have to fear is if they attempt to use 19th Century strike-breaking methods. Scab labor has never succeeded in taking the place of honest workmen. Support the County Road Workers' cause.

Write to the Commissioners and DEMAND they recognize the Road Workers' Union NOW!

For Your Information:

To the best of our knowledge, the Commissioners paid Allegany County Attorney Miller Bowen $1,700 of the taxpayers' money to fight the Garrett County Road Workers, and paid Attorney Dwight Stover $1,500 in the same case although he is already being paid a salary to represent the Commissioners.

For Your Information:

Here are some of the things our great Presidents have said about Unions . . . both Republicans and Democrats:

Abraham Lincoln once said, "The strongest bond of human sympathy outside of the family relation should be one uniting all working people . . ."

Lyndon B. Johnson: "The AFL-CIO has done more good for more people than any other group in America."

Franklin D. Roosevelt: "If I were a worker in a factory, the first thing I would do would be to join a Union."

Dwight D. Eisenhower: "Only a handful of unreconstructed reactionaries harbor the ugly thought of breaking unions and of depriving working men or working women of the right to join the Union of their choice."

Harry S. Truman: "The right to join a Union of one's choice is unquestioned today and is sanctioned and protected by law."

John F. Kennedy: "The American Labor movement has consistently demonstrated its devotion to the public interest. It is and has been good for all America."

Millions agree . . . yes, millions of workers and their families make up the American labor movement. They have made the lives of families fuller and happier and they have made their jobs more secure . . . and built a better America in the process. You can always find improvement through Unionism.

These are the thoughts of some of the greatest minds in America. How can these two stubborn Commissioners justify their narrow thinking?

Fact From Fiction
By Dwight Harvey

Science fiction has (over the years) offered the world a picture of its future and the answers to many of its problems. Edgar Rich Burroughs, a science fiction author who wrote tales of the planet Mars, has revealed to us a solution to one of the earth's greatest problems.

Burroughs' Mars was populated by a race of men who were the end product of centuries of intermarriage—a composite intermarriage of all other races on Mars. This "composite" race became the strongest because it was united. The other races of Mars which had remained "pure" and had not intermarried were not able to unite. They were torn by racial rivalries and were easily broken or destroyed by enemies.

Today the earth is torn by racial conflicts which threaten to damage or destroy our society. Something must be done about them. The solution to this problem is easily gathered from Burroughs' fictional example of the Martians: people (and in this case, earthlings) must intermarry. By intermarriage the world can rid itself of the racial differences which men seem to be unable to overlook. Only by intermarriage can the world quickly rid itself of its racial problems and become a strong and united planet.

Large Numbers Are Attending Camp Meeting Sessions

Bigger crowds than ever before are attending the daily sessions of the 88th annual interdenominational camp meeting at Mt. Lake Park this week. Sessions are being held in a large tent since the tabernacle was crushed by snow during the winter months.

C. I. Armstrong, of Wilmore, Ky., president of the Camp Meeting association, announced the attendance growth. He said the program for Friday would be different from the regular sessions with all staff members doing something other than their regular duties. Two of the speakers will play pianos and furnish music while the song leader will do the preaching. Rev. Eldon Niehof, of Jackson, Ky., principal of one of the high schools there, will direct music that night.

There are three main services daily at 10:30, 2:30 and 7:30. The closing service will be Sunday, July 5. Speakers on Sunday will be Dr. Paul H. Wood, Asbury Seminary, Wilmore, Ky., and Dr. Roy S. Nicholson, Brooksville, Fla. Mr. Armstrong said that $2,000 was raised at the missionary service last Sunday for the African Congo.

Mr. Armstrong said the board of directors had held two meetings and planned to meet again Saturday to complete plans for the rebuilding of the tabernacle. The new building will be approximately the same size as before but there will be a different type roof, designed to withstand the heavy snows.

Huge gears turn ponderously—meshing with others which turn still others, and power is born, energy released.

Today more and more gears and gadgets make living more and more luxurious. There are machines to do almost everything. Appliances entertain us, teach us, train us.

GEARS and GADGETS

One thing remains individual. There's no "dial-a-matic" gadget for God, no pushbutton gimmick. Man's search for meaning in his life is still his own responsibility.

When man only dreamed of flying and the fastest way to travel was by horseback, God's Church was the source of all goodness and joy. It's no different today. In a world where man races for the stars, the Church remains the well-spring of truth.

Attend your church. Find faith and the good life.

REVOLUTIONARY?

Lesson for July 5, 1970

Background Scripture: Genesis 1:1-4; John 1:1-13; Romans 1:16-21; Colossians 1:15-27; Hebrews 11:3.
Devotional Reading: Psalms 104:1-13.

The Book of Genesis a revolutionary book?

It may hardly seem so to us today, but to the ancient world in which Genesis first appeared it came as a startling, revolutionary concept. The Babylonians and Egyptians, for example, believed that the gods were in nature itself. This is why they worshipped the sun, the moon, the stars, the great rivers, etc.

Rev. Althouse

The poet of Genesis, however, brought forth the revolutionary concept that God was not "in nature," but above it. Before there was nature, he tells us, there was God and he created nature. Thus we do not bow in adoration to the works of nature, but to him who created them.

A "beginning" to things

Another revolutionary aspect of Genesis is found in the assertion that there was a "beginning" to things. The ancients believed that history and time revolved in an unending cycle that had neither beginning or ending. But the poet of Genesis says, "In the beginning . . ." Before that beginning was God who gave both time and history their start. Only God, therefore, is eternal; everything else has its beginning in him.

The ancients sometimes believed that their gods sometimes "blundered" into acts of creation. A God would cry and the teardrops would fall into the sea and become islands. A god would throw a fireball at an enemy and the fireball would become fixed in the heavens, thus becoming the sun.

What a different view we find in Genesis! Here we see God deliberately choosing to create, not by chance or caprice, but by plan and design. We see an orderly universe unfold step by step according to the direction given it by the Creator.

And God said, "Let there be light"; and there was light. And God said, "Let there be a firmament . . ." And it was so. And God said, "Let the water under the heavens be gathered together into one place . . ." And it was so. And God said, "Let the earth put forth vegetation . . ." And it was so.

Here we see a Creator who creates because he desires to create. We see a Creator who creates in an orderly fashion, planning for times and seasons (1:5), planning for an orderly structure (17:7,8), planning by means of an orderly unfolding process (1:9,11,12).

And God saw that it was good

There is something else that Genesis wants us to know. Whereas some of the ancients regarded the material world as evil, a curse from which man needs to escape, Genesis tells us that the world God created is a good world: "And God saw that it was good," (1:10). The Creator finds joy and satisfaction in his work.

Genesis not only was a revolutionary book when it first appeared, but if we take it seriously today, it still has that capacity to startle us.

Too many people get hung-up on the details of the Creation story. Like the details of the parables which Jesus told to communicate important truth, the reader of Genesis must go beyond the details and press onto the truth the story is intended to convey. Instead of trying to make history out of what was written in a poetic literary style, we need only consider the meaning behind the revolutionary idea with which it begins: "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth" (1:1). How he did it is of far less concern that the fact that he did do it and that he had a master plan in mind when he began.

If that thought strikes you as commonplace, if it doesn't excite you and stir your mind, it is a reflection upon you, not the Creation story!

Events Above The Mountain Top

Paul S. Frank, Jr.

Tomorrow the moon passes through its new moon phase at 11:36 a. m. The moon will rise each day between 5:30 a. m. tomorrow and 10:30 a. m. next Wednesday, Tuesday at 8:00 a. m. the moon passes through its apogee. This farthest point in the present orbit of the moon is 252,100 miles from earth.

Saturday finds the earth 94,514,000 miles from the sun. This apogee of earth occurs, paradoxically, when we are in the hottest time of the year. However the summer of the north is not quite as warm as summer in the southern hemisphere.

Venus, Jupiter, Saturn remain the visible planets for the week. Venus, brightest object in the sky just after sunset, dominates the west sky. Jupiter, high in the southern sky at sunset, is also very bright until it sets about two hours after midnight. Saturn in the constellation Aries rises about four hours before the sun.

Sunrise this morning was at 5:55 a. m. Fourteen hours fifty-four minutes later the sun will set at 8:49 p. m. Next Wednesday will contain four minutes less daylight with sunrise at 5:58 a. m. and sunset at 8:48 p. m.

Introducing To The Mt. Top...

Dr. and Mrs. Neal Wilson; Shirley, 17, and Ted, 20

Besides vacationing at Deep Creek Lake during the month of July for a couple of weeks, the Wilson family—experts on the Holy Land—(they used to live there) want to meet you and get acquainted. They want you to drive up to the beautiful new Mountaintop Church on Hoop Pole Ridge, midway between Deep Creek Lake and Oakland on Route 219 any night except Mondays—beginning Sunday evening, July 12 through Saturday evening, July 25. (Try to make it by 7:30, since that's when their special program for you and the whole family begins!) They'll have supervised child care, so don't worry about bringing the kids along. You'll really enjoy yourselves—listening to all that special music; looking at all those beautiful films IN COLOR; seeing how to kick the smoking habit in just five days; and listening to one of the best speakers to have come to the mountaintop. And you'll really enjoy chatting with the Wilsons after the programs, too. You won't forget them! By the way, the Wilson family will be talking about the Palestine problem on opening night, just in case you're interested in what's behind the Arab-Israeli conflict. Will it lead to Armageddon? How near are we to the end of the world?) The Wilson family will be looking for you! Drop by, won't you? You'll be glad you did.

BFG LIFESAVER RADIAL GUARANTEE. Guaranteed for 40,000 miles in normal passenger car service against 1) tread wearout, 2) defects in materials and workmanship and 3) road hazards.
If the tire should wear out before 40,000 miles, return it with the guarantee certificate to the retailer from whom the tire was purchased and we will make an allowance for unused service, prorated on 40,000 miles, and computed on our then current Retail "Trade-In" Price towards the purchase of a new tire of the same size and type. LETTER TO THE EDITOR

June 30, 1970.

To The Friends of Garrett County,

Today, I just by chance, bought a Baltimore morning paper and we have good news. Senator Joseph Tydings (allegedly our representative in the U.S. Senate) has received so much static about gun controls that he's crying. He is receiving pressure from all the people who feel they should have the right to "keep and bear arms" as provided by our great Constitution.

My friends, let me tell you, if we have to register and get certificates of qualification for every firearm then the Government can at anytime, confiscate our firearms. Registration only hampers the innocent citizen. Who has ever heard of a criminal registering his firearm.

Let's keep writing to Mr. Tydings and let's hammer away at his registration of guns. If 100% of the people let him know we want to keep our guns and that we want him out of Washington. Maybe he'll go live in Russia where they have no "right to keep" guns; where they have no "rights" at all.

It is significant indeed to point out that no country has been overtaken by the Communists where the private citizen was armed as we still are and hope to be.

This is our freedom, let's keep it. If Joe Tydings wins we'll lose.

Thomas E. Doyle

Fourteen Killed On State Highways

Fourteen persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the survey published by the State Police. Five killed were drivers, four were passengers, and five were pedestrians. Alcohol was a contributing factor in four of the deaths, speed in five, and "driver error" in nine.

"As we approach the half-way mark for 1970, we have twenty-nine fewer fatalities on Maryland highway than we did for the same period last year," noted Lt. Col. W. H. Conroy, Deputy Superintendent of the Maryland State Police.

"It is hoped that during the coming six months we will continue to reduce the needless highway tragedy in the State that has beset us for the last several years."

A sharp drop was reported in May industrial output.

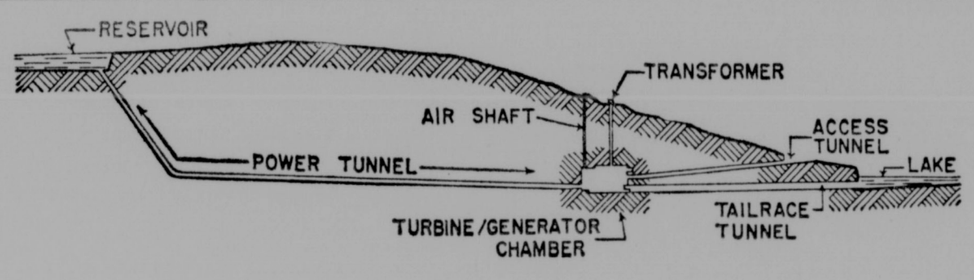
Blackwater Lake, proposed as part of Allegheny Power System's Davis Power Project in Tucker County will be created by a 65-foot earth-rock dam located about three miles east of Davis on the Blackwater River at a point where the stream enters a narrow valley between Brown and Canaan Mountains. (The present scenic overlook on West Virginia Route 32, where a panoramic view of the Canaan Valley is possible, is located in the bend of the road just past the point where the highway is designated as Route 32 on the map.) The upper reservoir will be located on Cabin Mountain 900 feet above the underground power station. Water will be pumped from the lake to the reservoir and released back through underground tunnels to generate electricity. Three recreational areas are proposed: Area A will include a visitors' information center, picnicking and boat launching facilities. Area B will include camp sites, wash houses, picnicking and boat launching facilities. Area C will be the length of Blackwater River from the dam to the town of Davis. Access roads will be built and parking for fishermen provided



DAVIS POWER PROJECT
PUMPED STORAGE POWER STATION

This cross section drawing shows how Allegheny Power System's pumped-storage power station in Tucker County will operate. The turbine/generator chamber will be located about 500 feet underground if testing proves this to be feasible. A small proportion of the water from the proposed 7,200-acre lake will be pumped through 30-foot-in-diameter underground tunnels to a reservoir located 900 feet above the power station. Energy for the pumping operation will come from existing power stations in the Allegheny Power System—the closest of which is located about 30 air miles away. APS's Fort Martin station is located over 50 air miles away. When peak demands occur on the APS system, water will be released from the reservoir and, flowing back through the tunnels the water will turn the turbines and generate electricity. The access tunnel to the power plant will be 26 feet by 26 feet and about 1,000 feet long. The turbine/generator chamber will be 344 feet long and 78 feet wide at the turbine room floor. The ceiling will extend 75 feet above the floor and the pump/turbine will extend a similar distance below the floor. Construction is planned with a minimum disturbance to the surface

Weighty Thoughts

The experience of life cannot but inspire one with some of his own creations in thinking; sad is he who never derives a thought that does not emerge from his brain alone. In the country we often speak of a face as wrinkled as a prune, or of a person being as clumsy as an old cow or as black as a coal miner, these descriptions bespeaking our surroundings. And so with a philosophy, wise or foolish:

It is easier to live without prejudices than with them. Hate consumes energy.

If you take a book to the supermarket now, you may be able to read a whole chapter by the time you get through the check-out line.

What a disaster if we should ever be at war with Brazil! American industry would shut down for lack of time for coffee breakers.

And we thought life was getting expensive when cokes went up to ten cents!

You can tell it's a rat race after you have hurriedly counted out ten oranges at the store instead of twelve.

My friend's son says there is no sense in having to, too, and two in English. If everyone used only one form, we all would save confusion.

That locust has a right to harass our ears. If you kept quite for seventeen years at a time, you certainly would be talking.

When you are really educated, you must be smart enough to avoid showing all that you know.

As I wield my garden hoe, I recall reading that hoe culture is the most primitive form of agriculture.

Young boys and colts need a wise mixture of both hard taps and gentle words.

Severe punishment is what you experience when you go to the dance with a fine orchestra and have sprained your ankle.

At the end of the driveway is the name, Cain. Why doesn't that family christen their place "Not Abel?"

Curbing Pollution . . . .

Every person in America causes on average a ton of polluting wastes every year. The car you drive, the truck bringing your food, the plane you fly all add up to it.

All America seems to be on an ecology kick and there are as many sources of pollution as there are people. We have had an Earth day. TV grinds out spectaculars. Photo stories flood the press. Politicians call meetings and sometimes pass laws about it. If words were capable of cleaning the air and water we would have attained ecological purity months ago. Action isn't quite that simple, according to an editorial in the Industrial Press Service.

Industry and government are spending millions to clean up the environment. Much more is needed. But who made it dirty in the first place? And who must pay for the cleaning? The answer is simple: people.

If each of us, every day, thinks about the problems of clean air and water and litter prevention, and do something about them, then we will begin to make progress. Pollution and its cure, like so much else, begins at home.

We are the ones who can keep America beautiful. It is certainly worth trying!

Dr. Harvey Starts Area Practice

A new orthopedic surgeon has begun practice in Cumberland.

Dr. Harvey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell W. Harvey, Gorman, is a 1954 graduate of Southern High School, Oakland. He attended Potomac State College, Keyser, in 1954-56 and the University of Maryland School of Pharmacy in 1956-57.

In 1959 he graduated from George Washington University with a bachelor of science degree in zoology. He entered the medical school there and graduated in 1963. At GW he was a member of the William Beaumont research group and the Kane King Obstetric Society. In his senior year he won a top orthopedic award. He served his internship in surgery at George Washington University Hospital and a one-year residency in general surgery at the District of Columbia General Hospital.

From 1965 to 1967 he served as an orthopedic surgeon in the U. S. Navy, stationed at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola,

Two Injured In Preston Wreck

Gary Gilbert Upole, route 2, Oakland, was listed in critical condition at Morgantown hospital in Morgantown following an accident last Wednesday morning at 11:55. The accident occurred one half mile east of W. Va. 92 on the Bird's Creek road connecting with route 26.

He was taken to the hospital and Charles Weimer, also Oakland, was admitted to Preston Memorial hospital after the 1965 GMC tractor-trailer in which they were riding went off the road and upset. The tractor was totally demolished. West Virginia State police investigated.

Appeal Filed By Union To Offset Judges Opinion

An appeal against the decision of Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill in dismissing a bill of complaint filed by Local Union, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes and Wellington J. Sowers, Ernest Friend and George Vitez, was filed in the Circuit Court last Thursday.

The Order of Court of Judge Stuart Hamill was entered on the docket on June 3 and attorneys for the union had 30 days in which to file the appeal. Filing was made on July 2 by William E. Engelman and Herbert J. Belgrad, attorneys for the plaintiffs.

The bill had requested the court to grant a declaratory decree declaring that the County Commissioners had acted in an unconstitutional, illegal and unlawful manner in discriminating against the workers and the union.

It was the opinion of the court that the strike instigated by the road workers was an illegal strike and that "by refusing to report for work at a time designated by the County Commissioners, the said commissioners were justified in discharging them."

Channel Catfish Caught in Lake

A huge channel catfish measuring 31 inches in length and weighing sixteen pounds and two ounces, was caught in Deep Creek Lake Monday by Merle E. Miller, Youngstown, Ohio, who was vacationing in the area.

This was a surprise for the lake fishermen, who considered it the first channel catfish ever caught in Deep Creek waters. There have been some catfish but they are different from channel catfish.

The Youngstown visitor struggled with the fish for one hour and forty-five minutes and he indicated that had it not been for a son Jimmy, he might not have landed the fighter into the boat. The fish was caught in the Red Run area on a worm.

Mr. Miller is staying at Vann's Mobile village.

A WHOPPER—A huge channel catfish measuring 31 inches in length and weighing sixteen pounds and two ounces, is shown, caught in the Red Run area of Deep Creek Lake by Merle E. Miller, of Youngstown, Ohio, this is the first known channel catfish to be caught there. It was reported this week that some of these channel fish were dropped in cakes of ice from an airplane as an experiment, and that some apparently had survived.

"The Mousetrap" Is Second Offering At Summer Theatre

But citizens shouldn't be alarmed. The Garrett County Playhouse is rehearsing for "The Mousetrap," second production of the eight-week summer stock season. The Agatha Christie mystery classic opens Tuesday, July 14, and continues through Saturday, July 18.

The play first opened in London in 1952, and has run continuously ever since.

Giles Ralston and his wife Molly have all in readiness for their first guests, when a heavy snow storm strands them in total isolation. Detective Sergeant Trotter arrives on skis to inform the uneasy group that Scotland Yard has traced a dangerous murderer to Monkswell Manor.

The murderer's signature tune is "Three Blind Mice." The guests include a young architect, Christopher Wren, a Miss Casewell who seems to have no past, an aging martinet who nurses grudges, and a retired army officer. A mysterious foreigner, Mr. Paravicini, also takes refuge,

Black Bear Seen Around the Lake

A black bear, estimated to weigh in the neighborhood of two hundred pounds, was seen by various persons on Monday around Deep Creek Lake.

The trek of the bear from the Deep Creek State Park to Swallow Falls occurred shortly after 10 o'clock a. m. First it was seen swimming across the lake from the state park, landing at Bill's Marina, adjacent to Glendale bridge. It crossed the highway, going by Aza Stanton's home, then disappearing in the woods, to reappear around the drive-in, near the Harvey filling station. It then disappeared into the woods again, apparently heading for the Swallow Falls area.

No one attempted to stop the animal and it made no move to harm anyone.

Capitol Comment

By Charles McC Mathias

George Washington's Advice Is Worthy of Review

As always, I looked forward to the celebration of Independence Day, July 4th, 1970. The Fourth is an old-fashioned day when families get together, when communities meet, when all Americans look back on the glorious history that has brought the United States to its position of world leadership. It is also a time to think about maintaining the independence which was bequeathed to us by our forefathers.

In thinking about the Fourth of July, I reviewed George Washington's farewell address, one of the documents which seems closely related to the revolutionary period although it followed the revolution by a number of years. In this address, made as he was leaving the Presidency and all public life, Washington gave a number of pieces of sound advice to the American people. One of them dealt with keeping ourselves, as he put it, "by suitable establishments on a respectable defensive posture." Just what should we be doing to keep ourselves on a respectable defensive posture in the years ahead? For there is no doubt that we will have to have a strong America if we are to maintain our position in the world.

Events in recent years have made it impossible to follow Washington's advice that we have little or nothing tc do with the rest of the world. Our strength, wealth, and commercial activity place us face to face with every nation of the world. It is therefore more necessary than ever that we should follow very carefully Washington's advice that we keep ourselves in a "respectable defensive posture."

Our defense establishment must be kept ready and strong. However, ready and strong doesn't mean that we have to over build the Defense Department. We are now far ahead of any other nation in the world in military capacity. Not only do we have a greater variety of weapons but we have them in greater depth than any other nation. I do not believe that any other country in the world can compete with us militarily. This is a position that America should occupy, but that does not mean we should not consider the other elements of strength for security in the future. We should not over build the defense establishment and we should not over spend for defense hardware, for when we do we are giving a greater priority to the purely military side of defense than may be necessary.

We must remember that America's first line of defense in the years ahead will be the minds of bright young Americans who will be taking over the defense problems of the future. A front line of defense today is in our classrooms. We must insure that young Americans are able to get the best possible education because that is where our future security lies.

The health of our citizens is important and we should be insuring that the great health services which American medicine has developed can be extended to all Americans. In education, health, housing, and other social services, we must be strong if the nation is to be strong. As we are able to meet the housing, education and dietary needs of all Americans, we will be able to strengthen internally the fibers of the country.

I am sure George Washington would be pleased that the country he helped found now leads the world in practically every area of human activity, but I think all of us would do well to read again George Washington's farewell address and take to heart his counsel on maintaining the unity and the liberty of the people of the United States.

McHENRY

The annual all day meeting will be held at the Oak Grove church, Sunday, July 12. Basket lunch will be served at noon with a program beginning at 2.

Review of The Play

WOW—Gene Yell and summer arrived on the Mt. Top and both are most welcome. Gene opened the Garrett County Playhouse Tuesday night for the 16th year with "You Know I Can't Hear You When The Water's Running." An opening night audience became hilarious from the beginning to the end of the four short plays making up this show. From the show's theme, sex is here to stay, and one can see why this show was one of Broadway's most successful comedies. The directing and acting in this show indicate that theatre goers on the Mt. Top will have theatre at its best this year.

Robert Nesbitt, who acted at the local Playhouse in 1966, and who has just completed his MFA in directing at the Goodman Theatre School of Drama, directs this Play as well as all the plays this season. After witnessing HIS theatre touch, we are in for a successful season.

The cast this year is most exciting. Some of the "veteran" G.C.P. cast, includes Jana Hahn, her second year at the Playhouse. Jana in two of the four plays shows much improvement in a year, is most pleasant to watch. Susan Stoner is here for her fourth year, and Susan is at her delightful best in this show. Finally, the last of the returnees, Milburn Mehlhop, back for his sixth year, shows why he is one of the GCP favorites. Milburn gives himself 100 percent of himself at all times.

The newcomers this year give the Playhouse the best cast this writer has seen in many a year. Tony Bruskas is excellent and should he continue in show business, will go far. David Cramer is another excellent actor. Both Bruska and Cramer deliver their lines well, with good time. A very pretty addition to the cast this year is Marsha Wischusen. Marsha is very talented and adds a lot to this play as she will to the rest of the season. The lighting is expertly handled by Sean Spriggs, and Fred Edwards as stage manager, manages to change the props as fast as we have ever seen.

The first play, "The Shock of Recognition," has Dave Cramer as the playwright, Tony Bruskas as the producer, Jana Hahn, secretary, and Milburn Mehlhop as an actor who will do almost anything to get the part. I say almost anything but, well, you have to see the "but."

The second act or play, "The Footsteps of Doves," is a delightful play about an older married couple, debating about the use of twin beds or the old fashioned double bed. The married couple are Susan Stoner and Milburn Mehlhop with Tony Bruskas as the salesman and Marsha Wischusen as a recently divorced woman. The conversation by all should make all married men think twice before allowing their wives to buy twin beds.

The third, "I'll Be Home for Christmas," handled adequately by Dave Cramer, Susan Stoner and Jana Hahn, made this writer glad he only had one child to talk with before she reached adulthood.

The last, "I'm Herbert," is a tremendous play, with two characters, Milburn Mehlhop and Marsha Wischusen. At the ripe age of 70 or older, how forgetful can one be. Is it Herbert, George or Bernie or Muriel, Grace or Mary? You see it and then decide.

A wonderful opening show at the Garrett County Playhouse To Gene Yell goes our grateful thanks for giving up his summers to come to Garrett County and bringing us this additional culture. We hope that Gene and Barbara come back to this Mountaintop another 16 years.

Major Work Under Way At The Wisp

An ambitious construction program is under way at the Wisp, the all-year round recreation area and resort along Deep Creek Lake, at McHenny.

Tentatively scheduled to be ready for occupancy by Labor Day is a 50-unit two-story masonry motel located next to the main lodge.

Also being built is an indoor swimming pool between the main lodge and the motel.

A third project, adjcent to the main lodge on the floor level quarters, will be handball, squash and paddle tennis courts, health room, sauna baths and locker room.

On top of this will be a patio for summertime use.

A spokesman for the corporation that owns The Wisp said the fourth project will contain additional meeting and dining room halls, another ski rental shop and an administrative section.

To accommodate the additional users of the expanded resort, an adequate sewage treatment plant is being built.

While the motel is to be done by Labor Day, the other facilities are to be in operation by the beginning of the ski season.

The Wisp has experienced steady growth each year since its beginning.

The aim of the corporation is to set up a year-round program, fully coordinated with the recreational needs of the section.

In keeping with the growth, the parking space has been tripled. The motel will have its own parking area.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Charles Rush, who passed away one year ago July 9, 1969.
One year ago God called you home
How much we miss you yet.
The empty chair you left with us, will grace your presence here today.
We'll bow our heads in silent prayer
Our hearts are filled with pride, to know that God has chosen you to live there by his side.
So we will try to be content, we know that you're at rest.
For God works only for our good and does things for the best.
The thought comes back each day with meaning deep and true.
How much joy and happiness along life's way there was because of you.
That made our lives worth while, but there is one consolation, and we all know that is so true.
That in God's house of mansions, a place was made for you.
Sadly missed by Wife,
Children and Grandchildren

Listen, Americans!

By DR. GEORGE S. BENSON
President—National Education Program
Searcy, Arkansas

An interview with Howard K. Smith, ABC newsman, was published in TV Guide Feb. 28. Mr. Smith, in a series of statements that ought to shock the TV networks to their foundations, charged that his network and the others practice a left-wing bias in news handling that their emphasis in news reporting is "anti-American," and that "liberal' newspapermen describe revolutionaries and "militants" such as some of the "'Chicago 7" as "our children."

Mr. Smith is ABC's Washington-based "anchor man," former CBS European correspondent and winner of many journalism awards. Politically, he calls himself a "liberal." Here are some of his charges against individuals and news organizations responsible for giving the American people a true picture of world happenings:

1. "If Agnew says something, it's bad, regardless of what he says. If Ronald Reagan says something, it's bad, regardless of what he says. Well, I'm unwilling to condemn an idea because a particular man said it. Most of my colleagues do just that."

2. "The networks have never given a complete picture of the war. For example: that terrible siege of Khe Sanh went on for five weeks before newsmen revealed that the South Vietnamese were fighting at our sides, and that they had higher casualties. And the Viet Cong's casualties were 100 times ours. But we (TV networks) never told that. We just showed pictures day after day of Americans getting the hell kicked out of them. That was enough to break America apart. That's also what it did!" This is a significant charge: that unbalanced biased reporting on the Vietnam war "broke America apart." It could have set the stage for a victory for world Communism and a defeat for the United States.

3. A liberal senator "maneuvered the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution through—with a clause stating that Congress may revoke it. Ever since, he's been saying: "This is a terribly immoral thing." I asked him: 'If it's that bad aren't you morally obligated to try to revoke it?' He runs away! This liberal senator . . . "is not criticized for his want of character. He is beloved by reporters, by everyone of my group, which is left-of-center."

4. "The New Left challenges America. They're rewriting the history of the Cold War. Some carry around the Viet Cong flag. Some shout for Mao . . . They've become irrational! But they're not portrayed as irrational. Reporters describe them as our children." . . . If right-wing students had done what left-wing students have done, everyone, including the reporters, would have called in the police and beaten their heads in. But we have a left-wing bias now, that has 30 years of momentum behind it."

5. "The negative attitude (of the 'liberal' journalists) which destroyed Lyndon Johnson is now waiting to be applied to Richard Nixon. Johnson was politically assassinated! And some are trying to assassinate Nixon politically. They hate Richard Nixon irrationally."

Mr. Smith, worried by the power being exercised over news by "New Left" revolutionaries, says the remedy must come through public protest. "The networks have ignored this situation, despite years of protest," he says, "because they have power." He believes, however, that sufficient public protest can force the establishment of a "fair" and honest handling of news and comment.

Earns Music Grant

Thomas Magruder 111, Hagerstown, has been awarded a Rockefeller foundation grant to participate in the 1970 Teachers' Performance Institute at the Oberlin, Ohio, College Conservatory of Music from July 6 to August 1.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Albert Magruder, of near Westernport, Mr. Magruder teaches string instruments and orchestra in the Hagerstown public schools. He is first cellist in the Potomac Symhouy orchestrar which he helped to organize in 1968. Presently he is music director of the Myersville Church of the Brethren. He was an active member of a Garrett County 4-H club while a student at Bruce high school, several years ago.

At the institute an orchestra of some 90 pieces and a 100-voice chorus will be organized from among the participants and will present a public concert each week. In addition, participants will engage in the preparation and preformance of chamber music under coaching of the Oberlin Conservatory faculty.

Mr. Magruder will be playing cello in chamber groups and in the TPI orchestra under direction of George Trautwin associate conductor of the Minneapolis orchestra.

A graduate of Bruce High school and Western Maryland college, Westminster, Mr. Magruder completed his graduate work at West Virginia university. He has done additional study at the Eastman school of Music and Rutgers university. Last summer he studied at the Aspen Music Festival, Aspen, Colo.

Political Issue . . .

For several years, the protracted "strike" of table grape workers against grape growers in California has periodically been highlighted in the news. The public has been urged to support a boycott of California table grapes. The true facts of the whole sad story strip away the misleading appearance of a righteous cause carried forward against odds in the grape fields.

The grape boycott is a political rather than an economic, issue through which consumers have been deprived of the right of free choice in the marketplace and a number of grape growers forced into bankruptcy. Moreover, calling the action in the grape fields a "strike" is a misnomer. Very few workers have rallied to the cause—perhaps only two percent of the total work force. During the years of the "strike", table grapes have continued to be picked. The provisions of those contracts that some of the grape growers have signed with the organizers are chilling, contracts that incidentally were not submitted to a vote of the grape pickers. Among other things, a closed shop is imposed, no provision is made for elections or worker determination of any kind, and no one can be discharged for incompetence. One clause requires continuation of the union contract as a condition of selling, leasing or transferring the owner's property. There is much more in a similar restrictive vein.

The threat to agriculture and to the future of food and fiber production, posed by the pressures exerted against California table grape growers, is beyond calculation. In recognition of the threat, aspokesman for the American Farm Bureau Federation declares, "We will work towards legislation that will protect farmers against political boycotts and strikes at harvest time; and that will protect farm workers in the selection or rejection of union representation in federally-supervised secret ballot elections." It is time that millions of consumers knew the facts about the California table grape "strike".—Industrial News Review.

Loch Lynn, Deep Creek Are Victors

Loch Lynn and Deep Creek won doubleheaders Sunday and continued to run neck and neck in the Garrett County Softball League.

Gary Hollingsworth and Steve Perrine hurled Loch Lynn over Mt. Lake Park at Loch Lynn 5 to 3 and 3 to 0, while Roger Glotfelty and Glenn DeWitt hurled Deep Creek to 6-1 and 8-3 victories over Kitzmiller.

In the 6th inning of the first game at Loch Lynn Jack Jones, Ronald Wotring and Gary Skipper of Mt. Lake executed a triple play. Gary Baker collected three of Loch Lynn's 14 hits. Darrell Kitzmiller's triple was among Mt. Lake's 11 safeties.

Mike Friend got a triple and single for Loch Lynn and Darrell Kitzmiller rapped a pair of singles for Mt. Lake in the nightcap affair.

At Deep Creek Charles Kitzmiller and Bob Clutter had three hits each for Deep Creek in the opening game. In the second game Kitzmiller hit a grand slam homer and batted in six of his team's eight runs. Bill Evans hit a round tripper for Kitzmiller.

WASHINGTON AND Small Business

Printing a Cheaper Dollar

Unfortunately, most of the talk about economy in government is nothing much more than that, just talk. When the bureaucrats proudly announce dollar savings brought about by operational changes, the result is usually about as effective as trying to change a hurricane's path with a Japanese fan.

While pennies are saved one place, millions are squandered elsewhere. The Post Office, for example, has a plan to save some money. It involves painting all the corner boxes blue, instead of the present red-and-blue combination. Postal officials say each all-blue box will be $1.07 cheaper to maintain each year, compared with the two-tone receptacles.

The Post Office has operated so deeply in the red for so many years, despite rate increases, that red on the mail boxes seems quite appropriate. The resulting savings in the changeover will hardly make a dent in the Post Office's billion dollar a year deficit.

Remember when all the mail boxes were green? Plain, innocuous green. Then somebody in Washington decided they should be more colorful, so the mail drops were all painted over in red and blue. Now that "extravagance" has made possible today's "economy."

Those who want economy in government will also appreciate a change at the U.S. Treasury. Its Bureau of Engraving has decided to reduce its printing costs by not making any more $5 U. S. Notes. These bills, not to be confused with Federal Reserve Notes which account for most of our currency, were first issued during the Civil War, and for many years, the only new ones printed have been issued to replace worn-out U. S. Notes.

Now the economy plan is to stop printing $5 U. S. Notes entirely. Instead, the Treasury will print one $100 note to replace every 20 five-dollar bills turned in. Besides the money saved on the press run, the government figures that the one hundreds will circulate longer and be retired at a slower pace than the fives, thus reducing the costs of handling bills.

A good idea. But since most of the vintage $5 U. S. Notes are in collector's hands and likely to stay there, the savings cannot be very impressive.

Some really worthwhile savings might be gained by extending this idea to all U. S. currency. Instead of printing so many one-dollar Federal Reserve Notes, one-tenth as many ten-dollar bills could be printed. And instead of fives and twenties, a lesser number of hundreds could be printed.

The way inflation is running, the ones and fives will be obsolete soon enough. The old quip has been changed to "What this country needs is a good five-dollar bill."

If the treasury saves a little money while printing greenbacks—so much the better. This kind of "cheaper dollar" certainly has more appeal than the one being produced by inflation.

As was promised when the Cambodian operation was initiated all American troops have been withdrawn as of June 30, 1970. Since the last of our 32,000 men came out of Cambodia to make the deadline, it might be helpful now to evaluate this operation in its entirety.

The essential question to be asked is: did we succeed in accomplishing our tactical objective, namely to eliminate long-standing Communist sanctuaries and supply bases just across the border from which the enemy has mounted countless attacks against American and Allied forces in South Vietnam, and by so doing, to protect American and South Vietnamese troops so that the program of Vietnamization could proceed more expeditiously.

Based on the latest figures available, the answer is yes. Information released last week by the Department of Defense indicates that the Cambodian operation has succeeded very well with regard to the tactical objective.

When we entered Cambodia we expected to find communications networks and supply bases, bunkers and other fortifications, food supplies, arms, ammunition, military vehicles and so on. In short we expected to discover and deprive the enemy of a vital part of his logistic lifeline—and we did. Furthermore, we did it at the beginning of the rainy season which means that it will be many months before the Communists can even begin to rebuild and resupply these now nearly impassable jungle areas.

The list of destroyed fortifications and captured supplies and equipment is long indeed. Over 11,600 bunkers and military structures were eliminated and 55 tons of medical supplies were captured. A total of 435 vehicles, 167 boats, 49 generators and 248 radios were removed from enemy bases.

Over 15 million rounds of ammunition of all types were seized—about what the enemy has fired into South Vietnam during the past year. Almost 23,000 individual weapons were found and removed—enough to equip about 74 full-strength North Vietnamese infantry battalions. In addition, over 2,500 crew served weapons such as mortars and machine guns were taken—enough to supply about 25 full-strength battalions.

Rice, the enemy's main food staple, was taken in the amount of 14 million pounds, a quantity which could sustain for about 4 months all the enemy combat battalions estimated to be in South Vietnam.

The number of rockets, mortars, and recoilless rifle rounds captured—a total of 143,000— is enough to stage attacks on bases in South Vietnam for 14 months at the enemy's usual rate of fire. Other munitions seized include 199,552 anti-aircraft rounds, 5,482 mines, 62,022 grenades, and 83,000 pounds of explosives, including 1,002 satchel charges.

This impressive list of statistics has a profound significance for our propects in Southeast Asia. To begin with, they indicate that we have eliminated an immediate threat to our forces and the security of South Vietnam so that future American and Vietnamese casualties should be reduced considerably.

From over 6 tons of captured documents we have obtained conclusive proof that the Communists had relied on the area of Cambodia we entered as a secure logistic and troop infiltration corridor, immune from attack. By breaking up these Communist strongholds, we have undoubtedly disrupted Hanoi's strategy in the Saigon and Mekong Delta areas of South Vietnam. As a result, the enemy's potential capability to mount a major offensive in these vital areas has been greatly diminished.

The Cambodian operation has given us valuable time—time in which to consolidate and continue, with less enemy harassment, the efforts of Vietnamization which will, of course, lead to the withdrawal of all American combat troops from Southeast Asia.

I think is should be obvious now that the President of the United States along with those of us who serve in the Congress, is quite anxious that our military involvement in Southeast Asia is brought to an end. The decision to send American forces into Cambodia took a lot of courage and hopefully, the result of this operation will mean a quicker realization of our objective of securing a peaceful settlement in this struggle.

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

Exit Mr. Finch

In relieving Robert H. Finch of his Cabinet-level post as Secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, President Nixon has taken long overdue action. Mr. Finch was more mindful of the opinion of holdover liberals in his department than he was of the wishes of an increasingly conservative electorate.

While Mr. Finch has been assigned to the White House, the presidential action clearly constitutes a demotion for Mr. Finch. He is likely to fade from public sight. Unable to manage the unruly HEW staff, his advice to the President surely won't count for much.

In deftly sidetracking the unpopular Finch, Mr. Nixon also has created an opportunity for reform of that swollen federal department. Whether Elliott Richardson, the new nominee for the post of Secretary, is the man to institute the necessary reforms is another question. Mr. Richardson does not belong to the conservative wing of the Republican party.

For many months Mr. Finch irritated parents and local school officials by his attitude towards the public schools. He seemed determined to follow in the path of his Democratic predecessor at HEW in trying to impose unreasonable formulas on school boards. It seems reasonable to suppose that Mr. Finch's arrogant and unreasonable attitude was a contributing factor in the recent Alabama election in which former Governor George Wallace won a term as governor. With Mr. Finch out of the way, the Nixon administration is in a better position to strengthen its position among the voters. What Mr. Richardson does will affect the political situation, of course. Hopefully, Mr. Nixon has instructed Mr. Richardson to pay greater heed to the voice of the people.

In recent weeks, Mr. Finch seemed to completely lose control of his department. Employes of HEW took part in protests and issued demands to their boss. They were rude and abusive because he did not accept their dictation. Mr. Finch suffered humiliation.

Thus one of the first tasks of the new Secretary of HEW is to restore authority within the department. Staff members must be made to understand that employment by the federal government is a privilege, not a right. A government department cannot be run by employe juntas. Nor should the taxpayers tolerate political agitation by federal employes. Those employes of HEW who won't act in the manner of respectable, responsible staff members should be removed from government service. As a matter of fact, a real good housecleaning of the HEW staff is a priority item. Mr. Finch inherited a department packed with liberals antagonistic to the Nixon program.

Beyond that, however, the need is for dismantling of costly and hurtful programs. For example, the administration erred seriously this past winter when it declined to go along with the proposal of Senator George Murphy (R-Calif) to place the controversial Neighborhood Legal Services Program under state authority. The NLSP is part of the Office of Economic Opportunity, itself one of the most controversial HEW operations.

The kind of turmoil HEW is experiencing can be seen in the Neighborhood Legal Services Program. This program is supposed to aid poor people who can't afford lawyers. In actuality NLSP lawyers engage in harassing suits aimed at local government agencies and private business.

Early in June a typical NLSP uproar took place in the Washington office of that program. Two lawyers in the program, who had been transferred to other posts, defied government notices to vacate their offices. One of the anti-poverty agency lawyers complained that there had been a memorandum from higher authority requiring NLPS lawyers to get "supervisory" approval before filing lawsuits.

What's really incredible is that bands of federally-funded NLSP lawyers should be turned loose, with taxpayers' money, to file suits indiscriminately. If Mr. Richardson wants to earn the respect of thinking citizens, he should move promptly to bring the NLSP lawyers under firm control.

In briefing Mr. Richardson for his new job, the President could do nothing better than quote from his speech of April 25, 1968. He strongly criticized Federal welfare programs and said: "They create a permanent caste of the dependent, a colony within a nation." HEW, under Mr. Finch,, lavished favors on that "colony"—at taxpayer expense. The productive majority of citizens very clearly wants HEW to end favoritism towards the non-workers and to try to find ways to reduce, not expand, the department's operations. It is to be hoped that Mr. Richardson understands and intends to be responsive to the desires of the taxpaying public.

Congressm'n Urges Passage of Bill To Finance Dam

On the floor of the House of Representatives, Congressman J. Glenn Beall, Jr., (R-6th-Md.) called last Wednesday for the swift passage of a Public Works appropriation bill which includes funds for the construction of the Bloomington Dam to serve Western Maryland.

Representative Beall pointed out that the legislation would provide $4.8 million in fiscal year 1971 for the initial construction of the Bloomington Dam and Reservoir, to be located on the North Branch of the Potomac River. He said that the project, which is designed to meet projected demands on the North Branch through 1990, would "lead to the improvement of water quality and to the augmentation of water supply to many thousands of people who border on this body of water." Mr. Beall added that "construction has been long awaited by people in the Metropolitan Washington area as well."

"This dam will be of great benefit because of its recreational, economic and environmental consequences," said the 6th District representative and "it will provide almost certain elimination of the threat of flood." He reported that the Potomac has experienced six major floods since 1924 and that "a recurrence of the flood of record would cause estimated damage in excess of $8.2 million."

Congressman Beall reported Thursday that the Public Works Appropriation Bill passed the House of Representatives without a dissenting vote.

PLEASE BE FAIR TO YOUR HAIR

Just as in many other phases of life, where we only get one chance, so it is with our natural head of hair. Everyday care; shampooing, conditioning, brushing, etc., is most important if hair is to stay healthy, and of course careful attention to any scalp condition is a must.

There are many products available, some on a doctor's prescription, that can help keep hair healthy by controlling even a severe dandruff crusted scalp condition. But, beware of "Baldness Cure," quacks and rely on your physician to help you with any scalp or hair problems.

Sermonette By Area Ministers

Do You Know Jesus Christ Or Know About Him?

On the surface this may not seem to be too important a question. But if we would take time to probe beneath the surface appearance, it is a very important question. For, to know about Christ will not suffice.

Satan, the arch enemy of man, knows perhaps more about Christ than any one man alive today; but he does not really know Him.

I believe the Bible teaches that to know Christ is to love Him, and to love Him is to serve Him. There are multitudes of people today that know about Christ, but very few who really know Him personally. The Bible says in I John 2:3-4, "And hereby we do know that we know Him, if we keep His commandments. He that saith, I know Him, and keepeth not His commandments, is a liar and the truth is not in Him."

And again in Titue 1:6 we read, "They profess that they know God, but in works they deny Him." Again Jesus said in St. Matthew 7:16, "Ye shall know them by their fruits (Works.)"

Now keeping these thoughts in mind, let me say there are two primary ways we come to know Jesus Christ; one is thru prayer and the other is thru the Bible, the Word of God. Jesus told the people of His day in St. Matthew 22:29, "Ye do error not knowing the scriptures nor the power of God."

Again Jesus said in John 5:39, "Search the Scriptures. For in them ye think ye have eternal life and they are they which testify of me."

What I am trying to say is this: We need to quit reading so many books about the Bible and Jesus and begin to read the Bible itself; after all it is God the Father's revelation of Jesus Christ His Son. There are multitudes of people today in America and other educated societies that feel they are Christians just because they do not live in a heathen or un-educated country. But if they would read the Bible they would find this message, "All have sinned, and come short of the glory of God." Romans 3:23. The educated as well as the un-educated, the rich as well as the poor, the good as well as the bad; ALL. Again in Romans 6:23 we read, "The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

No, my friends, being educated, being good, belonging to a church, giving to charity, etc. will not give you eternal life and get you into the kingdom of God. These are well and good in their place but not sufficient for soul salvation.

You ask, what then must I do and again the Bible has the answer in St. John 3:3, Jesus said, "Except a man be born again he cannot see the kingdom of God." My friend, Religion is man made and almost all people have it; Soul Salvation comes from God and few know about it, and even fewer have found it. St. Matthew 7:14 states, "Straight is the gate and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it."

My friends, I beg you, read the Bible, the fountain head of all Wisdom, Knowledge and Truth; and you will come to know Jesus Christ personally and not just know about Him.

TREE HOUSE

There is joy in the tree house nestled high in the boughs . . . for the boys climbing up to play in it . . . for the adults remembering the golden afternoons of their own childhood.

Sometimes grownups say wistfully, "I wish I were that age again." But do they really wish it? Being a child is wonderful, but maturing can be a painful process.

Help your children enjoy the precious childhood hours — never forgetting that they must grow up. Remember you have a never-ending source of guidance. The church will help your children preserve the spirit of youth and give them the wisdom, courage and faith that will sustain them through the rest of their lives.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE OLDEST RIVALRY?

Lesson for July 12, 1970

Background Scripture: Genesis 1 through 2; Isaiah 40: 12, 21:26; 1 Corinthians 8:4-6; Hebrews 1:1-4. Devotional Reading: Jeremiah 32:16-25.

Asked to name the "oldest college rivalry in the United States," a contestant on a television quiz show with tongue-in-cheek answered, "Science versus religion!"

Unfortunately there is all too much truth in that statement. In the minds of many people, whether on or off college campuses, science and religion are irreconcilable enemies who, when they are not doing battle, exist Rev. Althouse by simply ignoring the existance of each other.

Some of God's best friends . . .

This picture, however, is simply not accurate. Many scientists are also practicing Christians or subscribers to some meaningful religious faith. They see no necessary conflict between these two perspectives of life. In fact, many of these, because of what they know of science, are even more deeply committed to a faith.

Many Christians—and others—have been deeply influenced and helped by the work of a Jesuit priest who was by profession a brilliant biologist. Pierre Teilhard de Chardin, not only found no inherent contradiction between his faith and his science, but, in fact, found that each spoke to the other. His scientific beliefs enhanced his faith and his faith enriched his science.

The more his science revealed about the world, the more Teilhard was awed at the thought of the God who had created such a world. Many of us today share his wonder as we learn of the marvels in the world about us: the intricacy of the "genetic code," the power in the laser beam, the wonders of the tiny atom, etc.

The ancient Psalmist had cried:

When I look at thy heavens,
the work of thy fingers,
the moon, and the stars which thou has established;
What is man that thou art
mindful of him . . .
(Psalms 8:3,4a)

Today we are no less awed when we consider the universe. The telescope at Mt. Palomar enables men to photograph planets over one billion light years away. What this means in miles is equivalent to 186,000 (miles per second) times 60 seconds times 60 minutes times 24 hours times 365 days times 1,000,000,000 years. We haven't the slightest idea how many stars or planets there are. We can well understand a certain astronomer who, when he was asked how he could believe in God, replied, "I keep enlarging my idea of God." Many of us today are finding that science continues to force us to enlarge our idea of God!

Very good!

As Teilhard contemplated the world he seemed to find it telling him that in its five to ten thousand million years of existance, even from its very beginning, it followed a "unidirectional trend," it evidenced a purpose toward which it is moving. Not that he was alone in that conclusion. Dr. Kirkley Mather of Harvard has said, "We live in a universe, not of chance or caprice, but of law and order," and Albert Einstein, hardly a religionist in the ordinary sence of the term, also observed: "Certain it is that a conviction akin to religious feeling, of the rationality or intelligibility of the world lies behind all scientific work of a higher order."

"And God saw everything that he had made, and behold, it was very good" (Genesis 1:31). Teilhard teaches nuclear age man to look at the world which God has made and recognize with him that it is "very good" because it bears the stamp of the Creater of the Cosmos.

"Childlike" Desire???
Rita Shrout

Suppose we were to die tomorrow. Could we die content in the knowledge that we'd lived a full life? Would we really believe we had accomplished something? Could we truthfully swear to a meaningful existence? I am afraid that I couldn't. Unfortunately, I believe that I'm only one among millions who couldn't; one among millions who fail to live full, accomplished, meaningful lives. We merely exist, following our normal day-to-day routines. Existing for what? Undoubtedly, in our conscientious moods, as our minds flow in philosophical veins, we ponder the realms of existence and vow to improve our lives. We decide to abandon jealousy, hatred, and anger! We aim to crush status seeking impulses and deprive ourselves of degenerate amusements and meaningless trivia! We say, "On to self-control, self-improvement, acceptance, and brotherhood" But we emerge from our dreams to watch the big game on TV and scream at the kids playing in the next room.

What has happened to us? Are we abandoning our minds to reality? Can't our idealistic dreams be real? We all can make those dreams of improvement come true. The simplicity of the matter is shocking! All we have to do is realize our innermost desires—what we want in life—and then put those dreams in action.

The ease of setting a goal is not unfamiliar to us. Even as children we set goals for ourselves: owning a bicycle, buying Mom's first birthday present, learning to drive a car, and it's still that simple! As children (if you remember), we didn't stop with one goal. As soon as the first was accomplished, we moved right on to the second one, and the third and fourth, and time passed quickly and, most importantly, joyfully.

Who's to say that if we could follow that same, simple, childlike procedure now, that our lives could not be happier—and more productive? I, for one, believe this to be the missing link in our chain of success. If we would expand to a new goal, (with each goal we reach), our lives would be spent achieving our innermost demands and desires. With this theory we would obviously die without accomplishing many of our goals—but this is insignificant. The ultimate happiness (and, if you will, success), is not found by the amount we achieve—it is discovered through the attempt to achieve.

Desire to End Vietnam War Prompts Tonkin Gulf Repeal

The overwhelming vote, 81 to 10, by which the United States Senate voted to repeal the Tonkin Gulf Resolution is a sure sign that the tide is turning. It is a sign that the Senate and the people of the United States are looking to an end to the war in Vietnam and to a restoration of the Constitutional system by which the people, through the Congress, participate in the development of foreign policy.

But if the tide is turned, it must be taken at the flood. We have to go forward with the other steps which Congress must take if it is to shoulder its full burden of responsibility in foreign and military affairs. We have to not only repeal the Tonkin Gulf Resolution, but we have to look at the other standing congressional resolutions which would be construed as giving the executive unusual war powers in various parts of the world. We have to examine the state of emergency which was proclaimed 25 years ago by President Harry S. Truman and which is still in effect and which activates over 150 separate war power statutes. We have to look to the kind of world in which we are going to be living in the future and we have to design a foreign policy which the Congress will help to make, in which the President will carry out his full constitutional prerogatives and powers and in which the will of the people and their desire is going to be clearly reflected.

All of this stems from the desires and intentions of the Founding Fathers. The men who wrote the American Constitution were all born as subjects of a king who had unlimited powers to make war, to impress or draft armies or navies, and who could order those armies and navies to fight against anyone whom he considered in his sole judgment to be his enemy. It was this kind of one-man power which was one of the grievances which led the American colonies to revolt. It was this kind of one-man power which was guarded against by the American Constitution when it clearly divided the power of war and peace and the power to make foreign policy decisions between the Executive and the Legislative branches of government. The President, as Commander-in-Chief, gives the operational orders to the armed forces, provides for their financing, makes the regulations under which they operate and sets the broad outline of policies within which the President acts. The President is the chief agent of foreign policy for the American people, but the Congress, and particularly the Senate, plays an historic constitutional role in its oversight of treaties, its confirmation of ambassadors and its general historic interest in the relations of this country with the rest of the world.

The overwhelming vote to repeal the Tonkin Gulf Resolution, joined staunch supporters of the Administration's Vietnam policy and those who at times have not supported the Administration. Many who voted for Tonkin Gulf five years ago pushed for repeal. I was glad to vote for repeal of the Tonkin Gulf Resolution and I hope that we can take the further steps so that Congress can resume its historic role in the nation's foreign and military policies.

Receives Citation For Egg Production

Harry E. Robeson, who resides on New Germany road, has been awarded a citation by Potomac Edison Power company for being one of the largest non-industrial users of electricity in the Tri-State area. He is also one of the largest producer-processors of eggs in Maryland.

Within a barn some 40 feet wide and 448 feet long are nearly two miles of cages containing 27,250 chickens.

Nearly every operation involving the hens and the six and one-half million eggs they lay every year is automated. From feeding the hens, cooling them, ventilating their roosts, to washing, sorting, grading and inspecting their eggs, everything is done electrically.

An augar-type feeder heads each row, electrically timed for two feedings a day. Mr. Robeson, 63, said they used to use a battery-operated feeder. A ton and a half of feed twice a day took one man four hours a day to feed the chickens. "Now," he says, "we just kick the switch and they are fed."

No electricity is used in heating the chicken house. Though the outside temperature is well below freezing through fall and winter months, inside, the body heat of the hens keeps the barn at a constant 60 to 70 degrees. But fifteen three-foot square ventilating fans are needed to circulate the air. If electricity would be lost the entire flock would suffocate within an hour, he pointed out.

The only egg operation not performed electrically, outside of laying, is "gathering," it was explained. Two women employes collect 1,300 dozen eggs daily. In the processing room five persons are employed to wash the eggs, inspect them over an X-raying mercury vapor candle for cracks and defects and then package them into 30-dozen cases.

With electricity it is possible to process and package 20 cases of eggs an hour, averaging 15,000 to 25,000 dozen eggs a week on the market.

There are only two local market outlets in Western Maryland area. The rest are carted to suburban Maryland for distribution to independent grocery stores.

Freeway Status Given By SRC Man

John D. Bushby, district State Roads commissioner engineer, last Thursday gave a report of the meeting of the Governor's Council on Appalachian Maryland.

Mr. Bushby described the status of four separate National Freeway projects in Allegany county which are under construction.

Work was expected to start last week on grading and draining of a 2.96 mile section from State route 36 to Garrett County line with cost of $3,453,811. Paving will start in fall of 1971.

In August bids are to be asked for a Freeway section from the Allegany county line to state route 546, including an interchange at Finzel road. Engineering plans are 50 percent complete on this project.

Roadway plans are 58 percent complete for a section of Pig's Ear road to state route 386, plans for a section from route 386 to route 582 are 15 percent complete, and plans for a third section from route 582 to a point west of Bear Creek are about 64 percent complete.

Bids for these three Freeway sections are to be advertised in the third quarter of 1971. During the second quarter of 1971 bids are to be asked for a bridge over the Youghiogheny river near Friendsville, Mr. Bushby stated.

Huge Recovery Boiler To Be Built At Luke

The general contract for construction of an $8,500,000 recovery boiler at Westvaco's Luke mill has been awarded to Tidewater Construction Company, Norfolk, Va.

The announcement by Luke Mill Manager Arthur L. Noble stated that Tidewater would start site preparation promply for the huge unit. Equipment is now moving on to the scene and demolition of existing structures began July 6.

Designed with a rated capacity of 1,000 tons per day of pulp, this unit will be one of the two largest recovery furnaces in the world. The other, equal in size, is already in operation at Westvaco's Charleston, S. C., mill. Present pulp mill capacity at Luke is 750 tons per day.

Erection of steelwork will continue during the winter months, then installation of equipment and machinery will begin. Startup of the big unit is scheduled for August 1972.

At the height of construction work next spring, some 300 workers are expected to be directly employed on installation of the new facility.

The recovery furnace will replace two existing recovery units that will be placed on standby status when the new installation becomes operable.

State Funds For Dam Authorized

The State of Maryland has been authorized to proceed with signing an agreement with the federal government committing its fair share in the costs of the Bloomington dam.

At a recent meeting of the regional committee on the Maryland Potomac Water authority in Washington, a unanimous vote was provided for the attorney general of Maryland to sign the agreement which also would be signatured by the secretary of the army acting in behalf of the Army Corps of Engineers, which is planning the dam.

The state and counties along the Potomac River are to pay a pro-rated share of $212,000 each year for the next 50 years.

Money will be realized from water user fees from industries, municipalities and other agencies which use the river water.

The first phase of construction would be the relocation of the Western Maryland railway tracks in the area of the dam site.

With the signing of the agreement by the state with the federal government, another agreement can be made by the government with the Western Maryland railway for the relocation project. At the Water Anthority meeting it was stated that the Bloomington dam could be completed by 1975 and at that time the 50 year payment schedule would go into effect. The payment schedule would be reviewed every three years for any adjustments.

Chaotic Welfarism . . . .

Editorial writers, and others, for a generation have been deploring the constantly rising cost and all-absorbing influence of welfare and its multitudinous recipients.

Everywhere the taxpayer turns, he sees, rising on all sides, the spectre of soaring government spending. Many government programs, at both local and national levels, are beyond administrative control. Schools, welfare, health care and other ostensibly worthy programs are devouring the substance of workers and producers.

Yet, "social spending" programs continue to multiply, often in an attempt to alleviate the very hardships which government spending deficit financing and inflation created in the first place.

Illustrative of the trend is a bill in the U. S. Senate which guarntees a family of four a $3,600 annual income. This one measure would cost about $20 billion annually. Measures such as this brought a stern warning from Representative Mahon, chairman of the House Appropriations committee. He said, "Unless some way can be found to rectify this situation, we are headed toward physical and economic chaos."

A colorful but deadly serious assessment of the situation was made by a publication of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in its paraphrase of a famous remark of Winston Churchill: 'Never have so few owed so much to so many."—wwc.

"Follow the Bear" Is New Sunday Afternoon Sport

By Carol Canan

No matter what animal year the Chinese may call 1970, local residents will probably refer to this as the "Year of the Bear."

Following the chase and killing of a black bear in Cumberland several weeks ago, there have been reports of bears, (or possibly a bear) in the Finzel and Meyersdale areas.

More recently, one was seen with a herd of cattle in the Underwood area; a mother and two cubs were spotted just off Route 219 near Silver Lake; and only last week one swam across Deep Creek Lake and ambled through yards, woods and fields to the drive-in theatre on Route 219 before disappearing.

And so it was just a matter of time before a bear was sighted in Oakland. Sure enough, a black bear was seen at approximately 10:15 last Sunday, just in time to provide an after-church diversion.

First seen by Barney Dunbar, Chis and Dan Donley, Hugh and Tim Shaffer, Chester Mosser and Curt Calhoun soon were following the animal.

Seemingly unworried by the attention, the bear lumbered across the railroad tracks just off Third Street extended, past the Oakland Lumber Company, by Bob's Mt. Top Tire, and into Mrs. Herbert C. Leighton's yard.

From there, the bear wandered onto the Court House lawn, shortly after which he was "treed" by Barney Dunbar. The animal scrambled down, however, when frightened by a dog, and resumed his tour, which led through yards and alleys and the cemetery.

Two wildlife officers, Leo G. Friend and Harry Miller, were among the group trailing the bear. The officers say that bears are protected by Maryland law, and that they will not harm anyone unless provoked.

State policeman S. R. Russell had by this time joined the crowd, more in an attempt to keep people from becoming too bold than to harm the bear.

After leaving the cemetery, the bear followed Wilson Run to a thicket on the Winters Dairy pasture just off Fourth Street. After a two-hour "nap", the beast made his way across the lane which connects High street with the Old Deer Park Road and went for a swim in the Winter's pond. Many people were lined up along the road at this point, waiting for a glimpse of the bear.

He next appeared in the back yard of the William Goldsborough home, and was last reported by Harold Cannon, who was near Crystal Spring. James Gower reportedly spotted a bear, possibly the same one, on King's Run Road later in the day.

Eyewitnesses said the bear appeared to be full-grown or nearly so, standing about three feet tall on all fours, and weighing about 300 pounds.

In view of the sighting of several bears, it may be time to note that the county tranquilizer gun and its various shells are in the office of Oakland Magistrate Robert M. Maroney.

If anyone can remember such a thing when the next bear is sighted. . .

Planning, Zoning Commission To Be Established

Group Will Assure Orderly Future Development Of Oakland

A five member Planning and Zoning commission for the Town of Oakland is provided for in an ordinance passed at the group's July 6 meeting. It would take effect immediately.

It was explained that such a commission is necessary if Oakland is to qualify for certain types of Federal and State aid, and to assure the orderly growth of the community.

The commission would have broad powers to regulate building activity, provide extension or relocation of streets and roadways, and in general create a long-range plan for future expansion.

According to the ordinance, the commission would be composed of one member of the Town Council and four persons to be chosen from local and area residents. Initially, they would serve for terms of one, two, three and four years, after which the normal term would be of five years' duration.

The group may appoint such employees as it considers necessary to carry out its purpose. It shall submit an annual budget in advance to the Council, and make an annual accounting of its activities and finances.

The ordinance, as well as two others, appear in full in today's issue of The Republican.

County Has Fifteen Of State Big Trees

Maryland has earned a new nickname, the "Big Tree State," having within its borders 53 national champion trees among the nearly 160 species for which records are kept by the State Department of Forests and Parks.

The Department is now updating its records on these big trees and requests the public to report outstanding specimans that might be included in its new compilation of giants.

While re-measurement and recalculation of these records is a continuing program, an immediate project in which public cooperation is solicited involves re-writing of a 1956 publication entitled "Big Tree Champions Of Maryland," written by the late Fred W. Besley, the Department's first State Forester, who served from 1906 to 1942.

Over the years since publication of the list of champs, more than half have been remeasured to reflect losses of old trees and new growth of younger specimens. At least a twenty percent change in the list is anticipated. The American chestnut, not classified in the 14-year old publication will be included in the revision.

Among the list of formerly recognized champions, 16 were at that time over 100 feet high, the tallest tree in the State being an Eastern Hemlock in Gorman, towering 127 feet.

Garrett County had fifteen champions. Garrett had the largest American Mountain Ash, Wild Crabapple, Sugar Maple, Wild Plum, Staghorn Sumac, Yellow Thorn and White Thorn, smooth alder yellow birch, eastern Hemlock, ironwood Hophornbeam, striped Maple, serviceberry, red Spruce, and witch Hazel.

The 1956 measurements of both state and national champions in this county include:

Smooth alder, 1'5" girth at 4 and one-half feet, 8' spread, 15' height, Grantsville; yellow birch, 8'6" girth, 44' crown spread, 80'

Old Timers To Fiddle Saturday At Friendsville.

Several former champions have again entered the "Old Time Fiddlers' Contest", to be held in the Town Park, Friendsville, Md., on July 18th, beginning at 8:00 P. M.

The contest, inaugurated in 1966, during the Town's 200th year, has become a traditional event, which draws thousands of visitors from a wide area in the Appalachian Mountains.

Fiddling women are scheduled to enter the contest, with 19 other masters of bow and strings..

The Rotary Anns will be at the refreshment center to serve in behalf of the Rotary Club.

All proceeds go to the needy an under privileged for a better community.

Who said you can't see the forest for the trees? Certainly not the 57 Garrett County teenagers who not only viewed the trees but also learned something of local forest management practices from State Foresters Chester Sewell and Myron Myers during a recent tour of the Pocomoke State Forest. Charles Strauss, Director of Outdoor Education, Garrett County Board of Education, was in charge of these well-behaved youngsters. Strauss explained that the Pocomoke State Forest tour and visits to numerous other points of interest throughout the Eastern Shore become reality because of a summer conservation program sponsored by the Garrett County School Board.

"I'll Get My Man" Playhouse Feature For July 21-25

Highlighting the third week of the Garrett County playhouse summer season at the Blue Barn Theatre is the English farce about a country vicar who wants to get married, his TV idol nephew who doesn't and several females of various ages who are determined to get their man.

"I'll Get My Man" by Philip King, opens July 21 at the Blue Barn and plays through Saturday, July 25, with an 8:30 curtain.

By the author of "See How They Run", and co-author of "Big . . . Bad . . . Mouse," (which the Players will stage in August) the comedy is complicated with a number of mistaken identities as the parson and his nephew keep switching disguises.

Heading the cast of nine is Milburn Mehlhop as The Reverend Arthur Humphrey and Susan L. Stoner as his martinet sister, with Tony Bruskas as their nephew, hero of "Venture Man." Their garrulous housekeeper is played by Jana Hahn.

Assorted man-chasing females in the cast include Marsha Wischusen as the Widow Barrington-Locke, Rita Shrout as Pixie (I'll get my Man") Potter and Betty Lashley as the delectable Josephine De Brissac. Cast as the Bishop of Lax, who drops in to meet the new vicar at the height of the melee is David Cramer.

Direction is by Robert Nesbitt with Gene Yell and Sean Spriggs in charge of the vicarage settings.

Continuing at the Blue Barn through Saturday this week is the Agatha Christie mystery classic "Three Blind Mice," a

Injuries, Damage Was Extensive

Injuries and extensive car damage occurred in four one-car accidents which happened in the small hours of the morning of different days. In four other accidents there were no injuries and damage varied from light to heavy. Information is from records in the office of the Maryland State Police, Oakland.

A one-car accident occurred on Glendale Road just east of Beckman's Peninsula Road at 2:50 a.m., last Sunday. Julian J. Davis, of Westernport, was driving west at an apparent excessive rate of speed and failed to negotiate a turn. He ran off the road onto the shoulder then back onto the road, across the center and onto the other side of the road. He then became airborne and landed overturned on the road. One of the passengers, Melaine Davis, was injured and taken to the Garrett County Memorial hospital in the Durst ambulance. The car was demolished. Davis was charged with reckless driving by Tfc. D.

Company C Named Honor Company at Summer Camp

"Honor Company," the highest honors given at annual National Guard camp at Camp A. P. Hill, Bowling Green, Va., were won this year by Company "C" of the 121st Engineer Battalion.

Headquarters Platoon and 3rd platoon are located in Oakland, while the first and second platoons are in Frostburg. Capt. Mahlon M. Yost, Oakland, commands the 116-man company.

This is the first time since 1958 that the area Guards were chosen as Honor Company.

Despite the nuisances of rain, mud, sand and ticks, the unit won awards for Best Drill Squad, under SSG Norman Snyder; Best Drill Platoon, under 2nd Lt. Donald Smith; Best Job Project, under Lt. Kenneth W. Metheny; and Best Aluminum Footbridge, under 1st Lt. Paul Hostetler.

Three area men also won individual honors. SSG Thomas Bittinger, Mt. Lake Park, won the title of best engineering soldier of the 121st Battalion for the second consecutive year. He was also Commander of the Color Guard, and carried the National Flag in all parades.

Sp/5 Jack Sowers, Rosedale, won the Best Motor Pool award, and SFC James Weeks, Loch Lynn, won the Best Mess (kitchen) award.

The men had arrived at Camp A. P. Hill Saturday, June 27, and set up camp in "Tent City," approximately 150 tents which held ten men each. On Monday and Tuesday all participants took refresher courses in their specific fields. The final three days of the first week were spent in training, which included the building of an obstacle which used 200 pounds of explosives, and the building of bridges and rafts of various kinds.

On Friday evening the commanding general of the Maryland National Guard was on hand to see the parade held then. Saturday after inspections and drill competition and Sunday were free, except for the unlucky mess and clean-up details.

On Monday the men moved into two-man pup tents in bivouac. Training continued, and included the clearing of obstacles, an infantry combat course on a firing range, and building of a vehicle raft. Friday morning the group was returned to Tent City, and spent the day in clean-up and pack-up operations. At 5:30 a. m. Saturday they moved out for home, their two-weeks' duty behind them for another year.

Upset Upsets Traffic

Traffic was tied up for a few hours Monday when a truck loaded with 14 tons of cement overturned on Keyser Ridge west of Grantsville.

The truck belonged to the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company.

No injuries were reported, and the biggest problem was said to be getting the vehicle back on its wheels.

Mrs. George Fulk is a patient in Garrett County Memorial hospital for tests and treatment.

Commissioner Asks State Aid In Road Case

Allen S. Paugh Requests Intervention To Solve Labor Problem

A member of the Board of County Commissioners yesterday appealed to Governor Marvin Mandel to provide help "on the State level" to conclude a work stoppage by county roads department workers, who have been on strike since April 7.

Allen S. Paugh, the commissioner, told The Republican yesterday he was personally interested in seeing the matter resolved "without bloodshed" and it was primarily for this reason that his request to the Governor was sent.

Paugh and the other two members of the board, John Ross Sines and Hubert Friend, have frequently been at odds regarding the matter. Core of the controversy is the refusal of the commissioners to recognize Local 1834, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Workers, as bargaining agent for the county employees. Paugh has leaned toward acceptance, but Sines and Friend have been adamant in their refusal to agree, calling the strike an illegal action which they could not condone.

Some 165 workers have been idle for more than three months, and during this time no work has been done on roads in the county system, and particularly because of the severe winter last year and early this year, most of the roads are pot-holed, rutted and washed out. Some accidents have been reported as a result.

Two weeks ago, the commissioners advertised in this newspaper for persons to accept employment with the roads department, and a number of applications have been received, but no hiring has been done.

The complete text of Commissioner Paugh's letter follows:

"Dear Governor Mandel: The Garrett County Roads Workers strike continues at a virtual impasse with the situation becoming increasingly critical. Frequent attempts have been made from various sources to negotiate a settlement. All of these have failed.

"As a member of the Board of County Commissioners, I am personally very much concerned that a settlement be reached. Therefore, I am requesting help on the State level to mediate this matter with all of the parties involved.

"The situation is urgent and I hope you could lend your immediate assistance.

"Respectfully, Allen S. Paugh, Garrett County Commissioner."

It can run the mile in 5¢ flat.

Who says a nickel won't buy anything anymore?

That solitary nickel pays for your gas. (Naturally.)

And oil. And tires. And maintenance. And repairs. And depreciation. And registration. And insurance.

And even some nifty accessories. (Like a radio. Floor mats. Luggage rack.)

Five cents.

That's all it takes to run the mile in a Volkswagen.

Of course if you want, you can run the mile in someone else's car.

But you'll never see the finish line on a nickel.

Because a U.S. Government study says the average conventional car costs more: 10.9 cents a mile.

A. Tucker.

James M. Ward, Irwin, Pa., was driving north on Sand Flat Road at 1 a.m., July 7, at an excessive rate of speed and failed to negotiate a curve. He ran off the road into a gutter, through a farm fence and came to rest upside down. His car was demolished and he was injured to the extent that he was taken to the Garrett County Memorial hospital by Tfc. D. A. Tucker. He was charged with driving at a speed too great for conditions.

In another one-car accident that occurred at 1 a.m., July 8, Donald G. Broom, Brunswick, Ohio, was traveling east on U. S. Route 40 west of Grantsville. As he started to round a curve a car coming west crossed the center line, causing him to leave the roadway and lose control of his car. He struck two poles and came to rest in a wooded area. A passenger, Donald G. Broom, Jr., was injured but was not taken to the hospital. The car was a total loss. No charges were made by Tfc. C. D. Skidmore.

In still another one-car accident, Joyce E. Simmons, Gormania, W. Va., traveling south on U. S. Route 219 north of Red House, ran off the road and struck a sign. She then recrossed the road, ran off the other side and through the fence and yard of Ernest Martin. The operator was thrown from her car as it crossed the road and was injured to the extent that she was taken to the Garrett County Memorial hospital by Cecil Simmons. Car damage was light. Joyce Simmons was charged by Cpl. Thomas E. Ruppert with reckless driving and operating on expired tags.

Joseph Swartzentruber, Oakland, was driving a farm tractor and trailer south on U. S. Route 219 near Blue Ribbon Road July 7, at 2 p.m. A State Road's crew was working on the road at that point and the flagman had signaled Swartzentruber to proceed south. At the same time a tractor-trailer driven by Terry L. Evans, Horse Shoe Run, W. Va., did not see the flagman in time and proceeded north crossing the center line and striking the farm tractor. Damage was light, there were no injuries, and no charges were made by Tfc. Dale K. Williams.

There were no injuries but heavy damage in a two-car accident on Bray School Road July 13, at 8:30 p.m. Thomas D. Hensley, Big Spring, was driving north on Bray School Road. A car driven by Thomas Skipper, Oakland, going south, crossed the center of the road and struck the Hensley car causing $1,000 damage to the latter. Skipper was charged by Tfc. Dale K. Williams with failing to keep to right of center of roadway.

Stephen M. Wenchel, Baltimore, was going east on Big Run Road near New Germany Road and had pulled too far to the right to allow a car driven by Gerald W. Boyer, Flintstone, to pass. Wenchel's car went over an embankment and came to rest against a tree. Wenchel was only slightly injured and damage to the car was about $500. There were no other injuries or damage and no charges were made by Tfc. Dane O. Whiteman.

One accident involved a State Trooper. Tfc. Donald A. Tucker was parked on the shoulder of U. S. Route 219 near Rock Lodge Road with 4-way blinkers going while in the process of investigating an accident which had happened previously. A car headed in the same direction and driven by Wilmer M. Hager, Oakland, went too far to the right and struck Trooper Tucker's car. There were no injuries. Damage to each car was placed at $400. Cpl. Thomas E. Ruppert charged Hager with operating while ability was impaired and reckless driving. The accident occurred at 2 a.m. July 11.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Walter L. Kamp who passed away July 22, 1968.
Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break, but all in vain;
To have, to love and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never—
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together
Some day we hope to meet you
Some day we know not when,
We shall meet in a better land
And never part again.
Sadly missed by wife, Mary, children, Connie Marie, Eddie, Ronnie

Patterned after State Agency

All councils, which include two being organized in the Baltimore region and the Lower Eastern Shore, are patterned after the state agency the Maryland Comprehensive Health Planning Agency. They are to be comprised of an advisory council of a majority of health consumers and represenetatives of health providers such as hospitals, physicians and clinics. Together, council members plan coordinating efforts to help communities pinpoint health problems and find solutions through economical use of new and existing manpower and facilities.

Report from Washington

Congressman, 6th District, Maryland

The Second Session of the 91st Congress has passed the half-way point in calendar year 1970, but unfortunately most of the major and routine legislative business still awaits final action.

Since last January when this session of Congress began, the House and Senate have passed a major water pollution bill; a $25 billion, three-year extension of Federal elementary and secondary education programs; a 6-percent pay raise for Federal and military employees; and an extention of the 1965 Voting Rights Act giving 18-year-olds the right to vote.

While these measures represent substantive legislation, as a whole they hardly represent a comprehensive legislation program.

The most important routine business of any legislative session is the passage of appropriation bills which provide funds for the operation of our government for the next fiscal year. Fiscal year 1971 began July 1st. Prior to that time the House of Representative had passed 12 of 14 regular fiscal bills. The Senate, however, had approved only 2 of these measures. This means, of course, that we have entered another fiscal year with the Executive Branch of our government not knowing how much money it will have to maintain existing programs through next June 30th. This situation is doubly unfortunate because it also makes it extremely difficult to bring new programs into being when funding is so indefinite.

A great deal of crucial legislation remains to be acted upon in both Houses of Congress. For example, in 1969 the President presented Congress a package of 7 environmental bills concerning water and air pollution, solid-waste disposal, and public recreation. Regrettably, to date not one of these measures has been enacted into law.

One of the subjects on which we receive a great deal of mail concerns the need to improve our public welfare system. The Administration presented a reform proposal last year and the House this spring passed the Family Assistance Act of 1970 which would completely revise our system of welfare. The senate, however, has yet to take final action on this measure. Thus we are continuing to operate under a welfare program which has proven through the years to be not only obsolete, but also self-perpetuating.

One of the most important functions of our government is to see that job opportunities are available for our citizens, and perhaps more importantly, to assist people in obtaining proper job skill training so that they can compete on an equal basis in the labor market. Legislation to revise our manpower training program was presented to Congress last year. Although hearings on this matter have been held by both Houses of Congress, final action has not yet been taken.

On my recent questionnaire, our constituents indicated that crime control was the issue of most importance to them. Unfortunately, a total of 20 bills to fight crime, of which 13 are considered to be of major significance by the President, are still pending in Congress. These include measures dealing with organized crime, obscenity, bail reform, drug abuse, bombings and gambling. Certainly the Congress can be justly criticized for lagging behind on this extremely important legislation.

The inflationary spiral in which we have found ourselves seriously affects everyone, and particularly our retired citizens who rely on fixed incomes to meet their everyday needs. Earlier in the year the House of Representatives passed legislation providing not only for an increase in Social Security benefits but perhaps more importantly, for automatic increases in benefits as the cost of living rises. There is really no excuse for inaction on this urgently needed legislation, but, regretably, the Senate is still only talking about it. Thus, our senior citizens must continue to wait for badly needed assistance.

These are just a few of the areas where I think Congress has been remiss by not acting more rapidly to provide legislative solutions for the many problems which face our society today. While I firmly believe that matters of such great importance must be thoroughly considered, I can find really no justifiable reason for the excessive delay which has taken place during the last year and one-half in Congress.

Foot-dragging of this sort should not be tolerated much longer by the American people. Citizens have every right to demand that their duly elected public servants get down to business and put problem solving above partisan politics. If the Legislative Branch of our government truly wants to deserve its constitutionally-granted equal status with the Executive and Judicial Branches, then the Congressional leadership must assume the responsibility to see that action replaces talk, and that legislation moves to the President's desk for signature.

BFG LIFESAVER RADIAL GUARANTEE. Guaranteed for 40,000 miles in normal passenger car service against 1) tread wearout, 2) defects in materials and workmanship and 3) road hazards.
If the tire should wear out before 40,000 miles, return it with the guarantee certificate to the retailer from whom the tire was purchased and we will make an allowance for unused service, prorated on 40,000 miles, and computed on our then current Retail "Trade-In" Price towards the purchase of a new tire of the same size and type. Guardsman Gives Views On A. P. Hill Summer Encampment

When it's vacation time on the mountaintop "it's hell" at A. P. Hill. The men of Company "C" 121st Engineer Battalion of the Maryland Army National Guard, under command of Capt. Mahlon Yost, certainly feel that way.

It's just great to be home. This year's two week summer encampment at Camp A. P. Hill, Bowling Green, Va., came to an end Saturday, July 11 with a military convoy home to Frostburg and Oakland.

For two weeks a year and one weekend a month, normal everyday civilians become foot soldiers and combat engineers. This is part of the Army National Guards' training—combat ready at any time.

Living in tents for two weeks isn't exactly a vacation to combat engineers. There's work and plenty of it for every ablebodied man. There are combat and construction problems to cope with. There's the every day life that any soldier contends with. The officers and men of company "C" made an outstanding showing at camp this year, making the year 1970 a highlight of their history.

The entire state of Maryland participated in this exercise and with teamwork as a Battalion unequaled in the past.

Work—well, that's the thing but knowing that your friends and neighbors not only throughout the state of Maryland but right in the Oakland and Frostburg areas have the combat and engineering training needed in peace and war, and are ready within moment's notice to deploy anywhere they are needed enables people to sleep well tonight, as the National Guard is awake.

Company "C" encampment is over, but duty is not.

Nursing Home Fund Nets $9,250

The fund drive for Cortland Areas Nursing Home in Tucker County, W. Va. has thus far collected $9,250 of the estimated $25,000 needed by the time Federal funds are available.

Several thousand dollars in pledges have also been collected. Bills paid to date amounted to $2,552.44, with an estimated $14,000 still owing.

The new nursing home will provide nursing care for 60 patients, as well as physical therapy and occupational therapy. The building, which is planned to allow for future expansion, will also house a beauty parlor and barber shop and a common dining room for those not bedfast.

Plans include an intercom system and oxygen outlets in each room.

The Tucker County Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the fund drive for this needed facility. The address is Box 389, Parsons, W. Va.

New Kindergartens Set For County

The Slagle Construction company, of Friendsville, was awarded the contract for erection of prefabricated kindergartens at the Accident and Friendsville schools.

The firm submitted a low bid of $144,850, according to Dr. Raymond O. McCullough, county superintendent of Schools. Other bidders were from Cumberland, the Wilson Construction Company, $162,900; and G. Largent Company, $175,132.

The units are pre-engineered and are not portable, Dr. McCullough explained. The rectangular shaped buildings with sloped roofs contain some 1,700 square feet. Each has its own facilities, electric heat, hot water and toilets and both are fully carpeted.

The county share of the funds was provided in this year's levy. Each Maryland county is under obligation by law to have a kindergarten program this coming school year. It is not compulsory to attend, but the boards of education must make the facilities and teachers available.

The county has been a forerunner in this element of preschool training. Under Title 1 funds a kindergarten was made available at Kitzmiller in 1965 and at Route 40 school, east of Grantsville, in 1966. Oakland has had a kindergarten since 1967. Last year facilities were opened for use at Grantsville school.

The new prefabricated buildings contain two units each and are not attached to the schools at Friendsville and Accident but are on the school property.

Growth in State Shown by Census

Prince Georges county has mushroomed to become Maryland's most populous, and three other counties, Allegany, Dorchester and Somerset, are smaller than they were 10 years ago, according to preliminary figures from the 1970 census.

The figures were made public by Maryland Planning Department officials and the Washington office of Sen. Joseph D. Tydings.

The figures were not final and did not include head counts for Baltimore City and Anne Arundel and Cecil counties. They showed, however, that during the last decade Prince Georges county had vaulted into top population spot over the 1960 leader, Baltimore county.

The early figures showed that suburban Washington county grew from 357,395 to 657,710. Baltimore county went from 492,428 to 615,654. Montgomery county remained third in size, going to 520,719 from 340,928.

Garrett county remained slightly ahead of ten years ago with an estimated population of 20,493 against 20,420.

Jennings Recreation Plan Has Good Attendance

The scheduled supervised recreation program in the Jennings area, which began on June 22, has shown an increase in attendance recently, according to Doily Livengood, of that community.

The supervisor, William G. Bittinger, has scheduled activities in the evening from 5 to 8 p. m. Mondays through Fridays. Activities for the small children are held on two acres of land adjoining the community center. The old ball field one-half mile from the center is being used for the young adults. Improvement work, such as cutting brush and improving the existing road to the area, has been done by members of the Garrett County Community Action Committee.

A bake sale is to be held July 18 at 10 a. m. at Penn Alps in Grantsville to raise needed funds for the recreation area.

YFC Activities Will Include Family Night Rally July 23

"The Family" is the Mt. Top Youth for Christ theme for the month of July. The YFC activity calendar for the remaining weeks of July include two events planned around the family unit.

Thursday, July 23, the Mt. Top YFC will sponsor a "Family Night Rally" at Southern High School at 8 p.m. Features of the program will be the Frank Nickel Family Singers from Springfield, Mo., and the Family Devotional Message by Hagerstown's Rev. Bob Collitt.

The Nickel Family is a nationally famous recording group, having made five long play albums and traveled widely for concerts here and in the U. S. and Canada.

Rev. Bob Collitt, pastor of Grace Brethren Church, spoke at the fall 1968 Northern High YFC rally. He is originator and speaker for the daily radio program on WJEJ, "The Family Altar." He is also a vocal soloist and a former YFC director.

On July 27, the Mt. Top Board of Directors will have its "Family Affair Board Meeting" at 6:45 p.m. at McHenry. Earlier that day directors and families from the Southwest Region Pennsylvania YFC will be guests of the Mt. Top YFC.

Wed In Fort Lauderdale, Florida

Miss Carol Ann Bishoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Damon G. Bishoff, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., was given in marriage by her father, Saturday, June 20, 1970, to Mr. John Millwater, Jr., of Fort Lauderdale.

The Rev. William Jennings performed the double-ring ceremony at the Immanuel Baptist Church of Fort Lauderdale. Immediately following the ceremony, the reception was held in the church social hall.

Miss Bishoff's gown was Spanish styled adorned with Chantilly lace and sequins. Her sleeves were fitted to the elbow and dropped to a full bell shape to the wrist. The gown was fitted to the waist with a full, layered skirt, scalloped to match the neckline. Her four foot train, lined with a border of matching lace, was attached ot the mantilla styled headpiece. She carried a bouquet of daisies.

Mrs. Thomas Jenkins, of Baltimore, served as her sister's matron of honor. Miss Patti Millwater, sister of the groom, and Miss Cheryl Fowler, friend of the bride, served as bridesmaids.

Miss Penny Bishoff, and Lori Beth Jenkins, nieces of the bride, were flower girls.

The matron of honor wore a peacock blue, floor length, chiffon over crepe gown. The bridesmaids wore identically styled gowns, of a lighter shade. All carried bouquets of daisies.

Best man was Mr. Eddie Millwater, brother of the groom. Terry and Timothy Millwater, twin brothers of the groom, served as ushers. Kenny Millwater served as ring bearer.

Paternal grandparents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Ira Bishoff, of Centenary, W. Va., and maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Livengood, of Friendsville.

Both bride and groom are graduates of Fort Lauderdale High School. The bride is employed as a secretary for Savoy Electronics and her husband is an electrician apprentice.

After the reception, the couple left from Miami, on a cruise to San Juan, Puerto Rico, Saint Thomas, Virgin Islands, and Haiti. They will reside at 900 N. E. 14 Street, Apt. 13, Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

Review of The Play

Who is the murderer? You'll find out at the Garrett County Playhouse this week.

Agatha Christie, author of "Ten Little Indians" and "Witness For The Prosecution" writes another English hit. Gene Yell presents at the Garrett County Playhouse this week, "The Mousetrap." Starting at 8:30 p.m., intrigue takes over, and things begin to happen. To the tune of the sadistic nursery rhyme, "Three Blind Mice" the action unfolds with excellent acting and again, this year, excellent direction. Bob Nesbitt displays his skill as Director with a well staged play, with everyone doing his "thing" with precision. All ages of theatre goers should see this "who-dunit." Bouquets of roses go to the actresses, Marsha Wischusen, Susan Stoner, and Jana Hahn. They play their parts to the hilt. Marsha, a newcomer to Garrett County audiences, does an outstanding job of running Monkswell Manor, a boarding house that acquires six guests, one of whom is a murderer, but which one? She has some problems with her husband, Giles, very ably played by David Cramer. Christopher Wren, played by Tony Bruskas, who again shows he is here to act, and to Detective Sergeant Trotter, acted by Milburn Mehlhop. Milburn, once more does his usually excellent job of acting. Milburn's crisp diction and expression has made him one of the all time favorites at Garrett County Playhouse.

The play takes place in a boarding house, where all six guests arrive, only to be snowed in. With communication cutoff because of the snow and a cut telephone wire, the mystery deepens. Susan Stoner as Mrs. Boyle is a typical English woman on a holiday. Her expression and timing is hard to top. Jana Hahn, as Miss Casewell, another on a "holiday," does an excellent job from beginning to end. I would be remiss if I forgot to mention Sean Spriggs and Fred Edwards. As Lighting Director and Stage Manager respectively, they show excellent training in Drama. I know that you, with me, will say they are very good in their parts and I am looking forward to seeing them again on stage. When Gene Yell first produced this play in 1957, the leading characters were Bill Pappas, Neil Flanagan, Chris Curran, and Bonnie Barton, remember them? Acting is the "Thing" this week at the Garrett County Playhouse. Don't miss "The Mousetrap;" you'll be sorry if you do. This is a show for all ages. Young and old will be trying to discover who the murderer is, let me tell you, it wasn't the Butler.

Close - Ups

By Wilbur Williams

Nothing like a bear to liven things up on a Sunday morning. It was really only a matter of time before Oakland caught up with many surrounding sections, including Cumberland, and brought forth a real, live bear to roam the city streets. Of course, we've had wolves on the loose for years, but a bear is still somewhat of a novelty.

As quoted in the Cumberland paper, a State Trooper, who was anonymous, reported witnesses' reactions to the animal. "It was reported to be from two to six feet in height, and to weigh from 100 to 500 pounds." Bare facts like that just make you curious to know all the grizzly details.

—o—

Motorists along Memorial Drive (see Old Deer Park Road) wondered the other evening about a Stroeman Brothers bread truck in the ditch near Cornish Manor. Investigation reveals the accident was not the result of recent labor troubles which resulted in damage to company vehicles.

I guess this one might be attributed to "driver error."

—o—

The Republican was in receipt this week of a letter from a reader in Mt. Lake Park who took us to task for not giving sufficient publicity to Boys' State at Annapolis. The newspaper realizes that it occasionally is guilty of overlooking some event which deserves mention in its colmns and appreciates readers' interest in informing us of these events at the time, just in case our regular news sources might be lax or forgetful.

We would have preferred to publish the letter in full, but it was signed "Concerned Citizen" and, as is the caes with most publications, we do not publish opinions unless we know their source.

Saddle Tramps 4-H'ers Plan Open Horse Show

The Saddle Tramps 4-H Club is sponsoring an open horse show on July 26, at the Western Trails camp grounds off Route 219.

Twenty classes are scheduled, including English, Western, hunter and game competitions. The show is to begin at 12 o'clock

Entry fees are $1.50 for each class, except for the leadline class which is fifty cents. Admission to the grounds will be free, but a free-will offering will be taken up sometime during the afternoon. Proceeds from the show will go to the building fund for the National 4-H Center, which will be located in Chevy Chase.

Judging the event will be Dr. Edwin Goodwin, livestock specialist at the Univedsity of Maryland.

The Saddle Tramps, a group of 4-H'ers especially interested in horses and horsemanship, has been organized since September 1966. The club sponsored its first horse show in September last year.

Advisars to the club are Lawrence Glover, Cove, and Mrs Jean Wright, Tuckey Neck Road.

All interested persons are invited, either as competitors or as on-lookers.

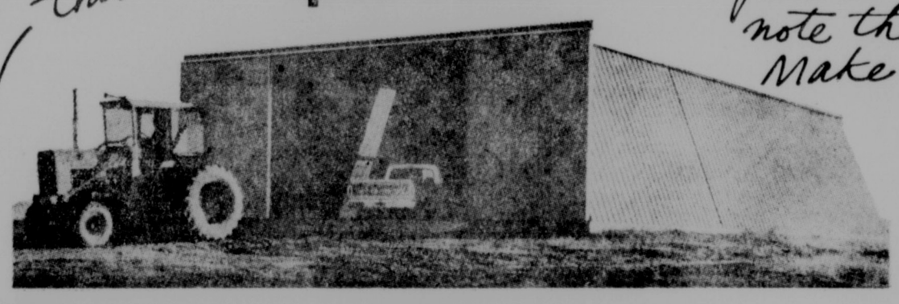
All-steel Butler Building

$2795.00 F.O.B. Butler plant

please note the Make!



Less than one dollar per square foot!

Easily constructed with your own labor!

For the first time . . . your Butler Agri-Builder can offer a durable, rugged all-steel building at less than $1 per square foot!

It's the Butler Farmsted,™ an entirely new engineering and manufacturing concept. It's a rock-stout, versatile 40' x 72' x 14' structure, with a big 20' x 13' double slide door. For a limited time only, you can buy this galvanized Farmsted building (2,880 square feet) for $2795.00 — less than the price of most American "economy" cars.

Easily constructed with your own labor. Or, if you wish, your Butler Agri-Builder will put it up for you quickly and at moderate cost. The $2795.00 price does not include concrete or erection.

Antique Gold color (to dress up the appearance of your farm) and Butler Lite'Panls (for soft, natural daylight inside) are available for sidewall at small extra cost.

Post-free interior and full 14' sidewalls make Farmsted ideal for implement storage. Large (20' x 13') double slide doors provide easy access for large machinery.

Unusual exterior design gives your place a "mark of distinction." Unique construction permits the Farmsted building to be lengthened or moved. Tapered sides make it economical to modify for grain storage. Design tested in rough Canadian winters. Farmsted is built to withstand severe weather.

This new "workhorse" building is backed by Butler, the most respected name in farm structures. Farmsted is all-steel. Fireproof construction makes it ideal for work shop or fuel storage. Can't rot, crack or sag. Termite-proof.

Farmsted can be easily insulated for a few more dollars, to make it warmer in winter, cooler in summer.

Don't delay. Act now on America's most sensational farm building offer. Come in to see us right away, or give us a call and we'll come out to your place at your convenience, of course. Let's talk over your building needs. No obligation.

Now is the time to act!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Sunday Psalms 64:1-10 — Monday Proverbs 3:21-27
Tuesday Isaiah 33:13-22 — Wednesday Matthew 7:7-14 — Thursday Mark 13:28-38
Friday Ephesians 3:7-13 — Saturday I Thessalonians 5:1-11

When each new experience springs forth like a jack-in-the-box . . . and your fondest possessions are toys . . . and your chief concern is to squeeze out of every hour the last ounce of amusement—then it's fun to be surprised.

But when you've grown too old for toys . . . when life is laced with serious challenge . . . when happiness depends on a thousand social, economic and moral decisions—then surprises can be devastating!

It is elementary that our early education must prepare us for the later surprises. The knowledge, habits and skills we acquire must be adequate for meeting the unexpected as readily as the expected.

And because religious faith and moral fortitude are men's chief resources in the unheralded crises of adult life, we must nurture their development in every child.

Support, encourage, serve your church in its vital efforts to mold the character of today's youth — tomorrow's adults.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHAT IS MAN?

Lesson for July 19, 1970

Background Scripture: Genesis 1:26 through 2:25; Psalms 8; Matthew 10:29-31; Acts 17:26-28; 1 Corinthians 15:45-50. Devotional Reading: Psalms 8

The birth of a human being is one of the most common, yet at the same time most miraculous and mysterious processes of God's creation. The more that science learns about it, the more we stand in awe at this evidence of God's creative masterpiece.

Rev. Althouse

Consider facts such as these:

. . . A new human being begins as a tiny cell which in 266-or-so days increases to a fantastically complex organism of 200 million cells — a billion times greater than its original weight.

. . . In the nucleus of this single cell is a kind of coded blueprint for the stage-by-stage development of a complete human body.

. . . When the baby is born it is pushed into the world by a one-hundred-pound propulsive force.

. . . In a few short seconds the new-born baby must make a great many unbelievable drastic adjustments: from a cozy temperature of 98 degrees F. to a room temperature of some twenty degrees lower; from a totally dark environment to one of blinding light; from a complete dependence for oxygen and blood upon the mother to the sudden, unpracticed use of its own lungs and heart for that purpose.

No wonder man is called God's greatest creation!

In His own image

Yet, fantastically wonderful as is the physical creation of man, he is looked upon as the crown of God's creation for still a greater reason: what he is rather than how he is made. The writer of Genesis says it one way: "So God created man in his own image . . ." (Genesis 1:27). The writer of Hebrews, quoting the psalmist, says it another: "Thou didst make him a little lower than the angels" (Hebrews 2:7). Both of these men are making approximately the same affirmation: there is a likeness, kinship, or similarity between the personality of man and the basic personal nature of God.

This does not mean that man is the same as God or equal to him in any way. It does mean, however, that man in his very essence—or that which makes him man—bears in an incomplete and finite way the characteristics which we find in a complete and infinite way in God. As Reuel Howe has put it, "Blurred and distorted though the image of God in man is, still the mark of the hand of the Divine Craftsman is on him."

Everything in subjection

We may "see" God in nature, "hear" him in the sounds of the earth, and find his "footprints" in a hundred thousand different places, but in man we get the most accurate picture of all. In one man—Jesus Christ—the picture was not even blurred or distorted.

There is another reason why we call man God's greatest creation. Not only is man exalted in what he is created to be, but also in what he is created to do. Man is created to put "everything in subjection under his feet." He is intended to rule over the rest of creation for the Creator.

There are then two facts that we must note about the nature and purpose of man. First, there is man's priveleged position in regard to the rest of creation. No other creature has been so blessed as man. What a privelege to be created with a kinship to God and a mandate to rule God's creation for him.

There is a second fact, for with the privelege there is also a responsibility too. Man is blessed by God so that he may be a blessing. He is given powers, advantages, and endowments so that he may fulfill God's plan and purpose. He is therefore the creature with the highest priveleges and also the highest responsibilities. That's why he's called the "crown of God's creation." That's what man is.

SOME MEDICINES DEMAND CONTROLLED ENVIRONMENT

The atmosphere around us has become a very popular topic and air pollution, ecology, etc., have thus become very familiar terms. In a pharmacy, we have always been especially concerned with the close control of the environment because so many of the medicines we stock are susceptible to atmospheric changes.

Just as changes in heat, light, cold, humidity, most definitely affect our normal way of living, so too can they affect the life cycle or potency of a great many drugs. As a pharmacist, we must know how to best protect every medicine so that when it reaches the patient it is ready to perform as the doctor intends.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Meat Inspection Standards, A Question of Equality

Increasing numbers of Americans who visit grocery counters and supermarkets are shocked by the high price of meat and meat products. There are many reasons for the inflation of food prices, food of all kinds, but an examination of some aspects of the meat industry makes me feel that something can be done to help provide the consumers with a larger market and a larger supply of healthful and safe food products. I believe that by expanding the commodities available in the meat market, we should be able to begin to control the continuing increase in price of this vital item in every American family's food budget.

It goes without saying that the first requisite is that the meat which is available in grocery stores must be safe and healthful. The Government has an obligation for the health of its citizens and to insure that food is sanitary and healthy. To this end, the United States Government has established an important and very efficient meat inspection service. However, U.S. inspection has been conducted only at relatively large meat plants located in various parts of the country and the products of these federally - inspected plants have been admitted to interstate commerce which means they can be processed in one state and sold in another.

There are smaller meat packing plants and butcher shops which do not attempt to cross state lines with their products at the present time. These plants are inspected in accordance with the local health laws of the state and localities in which they do business. Many of these plants are of a very high quality and many equal the standards of sanitation which prevail in federally - inspected meat plants. The operators of these plants have made the improvements at their own expense and at the urging of state officials who feel that the public will benefit from these higher health standards and the resulting wider selection of products available in the market.

I agree, and believe that federal law should recognize the higher standards which prevail in state-inspected meat producing plants. I have urged that plants which have upgraded their health standards to the federal level be given equal treatment with federally - inspected plants. They should be allowed to deal in interstate commerce. I also believe that the states which have upgraded their inspection process should receive the assistance of the Department of Agriculture.

I hope these steps will insure that consumers have a larger supply of good meat products available to them and encourage the states to upgrade the standards under which meat is slaughtered, packed and processed. I also hope that the larger supply of healthful meat products which will result from the marketing of state-inspected meats on the interstate market will help to stabilize the price of meat products.

Receives Awards

U. S. Air Force Technical Sergeant Richard R. Gibson of Oakland, has been decorated with his second award of the Distinguished Flying Cross (DFC) and the Bronze Star Medal for action in Southeast Asia.

Sergeant Gibson, son of Mrs. Willard R. Gibson, Star Route 2, Oakland, received the DFC for extraordinary achievement as gunner on an AC-130 Hercules attack aircraft. He is credited with destroying a supply truck and igniting five fires in a storage area. After his aircraft was struck by enemy fire during the mission, Sergeant Gibson administered first aid to two wounded crewmembers and assisted in bringing the plane in for a safe landing.

His Bronze Star was for meritorious service while assigned at Ubon Royal Thai AFB, Thailand. As a weapons technician, he assisted in the development and employment of a precision weapons ground alignment system for the AC-130 and provided an effective training program for weapons technicians.

He was presented the medals at Yokota AB Japan, where he now serves with the 347th Munitions Maintenance Squadron His unit is part of the Pacific Air Force, headquarters for air operations in Southeast Asia, the Far East and Pacific area.

Jupiter will be at quadrature East on Monday. This means that at sunset Jupiter will be halfway across the sky. Jupiter is near the bright star, Spica in the constellation of Virgo. Jupiter is brighter than Spica.

In addition to Jupiter, Venus and Saturn are easily visible in the night sky. Before any stars are visible Venus can be seen shining brilliantly above the western horizon. Saturn, in Aries, rises about four hours before the Sun.

The moon will pass through its Full Moon phase at 4:17 p. m. on Saturday. About 26 hours later it will be 223,000 miles from earth. This perigee is the closest the moon will be to the earth this month. Moonrise this week will be between 7:00 p. m. today and 11:00 p. m. next Wednesday. The moon rises a little later each day.

Our day began today when at 6:03 a. m. the sun appeared above the horizon. Daylight will cease at 8:45 p. m. when the sun disappears below the western edge of the earth. Next Wednesday there will be nine minutes less daylight since the sun will rise at 6:08 a. m. and set at 8:41 p. m.

Resolution of The Mayor and Town Council of Oakland, Maryland, Authorizing and Providing for the Establishment of a Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission; and For Related Purposes.

WHEREAS, the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland, Maryland, in accordance with Sections 438 to 494 of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws of Maryland (Code of Public Local Laws of Garrett County, 1957 Ed.), is the governing body of the Town of Oakland, a municipal corporation located in Garrett County, Maryland, and with such additional powers as are granted by Article 23A of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1957 Ed., 1967 Replacement Volume) and such other acts as may have been and may hereafter be enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland; and

WHEREAS, under regulations of Section 204 of the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966 and Section 201 and Title IV of the Intergovernmental Cooperation Act of 1968, comprehensive planning for a municipality is required in order to qualify for grants-in-aid and certain other forms of Federal and State assistance for development of public facilities; all of which is more fully set forth in Circular A-95 of the Bureau of the Budget of the Executive Office of the President, to which reference is made for further details; and

WHEREAS, the said Mayor and Town Council is authorized under the provisions of Section 10 through 37 of Article 668 of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1957 Ed., 1968 Replacement Volume) to establish a Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission; and

WHEREAS, at the regular meeting of the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland, Maryland, held on July 6, 1970, at Oakland, Maryland, there being present and voting the said Mayor and six members of the said Town Council, the following determination was made by unanimous vote.

THAT in order to defray a portion of the cost of public facilities by grants-in-aid and other forms of Federal and State Financial assistance, such steps be taken by the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland, Maryland, as may be required in order for the Town of Oakland to qualify for such financial assistance.

THEREFORE be it resolved by the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland, Maryland, at the regular meeting on July 6, 1970, in Oakland, Maryland, by unanimous vote of the said Mayor and six members of the said Town Council, as follows:

Section 1. Authority and Membership: That under and by virtue of the authority contained in Sections 10 to 37 inclusive of Article 66B (1968 Replacement Volume), there is hereby created, in the Town of Oakland, a Municipal Zoning and Planning Commission, the members of which shall be appointed by the Mayor and confirmed by the Town Council, and shall consist of a member of the Town Council and four members who are residents of the Town, or vicinity.

Section 2. Term of Office: The initial members of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission shall be appointed, respectively, for terms of 1, 2, 3, and 4 years. Thereafter, all such appointments, except to fill vacancies, shall be for a term of five years or until a successor is appointed and qualified. The term of the ex officio member shall correspond to his official tenure. Members may, after public hearing, be removed by the Town Council for inefficiency, neglect of duty or malfeasance in office. Vacancies occurring otherwise than through the expiration of term shall be filled for the unexpired term by the Mayor and confirmed by the Town Council. Members of the said Commission shall serve without pay.

Section 3: Organization and Rules: The Commission shall elect its chairman from amongst the appointed members and create and fill such other of its offices as it may determine. The term of chairman shall be one year, with eligibility for reelection. The Commission shall hold at least one regular meeting each month. It shall adopt rules for transaction of business and shall keep a record of its resolutions, transactions, findings, and determinations, which record shall be a public record.

Section 4: Meetings: The Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission shall designate the time and place of its regular meetings. Three members shall constitute a quorum.

Section 5: Staff and Finances: The Commission may appoint such employees as it may deem necessary for its work. The Commission may also contract with town planners, engineers, architects, and other consultants for such services as it may require. The expenditures of the Commission, exclusive of gifts, shall be within the amounts appropriated for the purpose by council, which shall provide the funds, equipment, and accommodations necessary for the Commission's work.

Section 6: General Powers and Duties: It shall be the function and duty of the Commission to make and adopt a master plan for the physical development of the Town of Oakland, including any areas outside of its boundaries which, in the Commission's judgment, bear relation to the planning of such Town of Oakland. Such plan, with the accompanying maps, plats, charts, and descriptive matter shall show the Commission's recommendations for the development of said territory, including, among other things, the general location, character, and extent of streets, viaducts, subways, bridges, waterways, waterfronts, boulevards, parkways, playgrounds, squares, public buildings, parks, aviation fields, and other public ways, grounds and open spaces, the general location and extent of public utilities and terminals, whether publicly or privately owned or operated, for water, light, sanitation, transportation, communication, power, and other purposes, also the removal, relocation, widening, narrowing, vacating, abandonment, change of use or extension of any of the foregoing ways, grounds, open spaces, buildings, property, utilities, or terminals; as well as a zoning plan for the control of the height, area, bulk, location, and use of buildings and premises. As the work of making the whole master plan progresses, the Commission may from time to time adopt and publish a part or parts thereof, any such part to cover one or more major sections or divisions of the Town of Oakland or one or more of the aforesaid or other functional matters to be included in the plan. The Commission may from time to time amend, extend, or add to the plan.

Section 7: Purposes in View: In the prepartion of such plan the Commission shall make careful and comprehensive surveys and studies of present conditions and future growth of the Town of Oakland and with due regard to its relation to neighboring territory. The plan shall be made with the general purpose of guiding and accomplishing a coordinated, adjusted, and harmonious development of the Town of Oakland and its environs which will, in accordance with present and future needs, best promote health, safety, morals, order, convenience, prosperity, and general welfare, as well as efficiency and economy in the process of development; including, among other things, adequate provisions for traffic, the promotion of safety from fire and other dangers, adequate provisions for light and air, the promotion of the healthful and convenient distribution of population, the promotion of good civic design, and arrangement, wise and efficient expenditure of public funds, and the adequate provisions of public utilities and other public requirements.

Section 8: Procedure for Adoption of Master Plan: The Commission may adopt the plan as a whole by a single resolution or may by successive resolutions adopt successive parts of the plan, said parts corresponding with major geographical sections or divisions of the Town of Oakland or with functional subdivisions of the subject matter of the plan, and may adopt any amendment or extension thereof or addition thereto. Before the adoption of the plan or any such part, amendment, extension, or addition the Commission shall hold at least one public hearing thereon, notice of the time and place of which shall be given by one publication in a newspaper of general circulation in the Town of Oakland. The adoption of the plan or any such part or amendment or extension or addition shall be by resolution of the Commission carried by the affirmative votes of not less than three members of the Commission. The resolution shall refer expressly to the maps and descriptive and other matter intended by the Commission to form the whole or part of the plan, and the action taken shall be recorded on the map and plan and descriptive matter by the identifying signature of the chairman and/or secretary of the Commission. An attested copy of the plan or part thereof shall be certified to the Town Council and to the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

Section 9: Legal Status of Official Plan: Whenever the Commission shall have adopted the master plan of the Town of Oakland or of one or more major sections or districts thereof no street, square, park or other public way, ground, or open space, or public building or structure, or public utility, whether publicly or privately owned, shall be constructed or authorized in the Town of Oakland, or in such planned section and district until the location, character, and extent thereof shall have been submitted to and approved by the Commission; provided, that in case of disapproval the Commission shall communicate its reason to the Town Council, which shall have the power to overrule such disapproval by a recorded vote of not less than two thirds of its entire membership; provided, however, that if the public way, ground, space, building, structure or utility be one the authorization of financing of which does not, under the law or charter provisions governing same, fall within the jurisdiction of the Town Council, then the submission to the Commission shall be by the board, commission or body having such jurisdiction, and the Commission's disapproval may be overruled by said board, commission or body by a vote of not less than two thirds of its membership. The failure of the Commission to act within sixty days from and after the date of official submission to the Commission shall be deemed approval.

Section 10: Miscellaneous Powers and Duties of Commission: The Commission shall have power to promote public interest in and understanding of the plan. The Commission shall, from time to time, recommend to the appropriate public officials programs for public structures and improvements and for the financing thereof. It shall be part of its duties to consult and advise with public officials and agencies, public utility companies, civic, educational, professional and other organizations, and with citizens with relation to the protecting or carrying out of the plan. The Commission shall have the right to accept and use gifts for the exercise of its functions. All public officials shall, upon request, furnish to the Commission within a reasonable time such available information as it may require for its work. The Commission, its members, officers and employees, in the performance of their functions, may enter upon any land and make examinations and surveys and place and maintain necessary monuments and marks thereon. In general, the Commission, shall have such powers as may be necessary to enable it to fulfill its functions, promote municipal planning, and perform such other duties as authorized by law.

Section 11: Budget: The Commission shall annually, on or before the last day of April, submit to the Mayor an estimate of anticipated revenues and expenditures for the ensuing fiscal year, to be approved in whole or in part by the Town Council, and included in the budget. Said Commission shall then operate within the budget as approved and the expenses thereof shall be payable by the Town Treasurer. The Commission shall file with the Town Clerk semi-annual reports on the last day of April and October of each year giving a complete accounting of monies received and expended.

DOES YOUR CHILD HAVE A DRUG PROBLEM?

Has your child any of these oddities?

1. Is he more often over-stimulated?
2. Have his personal habits change?d
3. Is he more frequently depressed?
2. Have his personal habits changed?
5. Is he unusually talkative?
6. Other times, is he often moody?
7. Do his friends act the same way?

These symptoms are not a positive diagnosis of a drug problem. But, they should concern you enough to consult your physician for his expert opinion. You can depend on his discretion.

This is the first of a series of 13 articles about drug abuse. We offer them as a public service. The next issue will discuss stimulants and depressants, the "up and down" drugs.

Highland Poems

Stranger

She stood in an old market, handling wares
And silks of radiant shimmer, precious workings
In a tapestry with unicorns and trees
Slowly a peddler passed, arms full of evergreens,
Spruce he had gathered for a mite to bring himself the blessings of a little food.
To these she turned with wistful scrutiny,
And bought the whole load, smilingly remembering to be generous for his labors;
Then grasping all the boughs, touched the underside of needles,
Caught the odor, murmured "Keyser's Ridge," and fled with them.

Thanksgiving Prayer

Lord, You Who makest pine-tipped valleys, plains,
Blue peaks advancing in an endless scheme,
Accept our meekness as we know the magnitude of each surrounding scene,
As hemlocks spring from forest duff
And whip-poor-wills give pathos to unbounded night.
While finding paths of unknown footsteps trod before,
Glades of sweet grazing where once isolation reigned.
Peaks of solitude, plantations of the densest hue,
Allow that we may sense in these the magnanimity of You,
And spare You, the Creator, the insolence of our ingratitude.
Amen

Renascence

When we are old and eighty
The trees will still be green;
The furrowed fields of Maryland
Will be a pleasant scene.
The lone bob-white will render
His questing threnody.
The owl, deer, and whip-poor-will
Will still be roaming free.
Behind those peaks each evening
The solar world will burn;
Then yellow-throat and loning thrush
For woodland nests will yearn.
And snow will bank in laurel
As hemlocks stand their guard
Like sentinels; each rabbit
May flee upon the sward.
The grouses's whirr and s-r-ish of pine
Won't alter, nor will rain.
When we are old and eighty,
They'll make us young again.

Bob White

You're a perfect male . . .
You sing my praises, answer me,
And call your name for me to find you,
But never even see the color of my lipstick.

Haiku

I pray, on the mountainside,
That I may grow tall
As the trees.

Road Business Taken Up Monday

Most of the business taken up at the regular weekly meeting, Monday, of the County Commissioners had to do with roads.

Two persons who have lots, inquired into conditions and terms by which roads are accepted into the county roads system.

Two others requested stone for county roads leading to their property. They agreed to spread the stone if the county supplied it. This was done.

Ten applicants were listed as seeking employment in the County Roads Department.

Bud Riggleman of Hott and Miller, contractors for the Broadford Dam project, discussed rental of and repairs to County equipment to be used at the Broadfort Project.

Seventeen Die On State Roads

Seventeen persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the survey published by the State Police. Six of those killed were drivers, four were passengers, and seven were pedestrians. Alcohol was a contributing factor in six of the deaths, speed in eleven, and "driver error" in eleven.

"Alcohol was a contributing factor in six of the fatalities on Maryland highways last week," according to Lt. Col. W. H. Conroy, Deputy Superintendent of the Maryland State Police. "In all six instances speed was also a factor.

"There's no question about it: Alcohol and speed are a deadly mixture."

A Better Person . . . .

Thousands of high school graduates of 1970 in thousands of communities throughout our land earned well deserved tributes paid to them for their accomplishments. But in Pennsylvania the managing editor of the Coatesville Record, Ralph Flaminio, singled out one rather unusual high school graduate for special mention. This we are told in an article in the U. S. Press Association, Inc., magazine.

"So what's a high school diploma?" wrote Editor Flaminio. "For one Coatesville spring graduate, that diploma is the result of several years of effort and long years of waiting. Mrs. Etta J. Stroud, 63, (that's right, sixth-three) returned to high school to get her diploma because she said, 'I thought it would help me to be a better person.' "

A better person!—and when you stop to think about it, isn't that one of the great big reasons why America is truly a wondrous land? Mothers dig gardens and plant roses so that they will have a better back yard.

"What Did We Do Wrong?" Is Fourth Playhouse Offering

Fourth production of the Garrett County Playhouse's summer season is a comedy about the generation gap "What Did We Do Wrong?" which opens Tuesday, July 28, at the Blue Barn Theatre for a five night run.

In the spirit of "The Impossible Years," the Henry Denker comedy takes up where Dr. Spock left off on the care and training of college drop-outs.

Corporation president Walter Davis and his wife Norma have done everything right for their son Wally, now enrolled in one of the finest coleges in the east. And then Wally gets himself jailed in a campus riot, making national headlines.

When Wally descends on his horrified parents with his long haired "Group," one of which turns out to be his fiancee, the plot has fun with the generation gap. When the board members of Davis' corporation protest his protesting son, things look grim for father, son and company, until Davis Senior stages a wildly funny protest of his own.

The Garrett County production of the Broadway hit will be directed by Robert Nesbitt, with Deep Mine Plans Listed For Vepco

The Virginia Electric and Power company announced yesterday that it was developing plans for deep mining of its own coal reserves at Mt. Storm to assure an adequate supply at a reasonable price.

Stanley Ragone, vice-president of power, said the current coal situation was critical in both price and supply. The company's supply at its power station at Mt. Storm is substantially below normal and the cost has skyrocketed, he said.

"Price increases have reached two to three dollars per ton at the mine, plus higher freight rates approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission, adding another 39 cents per ton," Mr. Ragone pointed out.

"To a company which consumes 25,000 tons of coal per day (10,000 tons at Mt. Storm) this coal shortage and price increase has a very serious impact on the company's operation," he stated.

During the past six months Vepco has received only half of its contracted requirements at Mt. Storm, he said, with the coal reserve being less than a three week supply.

Some 650,000 tons of coal have been surface mined and delivered to the power station during the past three years.

Applications Few For Tax Credits

Persons entitled to tax credits from the County Commissioners' office have been slow in applying, it was noted this week by Harold J. Adams, commissioner clerk. He said that some 750 to 800 made application last year but thus far this year only about 130 have applied.

Applications for tax credits must be filed on or before August 31. Mr. Adams said that applicants should not wait for their tax bill before applying.

These tax credits are for the elderly, 65 or over, or disabled persons on social security. Mr. Adams said that in many cases half of an elderly person's county tax may be credited to the individual.

He pointed out that these applications take a couple of days to process and with limited help in the office it would be impossible to process if there was a rush at the last minute.

Construction On Lake Townhouses Begins This Week

Ground was broken this week for the first phase of the 55 unit lakefront condominium on Deep Creek Lake. Fourteen two and three bedroom townhouse units are being constructed this summer on a 10 acre site near the old Boy Scout camp to offer year-round vacation living in this increasingly popular resort area.

R. Thomas Thayer, real estate broker and a member of the four man firm called Four Hooppole South, said the response to the project has been most enthusiastic with 12 of the initial 14 units being sold before ground was broken. Other members of the concern are William A. Shirer, contractor; Fred A. Thayer, attorney, and H. L. Bennett, businessman. Thayer said various local contractors would be doing the construction under the direction of Mr. Shirer.

The concept of condominium living, wherein the owner owns his unit individually and shares ownership of land, beach, docks, etc. with his neighbor, has been in vogue for several years at seashore and ski areas. This is the first such project for Deep Creek Lake.

The Four Hooppole South complex will be constructed using redwood siding and cedar shake shingles. The units which are all split level will be completely furnished and equipped, and outside maintenance will be provided. Management will be provided by Garrettland Realty.

1,463 Residents Get Food Stamps

According to the USDA's food and nutrition service they paid $1,003,308 for food stamp coupons worth $2,616,905. The difference of $1,613,597 or bonus value of the coupons is the department's contribution to the food stamp program.

Lake Violations Vary This Week

A variety of violations at Deep Creek Lake were noted this week, according to the records in the office of Trial Magistrate Robert M. Maroney, Oakland.

Two persons were charged with fishing without a license: Richard J. Coglio, Pittsburgh, forfeited collateral of $20., and Gerald D. Stern, of Bethesda, pleaded not guilty but was found guilty. A $10 fine was suspended

Seven persons were charged with motor boat violations; all forfeited collateral.

Marvin L. Deckman, Havre de Grace, had inadequate number of life preservers, $10.

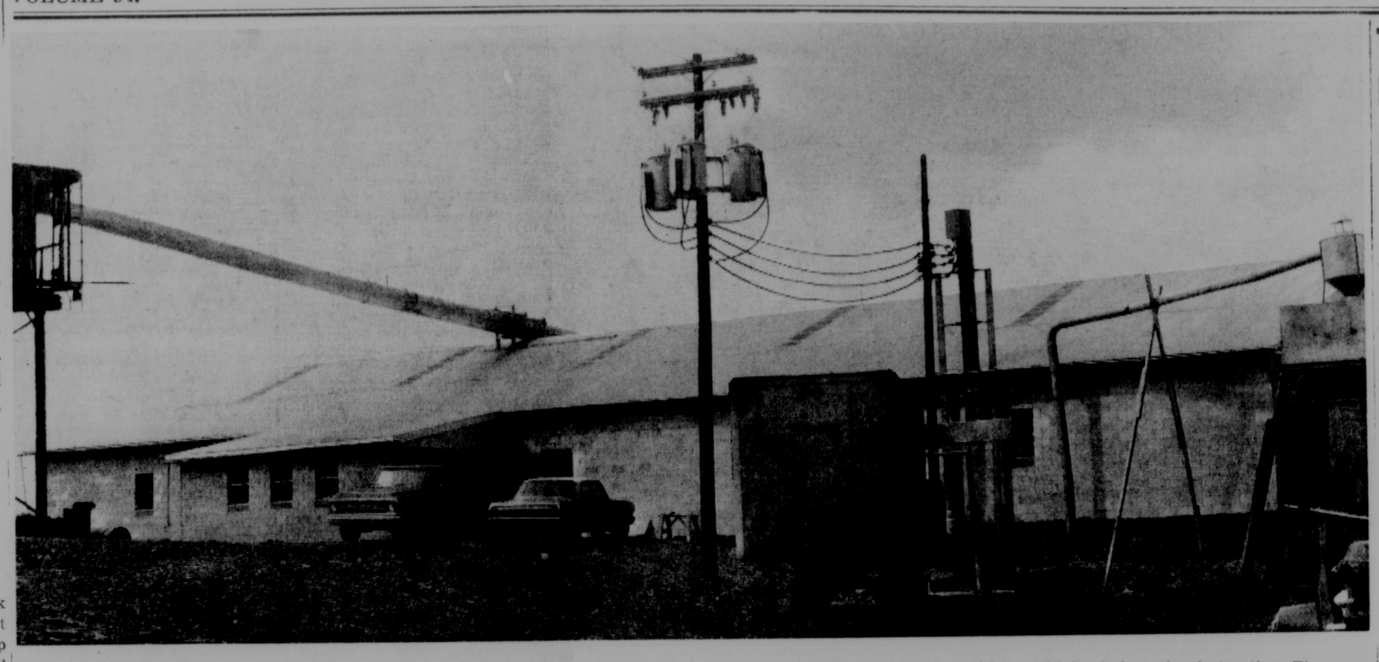
Charles Brant, Somerset, Pa. operated on expired registration, $15.

Francis Kristoff, Johnstown, Pa., failed to display 1970 boat license, $10.

Baldo F. Giannini, Monessen, Pa., two counts, failed to display 1970 boat license, $10. and skied behind yellow swimming buoy, $10.

Janet Patterson, Sistersville, W. Va., operated without registration, $15.

Craig Anthony, Pittsburgh, had no registration in boat, $10.



The new concrete block building of Harco Lumber Company, which replaces the one destroyed by fire on April 2, began operation this week at the company location east of 9th street in Oakland. The building includes a basement and one story and houses much of the new machinery obtained since the destruction. The operation is owned by Elmer C. Grimm, of Terra Alta, W. Va. It is capable of producing some 22,000 feet of lumber per day.

Nov. 3 Ballot To Have 11 Questions

There will be nine proposed constitutional amendments and two referenda to be voted upon at the general election on Tuesday November 3, by the citizens of Maryland.

The first two involve the general assembly in Annapolis, one freezing the size of the legislature to 47 senators and 141 members of the House of Delegates regardless of population. The second would increase from 70 to 90 days the length of the annual legislative session.

Another proposed amendment would abolish the present magistrate court system and replace it with a district court system. It has been proposed that Garrett and Allegany counties constitute a single district with three full time judges. Judges would be lawyers. Another amendment involving the judicial system would give the governor the right to appoint Circuit Court judges with advice and consent of the Senate.

Another amendment would create the office of lieutenant governor. One will be elected this fall. If the amendment would not pass the office would be non-existent. Another amendment would reduce the Maryland residency requirement for voting from present one year to six months. The seventh amendment would give the governor broader powers to revise the executive branch of the state government.

Amendment No. 8 would eliminate one step in procedure to be followed for the establishment of charter government in a Maryland county. The final amendment would permit the reading of religious material in public institutions, particularly schools.

First of two questione to be voted upon concerns whether

Seiler, Hopwood, Pa., traveling south on U. S. Route 219. The Seiler car then ran off the road, through a parking lot and into a field where it struck a truck and backhoe. Seiler's car was considered a total loss. He and his passenger, James Matthews, Uniontown, Pa., were

New Lumber Plant Begins Full Operation

Enlarged Mill Takes Place Of One Destroyed By Fire April 2

A completely modern and greatly enlarged Harco Lumber company plant began operations yesterday. The previous plant was partially destroyed by fire on the night of April 2 with a loss of some $150 000, with the loss only partially covered by insurance.

The company actually never stopped operations, continuing on a limited scale during the three and one half months of rebuilding and obtaining the machinery necessary. Employes of the lumber company did much of the work of restoration.

The building, made of concrete block, is much larger than the one destroyed, containing a basement and one story above the ground level. It is 132 long by 45 feet wide, with part of the machinery in the basement and part on the ground floor.

The new mill will increase production over fifty percent, using the same number of employes. The company will be able to turn out some 22,000 feet of lumber per day. About 50 percent of the lumber used is red oak, with the balance being white oak, poplar, hemlock, cherry and basswood.

Owned by Elmer C. Grimm, of Terra Alta, the plant has 24 employes at present, including the office staff.

Everything in the new plant is electrically operated with some motors in use being as much as 200 horsepower. In the modern production line, there will be no sawdust pile, according to the operators. All refuse will be shredded for pulpwood and shipped away. The finer sawdust is to be used for carbon brushes.

Wheat Marketing Quota Referendum Slated For Vote

The secretary of Agriculture, as required by law, has proclaimed a referendum on 1971 crop wheat marketing quotas, according to an announcement by William Umbel, Chairman of the Garrett County ASC Committee. The referendum will be held by mail during the period from July 27 to 31.

"The Agricultural Act of 1965 specifically suspended marketing quotas for wheat producers only for the duration of the Act, which expires with the 1970 crop. Therefore, the previous law, which requires the marketing quota referendum, becomes effective for the 1971 crop, unless Congress should act to change or postpone these provisions," Mr. Umbel explained.

As it stands now, plans are being made for a referendum in which wheat producers will decide whether or not they want marketing quotas. If two-thirds or more vote yes, there will be quotas, which would mean loans available on all production on alloted acres, wheat certificates on the domestic portion of allotments, and marketing quota penalties on excess production.

If more than one-third vote no, then there would be no marketing quotas, and price support loans at 50 percent of parity would be available to wheat producers complying with their farm allotments.

Before the referendum is held, announcement will be made of the price support loan rate for 1971-crop wheat, estimated domestic certificate value, required acreage diversion percentages, and other program details. A national wheat marketing quota of 1,210 million bushels and a national allotment of 43.5 million acres for 1971-crop wheat have already been announced.

"Wheat growers will receive farm allotments, a program information leaflet and a ballot in the mail before the July 27-31 referendum," Mr. Umbel said.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

The Editor of
Dear Sir,

In preparing the message for members of the O.H.S. Class of 1940 which appears in this issue, it suddenly dawned on me that the members of our class and other classes of the Garrett County school system owe a debt of gratitude to The Republican newspaper and its staff. The natural plan of our committee was "to put some information in The Republican", because we were confident that it would reach majority of the members of the class. We did this from the knowledge that The Republican always stands ready to assist the various high school classes with news problems. In fact, back in the days when our class was still in Oakland High, The Republican carried news of our school activities.

Yet, the help you render to various school groups has always been given in a most gracious manner, even though it must mean a disruption to your normal publishing activities. Your helpful suggestions have been invaluable. So on behalf of our Class of 1940, and other classes of the school system of Garrett County, let me say a great big, and long overdue, "Thanks to The Republican staff" for your help through the years.

Sincerely,
John A. Grant

1. I support President Nixon's efforts to protect America's fighting men and to turn the burden of war back to the South Vietnamese.

2. I support President Nixon's efforts to turn the U. S. Government back to the people.

3. As our society has grown more complex, additional services are required. An impersonal Bureaucracy has been created which through law and policy during the past 37 years has become deeply entrenched in every facet of our existence. Consequently it has grown less and less responsive to the needs of our people.

For instance, the Department of Transportation has a Highway Safety Service which has had a yearly budget of 29 million dollars for four years, and so far it has not even produced a uniform safety standard for the American consumer.

In the growth of this Bureaucracy the tendency has been to serve itself rather than to serve people.

Sadly I have found that this attitude has spread like a malignant growth throughout the Government.

I believe my exoerience in the interworkings of this same system will help me to serve you in making Government responsive to your needs. This is the reason I am seeking your support and votes.

Throughout my campaign I will present Position Papers on Taxes, Welfare, Pollution, Gun Control, Foreign Aid, Social Security and other important issues that affect your daily lives.

A Better Person . . .

Dad works at the office or in the plant or on the road so that the family can have a better home—better than when he was a boy. Parents sacrifice so that sons and daughters can go to school or college in order to be better citizens—better than the last generation. Scientists and researchers labor long in the laboratories so that we can have better medicines, better communications, better food, better things of every description. Good people join together in civic groups, and every one of them has one or more projects aimed towards betterment. Millions of Americans in hundreds of millions of ways strive to make themselves, one way or another, a little better.

The Coatesville Record summed it up: "We do not mention Mrs. Stroud here to simply praise an individual; we mention her as an example of the many persons who have not let years dim their ardor for self improvement. A better world, a better society, and a better community come only after a better individual."

Appreciate Your County!
By Rita Shrout

We live in a resort area! The climate is refreshingly cool; the air is clean and unpolluted; our waters are relatively pure—abounding with fish and other fresh-water life. But how many of us Garrett Countians truly appreciate it? When an excited tourist stops us to exclaim the magnificent beauty of the sunset over the mountains, how many of us can feel his deep appreciation and thankfulness? How many of us gaze in wonder at a sunlit valley and say, "It's beautiful!"

Although "beauty is in the eye of the beholder", why is it that out-of-staters appreciate our area more than we do? Because we live here year 'round, perhaps the original glamour has given way to familiarity—at least that's what we claim. It was "breathtakingly beautiful" when we first saw it; but now that we've lived here awhile, it's "nice" or "O.K." Why can't we be like Mozart enthusiasts? When they hear Mozart's music, they are awed and impressed. As they continue to analyze his works, to study and familiarize themselves with his techniques, as they learn to understand his music, they feel a much deeper appreciation for his creations. Why don't we develop that kind of love for our county? It is so simple (and yet fascinating) to choose a spot in the wilderness—at Swallow Falls, or Deep Creek Lake, or even in your own back yard—and look at small details.

Notice that tiny orange mushroom and the strange pattern of moss on that tree! Notice the brilliant colors in the sky—the pink and orange and blue—all swirled together like ripple ice-cream! Look at that chipmunk! And there are some trees growing out of a great rock face! Now turn your head and look at the complete picture. See how understanding the individual things the little beauties of nature make the entire scene even more beautiful!

We in Garrett County are not known as a "culturally advanced" society. We may remember names like Rembrandt and DaVinci from our school years, but as far as recognizing one of their works, most of us probably couldn't. Most of us never even get the chance to see one of their paintings. Potentially, we are far better off than the thousands of art lovers who cram the museums to see beauty, for we simply have to look out our windows. We are fortunate enough to have lavish paintings in our own back yards—paintings as beautiful as any in museums.

Yet, when was the last time we said, "It's beautiful!" Why not appreciate Garrett County today—and every day?

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our son, Private George E. (Buck) Martin, who passed away two years ago, July 28, 1968.
In our hearts we like to stray
Along the road of yesterday
To hear you laugh, see your smile,
To talk with you a little while.
We cannot bring the old days back
Your hands we cannot touch
But God has given us sweet memories
Of the one we loved so much.
Sadly missed by his parents,
Mr. and Mrs. Ray Martin, Sr.

Jaycees Install

Officers in the Oakland Jaycees were recently installed at a Ladies' Night banquet held at the American Legion home, with Rodney Niedomanski, past state president as installing officer.

Installed were Ed Bowser, president; Ed Livengood, internal vice-president; Les Bittinger, external vice-president; Doug Buckley, secretary; Mike Posey, treasurer; Jack Jones, state director. Charles Mason, retiring president, became chairman of the board of directors.

Speaker was John Gusic, state chaplain.

Mr. Bowser announced a new Jaycee project taking place in Mt. Lake Park as a playground development. This will be located on the old school property, leased from Delbert Bittinger. A completely equipped center is planned. Money raised through fund raising projects, will be used. Harold Murphy is overall chairman.

The club recently received an appreciation letter from George Bucklew, Broadford road, who had been seriously ill in the medical center in Morgantown and in need of blood donors.

Jaycee members replaced more than enough blood needed.

County Family Is Host to Peruvian

A Garrett county farm family is hosting its third South American visitor in ten years under an International Farm Youth Exchange program in cooperation with the National 4-H Foundation.

Victor M. Rojas, of Huacho, Peru, has been a guest of the T. Albert Magruder family since Monday, July 13. He will spend three weeks on the 315 acre farm near Westernport.

Mr. Rojas, 24, was born and reared in a ten acre grape farm which has no electricity, no modern conveniences and where the most modern fuel is kerosene. He is one of seven children ranging in age from a six year old sister to sister a year older than he.

Mr. Rojas has completed four years of training to be a professor of primary education. He has had his own farm for five years where he grows vegetables, corn, alfalfa and fruit and raises poultry, rabbits, pigs, cattle and has his own beehives.

The young Peruvian does not speak English but the Magruders say he is eager to learn and that language barrier is not insurmountable. Also there are some Spanish-speaking residents in the area who have helped him to feel more at home.

Mr. Rojas says food is much cheaper in Peru, but added he is impressed with the packaged food and the large variety available in American stores. He also appears amazed and fascinated with electrical appliances and automobiles. He told his hosts that smallest compact car costs $4,000 in Peru, while standard size American cars cost $7,000 or more.

The young man is the third Latin American who has stayed with the Magruders under the same program since 1960. In 1960 they had a visitor from Venezuela and 1967 one from Brazil. They have also had one from Minnesota.

Mr. Rojas arrived in this country in June and has stayed in Montgomery and Frederick counties prior to his arrival in Garrett county.

The host family includes Mr. and Mrs. T. Albert Magruder; the grandmother, Mrs. Thomas Magruder, and two sons, William and Thomas. Both of the latter have been active in 4-H work since early youth.

In Peru, in addition to his study and farming activity, Mr. Rojas also works as an assistant for Youth Clubs of Peru, an organization similar to 4-H. He is also interested in art, sports, dancing and music, and is especially interested in the American 4-H program.

After his stay with the Magruders, Mr. Rojas will go to College Park for a short time and then leave for Ohio, where he will remain until he returns home in November.

Happy day!

Money in the mailbox!

But does it have to be money? How about a letter from someone who loves you? Or four tickets to the next World Series? Or an invitation from good friends to dinner?

And surely, good things don't have to come by mail. They could come in kind words from a friend. Or in your boss saying, "I'm giving you a raise." Or as an "A" grade on a carefully-researched term paper.

But what is the "best" happiness? Where can we find it?

The best happiness is a letter from God, saying that His Son is your invitation to His Kingdom.

Where can you find this letter? In the Bible and in church this Sunday and every Sunday.

ADAM AND EVERYMAN

Lesson for July 26, 1970

Background Scripture: Genesis 3; Luke 15: 11-32; Romans 1 through 3. Devotional Reading: Romans 3:9-22a.

Man has it made! Just take a look at the scoreboard:

—created in the image of God
—God's greatest and highest creation
—appointed to have dominion over all God's creation
—blessed with the power to be "fruitful; and multiply"

Who could ask for anything more?

Rev. Althouse

The other side of man

But that isn't the whole story, is it? We know that in addition to man's divine potentialities there is another side to his nature, a side which gives us far less cause to be optimistic.

Let us remember once again that in these early chapters of Genesis we are concerned primarily with the why of creation, rather than the how. This is also true in the story of Adam and Eve. It is not just the story of the first man and woman, but much more the story of every man and woman. The name "Adam" itself means "man" or "mankind." Thus, it is not simply the story of some other fellow, but the story of you and me and all of us.

Biblical scholar Bernhard Anderson suggests that the story of Adam is composed of three dramatic episodes, like scenes in a play. Each of these helps to formulate an answer to the question, "What is man?"

Scene 1—Adam the Gardener (Genesis 2:4-25). Adam and Eve are placed in a beautiful garden that supplies all their needs. They have a god-given task—they are to faithfully keep and tend the garden entrusted to them (just as all men have the God-given task of tending the whole of creation which has been entrusted to them.)

Too good to last

Scene 2—Adam The Fugitive (Genesis 3:1-7). "It was too good to last," we might say. The wonderful picture of Adam the gardener was bound to be marred by something, and it was.

We all know the story of what happened in the garden. Much more to the point, however, is that we realize that this too is our story. Though Eve had a whole garden of trees from which to pick fruit, her appetite and temptation led her to the one tree from which she had been forbidden. Isn't that true of us too? It is not because God hasn't given us much to fulfill our needs, for no matter how well we are supplied with his gifts, we always seem to want the one more he has forbidden to us.

Eve disobeyed God because she wanted to step into God's shoes. She wasn't satisfied with being just another one of God's creatures—even the highest of them—she wanted to stand on the same level as God. That's our problem too. Our rebellion is just as willful as Eve's, just as deliberate.

Scene 3—Adam the Fugitive (Genesis 3:8-24). It is inevitable that the rebel becomes the fugitive. Like Adam, we seek to hide when we hear God's voice, but we find that we cannot hide from him. It is then that his judgement falls upon us and we lose the peaceful life in the garden. When Adam is driven out of the garden it is everyman who shares the tragedy of Paradise Lost.

Thus, life is full of conflict and insecurity, not because a man named Adam once rebelled named Adam once rebelled but because every man continues to rebel against the Creator. When we look at Adam and Eve, we know who we are.

Today man is still dependent upon God's gifts. All that we have—food, clothing, shelter, family, love—all these come from God's hands. Like Adam we have a stewardship in this world and, also like Adam, there are certain restrictions which he has laid upon us.

A SICK PET HAS A WORRIED FRIEND
A pet is very similar to an infant for it cannot tell anyone when it feels sick or has a pain. For this reason a Veterinarian must be consulted if there are definite symptoms of an illness.
Chances are your Veterinarian will be able to find the cause of the trouble and take the proper steps to speed the pet's recovery. Often, he will prescribe one of the many medicines that are especially formulated for animals. We know that an animal lover considers his pet as a member of the family and we feel the same way.

Review of The Play

If you're looking for good, solid entertainment this week, go to the Garrett County Playhouse.

A hilarious comedy, "I'll Get My Man" by Philip King, has a laugh a minute. It's funny, funny, funny. Gene Yell picked a winner in this play, and theatre goers who remember "See How They Run" should run, not walk to GCP to see this show. The direction by Bob Nesbitt, again is excellent. The casting of the characters involved couldn't be improved, as each one of the cast acts his or her part as if it were written for them.

The play opens in the Lounge Hall of the Vicarage with timid, shy, forgetful, delightful Milburn Mehlhop as the Vicar. Milburn is tremendous, and his facial expressions and acting is worth the price of admission. His housekeeper, played by Jana Hahn, is outstanding.

If there is a scene stealer this week, Jana is it. Susan Stoner portrays the domineering sister of the Vicar with authority. Her expressions and delivery of lines (and there are many) are done as if she had been doing this show for weeks, instead of opening night. Winifred-Barrington Locke, a widow who remembers some good old days with—no I won't tell you—go and find out for yourself, is played by Marsha Wischusen. Marsha is an excellent actress, and shows great improvement each week.

A young man who has a lot of poise and natural ability is Tony Bruskas. Tony plays Peter (Venture Man) Graham, a nephew of the Vicar, who not only is a ladies' man but, heaven forbid, another Vicar. Sean Spriggs, the Lighting and Technical director, makes brief appearances as a photographer. David Cramer, as the Bishop of Lax, is very funny in his disbelief of things that are happening to him at the Vicarage.

The Bishop, a bachelor, may not stay a bachelor long, and things really happen that upset him. Two new faces are on the stage at GCP this week, and they make this Mt. Top proud that we also have talent for the theatre. Betty Lashley playing the part of Josephine DeBrissac is a local product, who acts her part as a woman of experience to the hilt.

Pixie (I'll get my man) Potter is played by Rita Shrout. This writer has seen Rita in high school plays, but she surpasses anything she has ever done locally, in this week's production. From a Hippie to a lovely young lady, Rita makes the transformation a pleasing one to watch. The occurrences of the threatened loss of the Vicar's housekeeper, and his advertising for a wife, shatter the peace of the village of Stebbington-Fawley. In his ad, does he want a wife, or?

A very fast moving play is "I'll Get My Man." The cast never fails to amaze me as it plays one show at night while learning next week's show in the daytime. The cast this year is one that appears to like every minute they are on stage. They are acting their parts as well as the most experienced actor or actress. This week's show is one that all ages will like, from 6 to 90 It is comedy at its best, and you will be the loser if you miss it.

Show time is 8:30 p. m. and I recommend you make a reservation to make certain you have a seat.—C.L.B.

July 23-29

The Delta Aquarid meteor shower will be at its maximum on Wednesday. Twenty meteors per hour will be the average number of meteors observed during this meteor shower. On any night an observer may see seven meteors per hour. These meteors would not be associated with a meteor shower.

A meteor is a small object, orbiting the sun, which collides with the earth. As it passes through the atmosphere the friction between it and the atmosphere heats the meteor to the temperature at which it becomes luminous. Most meteors vaporize before they fall to the ground. Some larger ones may be seen as fireballs just before they crash into the earth. Once on the earth the object is called a meteorite.

The moon will be passing through its last quarter phase at 7:18 on Saturday. Moonrise will be at 11:30 p. m tonight and by Wednesday it will have advanced to 2:27 a. m.

Three plants are easily visible again this week. Jupiter is in the south sky still in the constellation, Virgo. Venus continues to dominate the west sky right after sunset. Saturn rises about four hours before the Sun and is in the constellation Aries.

Today will have eleven minutes more daylight than next Wednesday. The Sun appeared at 6:09 a. m. this morning and it will leave our sky at 8:40 p. m. this evening. Next Wednesday sunrise is at 6:14 a. m. and sunset is at 8:34 p. m.

Sermonette By Area Ministers

The Greatest Need

The world's greatest needs today are not the material things of life, but the spiritual. Therefore in the words of the text in which we have to offer for your consideration, we shall find the means of satisfying this greatest need.

Consider 2:Chron. 7:14, "If my people which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven and will forgive their sin, and heal their land.

Today we are made to realize a little of the afflictions of the land. It seems that the prophet's message to Judah would surely fit our case, as he began his message by saying, "Oh sinful nation a people laden with iniquity, a seed of evil doers, children that are corrupters: they have forsaken the Lord, they have provoked the Holy one of Israel. Angered, they have gone away backward. Why should ye be stricken any more? Ye will revolt more and more; the whole head is sick and the whole heart is faint. From the sole of the foot even unto the head there is no soundness in it. But wounds and bruises, and petrifying sores. . . . ., Isa 1:4-7

This seems to describe a part of the condition of the world today. Unbelief, infidelity, immorality, and ungodliness are sweeping the globe. People are denying the Lord that brought them, and are bringing upon themselves swift destruction. (2 Peter 2:1). No wonder the world is infested with war, crime, and violence. What is the cause of it? The answer is brief. We have failed God, turned away from him, the Bible, and the church. Instead of reading the Bible, we read novels; instead of praying, we are playing, instead of fasting, we are feasting. We have substituted formality for spirituality, and have gone pleasure mad. Friends, this will not do. "The wicked shall be turned into hell and all nations that forget God" (Psalms 9:17)

One must do something beside just being called a Christian; he must be one. To be a Christian requires humility. To destroy a proud, haughty spirit, humble yourselves and pray. Yes, the Pharisee did not get anywhere as he stood and prayed, "God, I thank Thee, that I am not as other men are: extortioners, unjust, adulterers, or even as this Publican." But the poor Publican was humble; he would not so much as lift up his head, but smote himself on the breast saying "God be merciful to me a sinner." How brief this prayer, yet how much it accomplished. It takes humility to admit you are guilty, but it will bring sweeping victory to you.

We are commanded to turn from our wicked ways. "Let the wicked forsake his ways, and the unrighteous man his thoughts: and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon." (Isa. 55:7)

If we as individuals or as a nation will do these things, we have God's promise that He will heal our land or forgive our sins. This is a solution for our problems, as an individual or as a nation.

Take Nineveh for an example. When Jonah preached that mighty sermon which told of the judgment, the king stepped off his throne, and demanded that man and beast be clothed in sackcloth and ashes. He humbled himself, with the people. They turned from their wicked ways, and God spared that wicked city. The only thing that will bring peace and happiness to mankind is turning to God and having the word of God restored in the homes, schools and even in the pulpits. In many churches today, the ministers do not say, "thus saith the Lord." Instead, they are substituting the quotations of great men and books. Surely, to have a sound people, we need sound teaching from the word of God. Let us restore the altars in our homes and churches. When these things have a place in the lives of the people, the world will be altogether different, and our spiritual blessings will be greatly increased.

Colleges in Crisis

In traveling around Maryland, it is always a particular pleasure to visit the colleges that have contributed so much to Maryland's growth, to the quality of life in Maryland, and, indeed, to the quality of life in the nation.

All of us in Maryland should be very proud of our tradition of fine colleges and universities and should realize today, as never before, that the training our young people receive is vital if they are going to compete in the economic, industrial and technical world of the future. Yet, as vital as education is, we find our educational system in deep trouble.

Recent visits to Maryland institutions of higher education confirm the development of the severe problems which were predicted several years ago after an exhaustive national study. The study warned that in the decade of the '70s seven out of ten private colleges in America will have to close their doors unless some innovative aproach is found to finance their operation.

In Maryland, we have a number of colleges that are so threatened. In the case of girls' schools, it is a particular problem. Nationwide, women's colleges are finding that they are having fewer applicants and that, in fact, the number of students admitted to their freshmen classes is decreasing. In short, the nation's colleges and universities are facing a real crisis.

The Nixon Administration has responded to this problem with an expanded program of tuition assistance to students at our colleges and universities. This, of course, is a helpful lift at a time when it is desperately needed. There are other ways in which state and federal governments assist institutions of higher learning and government support is vital to their continued existence.

But, the sad fact is that with operating costs escalating—just as the cost of running your household and mine goes up year by year—it soon will be impossible for the ordinary citizen to pay the cost of sending his son or daughter to a private college. In other words, private colleges won't be able to meet their expenses through tuition charges. We are going to have to develop new ways to finance the education of our rising generations. It should be obvious that our already overburdened state colleges and universities can't do the job alone and their burden will become critical with the decline of privately operated colleges.

Several years ago, I proposed that we should assist private institutions by means of long-term institutional grants made on a regional basis throughout the country. I believe that this is the system that we will ultimately have to develop. I am urging the Congress to review my proposal and other alternatives that have been suggested so that we will be prepared to meet this crisis before it is full blown.

J. Glenn Beall. Jr. Reports from Washington

Congressman, 6th District, Maryland

Last week the House of Representatives gave final approval to the District of Columbia Court Reform and Criminal Procedure Act of 1970. This is a long-awaited piece of legislation because it is designed to combat the extremely serious problem of crime in our Nation's Capital.

Both Houses of Congress had approved their own versions of this bill earlier in the year and these have been the subject of debate for the past several weeks in a Joint Conference Committee with representatives of both the House and the Senate.

The final draft of the legislation, fortunately, conforms more to the House version in several important respects and in my opinion will be a more effective tool in fighting crime in Washington. This bill, in a very comprehensive manner, treats the overall structure of the courts in the District of Columbia as well as court procedures in criminal cases.

Among other things, the legislation increases the number of judges and strengthens the staff available to the courts in order to hasten the disposition of cases. I have long felt that one of the most effective deterrents to crime is the recognition on the part of the potential criminal that he will be punished swiftly and surely for any crime that he might commit. Extended delays of prosecution only seem to encourage the potential criminal to proceed further along the trail towards lawlessness.

The two most controversial sections of this bill are the so-called "No-Knock" and the pre-trial detenition provisions. Both the Senate and House versions of the legislation had variations on the No-Knock theme, with the House treating the subject somewhat more comprehensively than did the Senate.

The language agreed to by the Joint Conference Committee generally specifies four conditions under which a police officer may dispense with identifying himself before entering a premises. These are as follows: (1) when he believes that advance notice is likely to result in the destruction of evidence such as narcotics; (2) when he feels that announcing his presence would endanger his life; (3) when notice is likely to enable a person he is seeking to escape; and (4) when announcing his presence would be a useless gesture, such as in a case when his presence is already known.

Actually, although there has been much hue and cry about the No-Knock provision, what this bill does is simply state in concise legal terms what has generally been a common practice all over the United States. Above all, it seems to me that it is a sensible procedure to follow if we are truely concerned about the prevention of crime and the apprehension of violators of the law.

The pre-trial detention feature of this bill was originally proposed in the House version and was not considered by the Senate in its original legislation. Basically, this provision allows the court to detain potentially dangerous defendents, such as repeat offenders, while they are awaiting trial so that they are not put back on the street to engage in further acts of crime.

It has been demonstrated time and time again that a high percentage of crimes are committed by those people who are out on bail awaiting trial for another crime. This provision simply says that if, on the basis of the facts of a particular case and on the basis of the prior criminal record of the accused, the court determines that he poses a danger to society, then it may detain him for up to sixty days before trial.

The fact that detention is limited to sixty days will, among other things, serve as an incentive for the court to handle the case as quickly as possible. The bill provides that cases of persons so detained shall be placed on a special court calendar and that their trials shall be given priority over all others.

Also important to remember is that the legislation specifies that the court's decision to detain the accused is subject to appeal. Thus, the pretrial detention section of the crime bill offers safeguards to protect the rights of the criminal suspect, and I was particularly happy that the House was able to win this point in its deliberations with the Senate.

Taken as a whole, the District of Columbia Court Reform and Criminal Procedure Act of 1970 should represent a powerful foreward thrust in modernizing court procedures and in speeding up the disposition of justice in our Nation's Capital. I firmly believe that in the long run, this legislation will not only reduce the incidence of crime in Washington, but also serve as a model approach toward crime control throughout our country.

NOT EVERYBODY WILL GIVE YOU THIS GUARANTEE ON A USED VW
But we will.
We get lots of VWs traded in on new VWs.
But before we put them out on the lot, we give them the 16-point inspection.
If they pass, we give them our guarantee. It's a 100% guarantee: for the free repair or replacement of every major working part* for 30 days or 1000 miles. Whichever comes first. (If they don't pass, we fix what needs fixing before we guarantee them.)

THEREFORE be it resolved by the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland, Maryland, at the regular meeting on July 6, 1970, in Oakland, Maryland, by unanimous vote of the said Mayor and six members of the said Town Council, as follows:

Section 1. Authority and Membership: That under and by virtue of the authority contained in Sections 10 to 37 inclusive of Article 66B (1968 Replacement Volume), there is hereby created, in the Town of Oakland, a Municipal Zoning and Planning Commission, the members of which shall be appointed by the Mayor and confirmed by the Town Council, and shall consist of a member of the Town Council and four members who are residents of the Town, or vicinity.

Members of the said Commission shall serve without pay.

Section 3: Organization and Rules: The Commission shall elect its chairman from amongst the appointed members and create and fill such other of its offices as it may determine. The term of chairman shall be one year, with eligibility for reelection. The Commission shall hold at least one regular meeting each month. Section 6: General Powers and Duties: It shall be the function and duty of the Commission to make and adopt a master plan for the physical development of the Town of Oakland, including any areas outside of its boundaries which, in the Commission's judgment, bear relation to the planning of such Town of Oakland. Such plan, with the accompanying maps, plats, charts, and descriptive matter shall show the Commission's recommendations for the development of said territory, including, among other things, the general location, character, and extent of streets, viaducts, subways, bridges, waterways, waterfronts, boulevards, parkways, playgrounds, squares, public buildings, parks, aviation fields, and other public ways, grounds and open spaces, the general location and extent of public utilities and terminals, whether publicly or privately owned or operated, for water, light, sanitation, transportation, communication, power, and other purposes, also the removal, relocation, widening, narrowing, vacating, abandonment, change of use or extension of any of the foregoing ways, grounds, open spaces, buildings, property, utilities, or terminals; as well as a zoning plan for the control of the height, area, bulk, location, and use of buildings and premises. Before the adoption of the plan or any such part, amendment, extension, or addition the Commission shall hold at least one public hearing thereon, notice of the time and place of which shall be given by one publication in a newspaper of general circulation in the Town of Oakland. The adoption of the plan or any such part or amendment or extension or addition shall be by resolution of the Commission carried by the affirmative votes of not less than three members of the Commission. Section 10: Miscellaneous Powers and Duties of Commission: The Commission shall have power to promote public interest in and understanding of the plan. The Commission shall, from time to time, recommend to the appropriate public officials programs for public structures and improvements and for the financing thereof. It shall be part of its duties to consult and advise with public officials and agencies, public utility companies, civic, educational, professional and other organizations, and with citizens with relation to the protecting or carrying out of the plan. The Commission shall have the right to accept and use gifts for the exercise of its functions. All public officials shall, upon request, furnish to the Commission within a reasonable time such available information as it may require for its work. IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND

The Travelers Insurance Company, Complainant
vs.
Fred T. Hamm, Administrator, Estate of Charles W. Hamm and
Sue Ann Keener, an Infant Respondents
: : : :
No. 5884 Equity
Filed: July 16, 1970

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to determine the proper person or persons entitled to payment of life insurance proceeds under certain group insurance coverage upon the life of Charles W. Hamm, late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased. The Bill of Interpleader filed in these proceedings shows that the said Charles W. Hamm, deceased, died as a result of an automobile accident near Pruntytown, West Virginia, on August 20, 1966; that he was at that time employed by Buffalo Coal Company and had certain coverage under Group Policy No. G-690-016 with The Travelers Insurance Company, being employed at Buffalo Deep Mine No. 1 in Garrett County, Maryland, and maintained his residence at Mountain Lake Park, Garrett County, Maryland; that the person designated as beneficiary under said policy was Betty L. Hamm, listed as his wife, with whom he resided at Mountain Lake Park, Maryland, also fatally injured in the aforesaid automobile accident on August 20, 1966; that the said Betty L. Hamm was survived by a minor daughter, Sue Ann Keener, an Infant, now residing near Winchester, Virginia, with her father, Franklin D. Keener, who may also have an interest either individually or as guardian of his said daughter in the proceeds of said insurance coverage; that the said Insurer has also received a claim to the proceeds of said insurance from Fred T. Hamm, father of the aforesaid decedent, reported to have been appointed as Administrator of the Estate of the said Charles W. Hamm, deceased, in the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, said claims being based on the assertion that both Charles W. Hamm and the said designated beneficiary, Betty L. Hamm, died at the same time and that under the simultaneous Death Act of the State of West Virginia, the man would be presumed to have survived, and on the further allegation that said Charles L. Hamm was not, in fact, married to Betty L. Hamm, designated at his wife and beneficiary; and that The Travelers Insurance Company is entitled to a Judicial determination of the person or persons entitled to payment of the aforesaid insurance proceeds.

It is, therefore, this 16th day of July, 1970, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, ORDERED that the Complainant in the aforesaid Bill of Interpleader shall cause a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 14th day of August, 1970, giving notice to the no-resident Respondents of the object and substance of the Bill of Interpleader filed herein and warning them to be and appear before this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 16th day of September, 1970, to show cause, if any they have, why interpleader should not be allowed in the aforegoing clause, and requiring them to interplead herein with respect to their several claims or interests in the proceeds of the aforesaid group life insurance policy.

More Students Are Completing High School Than 1960

Maryland high school students are staying in school in much greater numbers than their older brothers and sisters a decade ago.

Figures just published by the State Department of Education show that 78.9 percent of the class of 1969 graduated. In 1959, only 65.4 percent of students who started the ninth grade actually finished high school.

Fall 1969 enrollments, up 3.6 percent, showed increases in every county but Caroline, which lost just ten students.

The same state education study shows that current expense for the average student enrolled in a Maryland public school during the 1969-70 school year was $818, a jump of over $100 over the 1968-69 school year.

VOLUME 94. OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., JULY 30, 1970 PER COPY 10c NUMBER 22

Citizen's Viewpoint ....

Strictly from a citizen's viewpoint, the wrangle between some 140 former county roads workers and two of the three County Commissioners has come to a critical point. All have a responsibility in this hassle and the idleness is causing great inconvenience and danger to residents and visitors because of "potholes" in many county highways.

Bad feeling on the part of many and threats of harm to individuals and property are additional dangers that must be considered.

There are several things that are possible: (1) let things ride and allow the roads to deteriorate further; (2) the county commissioners could recognize the road workers' request to recognize the union as a bargaining agent, but not so far as any contract terms between union and commissioners, since it is apparent that other county governments do not have contracts directly with unions; (3) taxpayers could seek a writ of mandamus to require the county commissioners to proceed with road upkeep and repairs, which is definitely their responsibility, and if they do not then proceed, to impeach them; (4) land owners along county roads could make repairs themselves, requiring stone, tar and chips from the county system; (5) road workers, realizing that there is an impasse, could agree to return to work until after the election, then bargain with the new county commissioners; (6) let the commissioners delegate negotiations to a team of interested citizens, similar to the plan used by the Board of Education, letting roads workers

Roy Drusky and Penny DeHaven Signed For Autumn Festival

Penny DeHaven

Roy Drusky

As part of the expanded country music for the 1970 Autumn Glory Festival to be held in Garrett County, October 8, 9, 10, 11, the festival committee announced the signing of Roy Drusky and Penny DeHaven.

Friday night at the festival will find Drusky and his band along with Miss DeHaven headlining the entertainment set for Northern High School at Accident. Both artists have achieved national fame through recordings and appearances on the Grand Ole Opry and national and syndicated television. Drusky has appeared on the motion picture screen in "Gold Guitar", "Las Vegas Hillbillies" and "Forty Acre Feud."

Penny DeHaven is originally from Berkeley Springs, West Virginia, and started her musical career on the WWVA Jamboree in Wheeling. She now makes her home in Nashville where she records for Imperial and United Artists Records. She has toured the U. S. and Canada and did a ten week stint in Vietnam entertaining troops. Her recordings of "Mama Lou" and "I Feel Fine" (written and recorded by the Beatles) made the top charts nationally. She is currently on the charts with "Landmark Tavern," a duet with Del Reeves.

Roy Drusky writes most of his own material which includes award winning songs like "Along With You," "Anymore," "Where the Blue and Lonely Go," and "My Grass is Green." His current number one song is "Long, Long Texas Road." Drusky, also a Nashvillian, records for Mercury. His regular association with the Grand Ole Opry spans nearly 11 years.

Hee Haw Grandpa Slated To Appear At Autumn Glory Fete

Hee Haw star Grandpa Jones will appear at the Autumn Glory Festival, Saturday night, October 10 to headline the Maryland State Fiddlers' Championships.

Grandpa is a landmark in country music with a fantastic career which lives in the minds of country music fans down through the years and spans the globe. His recordings of "Old Rattler" and "Mountain Dew" are regarded by young and old as country classics.

One of the popular starts of the CBS television program Hee Haw keeps Grandpa busy with road appearances in addition to other major network television appearances. He has been the featured guest on the Mike Douglass Show, Joey Bishop Show, Country Hayride and the Grand Ole Opry. Grandpa will be one of the featured artists on the all country "Ed Sullivan Show" to be aired on CBS when the new season resumes in September.

Grandpa's down home humor and entertainment are almost certain to be highlights of the 1970 Autumn Glory Festival. His banjo playing and guitar styling in addition to his humor and singing are acclaimed outstanding.

Tennis Tourney Starts August 5

Competition To Be Held In Six Categories For Men And Women

The 49th annual Western Maryland Tennis championship will begin next Wednesday, August 5, at the Mountain Lake Tennis club courts, it was announced by Earle Brown, of Washington, vice-president of the Tennis club, who was here over the week-end making finai arrangements.

The six events will include men's Singles and Doubles, Senior Men's Singles and Doubles, Women's Singles and Mixed Doubles. The tournament is sanctioned by the United States Lawn Tennis association, Middle Atlantic division.

The number of early entries indicate that the number involved may be even greater than last year and last year's competition saw a greater number participating than for many years. Mrs. George Deacon, tennis club secretary, said that over sixty entries already had been received which was an indication of much more interest than normal.

John Williams, Huntington, W. Va., will return to defend his singles title which he took last year and will also pair with John Santrock, of Charleston, in the men's doubles event.

Mrs. Deacon also noted that there was a strong entry list for women's events than for a number of years. She named Martha Thornhill, of Charleston; Martha Eaton, Pittsburgh, Mrs Jane Rosselle, Baltimore and Marise LaPorte, Annapolis. The two latter are former winners of the women's singles event.

Some of the men planning to participate are Doyle Royal, Col-

Plans Progressing, Building Added For Annual Fair

Plans are shaping for the fourteenth annual Garrett County Agricultural fair, to be held August 11 through August 15, at McHenry.

A new livestock barn has been erected located east of the baby beef barn and near the Poultry building. Two new lunch stands are also being provided, one for the Crellin Community Action and one for Northern High FFA. The new livestock barn is a pole type building.

H. G. Gortner, president, a preview of the activities indicated that the livestock exhibits would be larger than usual with much increased interest in vegetables and farm produce.

Frankie's amusements will be here again for the fair and will be located north of the 4-H building, the same place as last year. The road relocation work will not interfere with activities at the fair, Mr. Gortner said.

Fair books were distributed over two weeks ago and may be obtained from the extension office, the fair board, or any of the directors or officers of the fair.

The board of directors and heads of departments continue to meet weekly to discuss final arrangements. The fair is being held a week earlier than before and this is causing increased activity but no major problem, Mr. Gortner said.

There is a full schedule of events and the program will be given in detail next week.

Two Men Awarded Damages In Court

Two Cumberland men were awarded damages in consolidated cases heard in the Garrett County Circuit Court last Thursday July 23. The cases were transferred from the Allegany County Circuit Court.

Ernest Shriver brought suit for $75,000 and Charles Shriver, $40,000.

In a verdict handed down by Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill, Jr., Ernest Shriver was awarded $8,000 in damages and Charles Shriver, $5,000.

Gus Hare Winner In Fiddlers' Contest

Some three thousand persons gathered at the town park in Friendsville on Saturday evening, July 18, to witness the fourth annual Fiddlers' contest, sponsored by the Friendsville Rotary club and saw Gus Hare, Canton, Ohio, take the top prize of $100.

Twenty-three fiddlers participated from Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia.

Lawrence Fluharty, Colliers, W. Va., took second prize of $75, and Reuben Bittinger, Manassas, Va., took third prize of $50. Serving as judges were Darrell Malone, guidance counselor, of Northern High school; Chauncey Friend, former Northern High teacher; and Mrs. Lillian Reckner, music instructor for elementary schools in the northern section of the county.

Ward Livengood, chairman of the Rotary club committee, said the large attendance made it the most successful of contests to date. Livengood was assisted in the arrangements by Ralph Beachley.

Proceeds are used for community projects such as summer recreation, aid to handicapped children and sponsorship of Northern High students to various workshops and conferences.

A local group of square dancers furnished entertainment at the beginning of the contest and during intermission and sponsored square dancing until midnight.

Sound was provided by WFRB radio station, Frostburg, which also provided Jeff Krone, master of ceremonies.

Lonaconing Youth Dies In Accident

A Lonaconing youth, 16, was killed and his companion, 15, injured last Friday afternoon when a motorcycle they were riding collided with a tractor-trailer on Maryland route 136 near Valley high school, Lonaconing.

Dead was Ronald Richard Brode, son of Ronald and Nellie Ryan Brode, Lonaconing, operator of the motorcycle owned by his mother.

Injured was Dennis Lee Cutter also Lonaconing, who was treated at Sacred Heart hospital in Cumberland and released.

State police said Brode was operating the motorcycle north on the highway at an apparent high rate of speed. Police said the cycle operator failed to negotiate a sharp right curve, slid on the wet pavement and slammed into the left side of a tractor-trailer being operated south. Driver of the tractor-trailer, who was unhurt, was Richard Lowell Kope, Mt. Lake Park.

The two youths were thrown from the cycle, although police said Cutter may have fallen from the vehicle shortly before the impact.

The rig and trailer are owned by Donald W. Clark, Kitzmiller. The motorcycle was a total loss and the tractor-trailer was damaged to the extent of about $50.

The victim was a student at Valley High school.

Suit Attacks Minister Ban

A minister who wants to run as an American party candidate for the House of Delegates from this county has filed suit at Annapolis, attacking a section of the state Constitution that prohibits ministers from sitting in the General Assembly.

The suit was filed in Anne Arundel county Circuit Court by the Rev. Walter H. Leake, of Deer Park, who is a minister of the Assembly of God church.

The suit names Willard A. Morris, state administrator of election laws, and the Board of Election Supervisors of Garrett County as defendants.

Mr. Morris confirmed that he could not certify Mr. Leake's candidacy because he is a minister. The state administrator said that he does not know why the prohibition was written into the Constitution, but that it would have been intended to insure the separation of church and state in the Legislature.

Judge Matthew S. Evans gave the state until August 11 to answer the suit.

Lawrence B. Scally, executive secretary of the American party in Maryland, said that Mr. Leake was the only party nominee who was not certified. He said the party has about 40 candidates running in various county and state primaries.

Mr. Morris was under a Federal Court order to certify qualified candidates from the American party.

Mr. Leake had announced his desire to become a candidate for the House of Delegates early in April.

Delay National Wheat Referendum

Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin has announced postponement of the national wheat referendum previously scheduled for July 27-31, according to William Umbel, Chairman of the Garrett County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. The action was authorized by Congress.

The postponement permits the USDA to delay holding the referendum not later than October 15, or 30 days after Congress adjourns, whichever date is earlier.

Accordingly, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's ASCS, which administers the wheat, feed grain, and similar programs, has instructed its State and county offices across the nation to withhold ballots and other referendum matrials, Mr. Umbel said.

The Chairman explained that basic farm legislation requires a referendum for wheat marketing quotas. However, the Agricultural Act of 1965 suspended this referendum requirement from 1965 through the 1970 crop year. Unless new farm legislation, now pending, is enacted by the Congress, basic legislation will again go into effect, and a referendum will then be required in 1970 for the 1971 crop year.

Gov. Mandel Plans County Tour Aug. 5

An eight o'clock breakfast at the Wisp at McHenry, on Deer Creek Lake, will honor Gov Marvin Mandel on Wednesday August 5, when the chief executive makes a whirlwind tour of three Western Maryland counties.

William Goldsborough, Oakland, will be coordinator-chairman of the event which is expected to attract over 300 officials and representatives of service and civic clubs and veterans organizations, unions and the public.

Karol Rush, Friendsville, chairman of the Garrett County Democratic State Central committee and other members of the committee made plans for the visit at a meeting last week.

Following breakfast Gov. Mandel will tour the site of the new plant of Bausch and Lomb just east of Mt. Lake Park near State route 135.

Algernon-Blair company, primary contractor for Bausch and Lomb, will afford the public an opportunity to visit the site during the visit.

He also plans to visit the Head Start center at Crellin, and meet the general public.

"There's A Girl In My Soup" Is Next Playhouse Offering

Next week's fare at the Garrett County Playhouse is a taste treat for the sophisticated gourmet. British hit "There's a Girl in my Soup" will highlight the 5th week of the Blue Barn summer stock season, opening Tuesday, August 4, and running through Saturday, August 8.

The anti-hero is a fortyish food-and-wine connoisseur who dabbles in delectable females on the side. Played on Broadway by Gig Young, Robert Danvers prides himself on his prowess with women, but meets with more than his match when a teen-age mod swinger refuses to be just a side dish.

In the vein of last season's "The Knack," the high style two-act play is a pure sex farce, to which British playwright Terence Frisby adds some spicy ingredients. But the resultant broth is tasteful, as well as tasty "There's a Girl in my Soup" first opened in London in 1967

County Is Fourth In Bond Sales

Garrett County held fourth place among the other counties of the state and Baltimore City in the sales of Series E. and H Savings bonds during the month of June.

The county has a 1970 quota of $214,000. Sales during June amounted to $22,520 bring total sales from January to June to $149,930. This compared to $106,778 for the same period a year ago. The county has raised 70.1 percent of its quota.

First in the state is Talbot county, Kent county second and Caroline county third.

Commissioners Rebuff Offer At Mediation

Gov. Marvin Mandel's office said Monday the governor had been rebuffed in attempting to help settle the labor dispute between the Garrett County commissioners and the former county road employes.

Edmund S. Revner, the governor's chief administrative assistant, said Gov. Mandel had been requested by Allen S. Paugh, one of the three county commissioners to send a mediator to the county to help settle the dispute which has resulted from the board's refusal to recognize the American Federation of State, County and Municipal employes, AFL-CIO, as its bargaining agent for the employes. The employes formerly had worked under a County Road employes association.

Special Meeting

The County Commissioners called a special meeting for this morning to discuss plans for sending roads workers on the job beginning Tuesday morning, according to Hubert A. Friend, president.

He said some one hundred workers would be ready to take their jobs at that time. A special detachment of state police will be on hand, Mr. Friend said, to see that everything remains orderly.

Revner said Mandel was more than willing to supply a mediator and that union officials had expressed enthusiasm. When he checked with the other two commissioners, Hubert A. Friend and John Ross Sines, he was told they would not accept a mediator. Sines told Revner they had no intention of recognizing any union.

Road workers have been on strike ever since April 7, when they wanted to affiliate with the AFSCME. When the workers refused to return to work they were released from employment and no work on county roads has been done since that time. Two arrests have been made by state police following disturbances.

Gov. Mandel said he would not intervene in the dispute unless he was guaranteed of cooperation by both sides.

Mr. Paugh said yesterday that some 95 percent of the county's school children travel to consolidated schools by bus on the 790 milies of roads which need repair. Paugh indicated the county was in "excellent state financially," and is "financially able to give the road workers a raise."

Local Insurance Co. Will Dissolve

The Mutual Fire Insurance company in Garrett county has elected to dissolve through action of a majority of the stockholders, and an advertisement to this effect appears in the Republican today.

The Insurance company has been in existence since 1898 and has maintained offices in Accident with Roy C. Turney as secretary and treasurer. The company was organized under the laws of the State of Maryland and is run by a board of directors with Oscar G. Harman as president.

There are some 129 policy holders. Mr. Turney said the company was prepared to pay out some $56,000 to $58,000 to policy holders in proportion to the size of their policies.

Co. Commissioners Name 4 To Board Social Services

At a recent meeting of the Board of County Commissioners they named four persons to the Garrett County Social Services Board. They included Rogers Fike, Dan W. Hershberger and Paul Calderwood, for three year terms, expiring June 30, 1973; Mrs. Fern Beachy, to fill the unexpired term of William W. Grant, expiring June 30, 1972.

At the same meeting the trash dump contract was awarded to Harry Durst, from July 12 to June 30, for $4,600. Ervin L. Lowdermilk, low bidder, notified the board that he could not accept the contract.

Col. J. Haig Jackson was appointed as Sediment Control representative for the county. Paul McKee, Department of Water Resources for the state, was notified of the appointment.

AMPHETAMINES!
THE UP DRUGS

When prescribed by a physician, these stimulants can check fatigue, increase alertness and when carefully supervised can control overweight.

They are too risky for self-medication. Uncontrolled large dosages cause jitterness, irritability, unclear speech and tension. Emotions are dulled and proper thinking is impaired. They increase the heart rate and cause sweating, headaches, diarrhea, and loss of appetite.

Slang terms for illegal purchases are "Pep Pills," "Beanies" and "Speed." Injecting Amphetamines for quicker action has cause deaths. The next of these Public Service messages will discuss "Barbs" and "Goof Balls."

GUN CONTROL

Will gun registration really keep guns out of the hands of undesirable persons?

I don't think it will. The effect of such registration will hamper ordinary citizens who are target shooters, hunters, collectors, or who believe they need protection. It will not stop crime because it does not get at the root of the problem which is control of illegal use of firearms.

To think that controlling firearms will control crime is simply false.

We can, however, control the illegal use of firearms:

1. By providing MANDATORY jail sentence for use of all dangerous weapons in the commission of any crime.

2. By prohibiting possession of firearms by persons who have been convicted of a crime of violence, fugitives from justice, mental incompetents, drug addicts and persons adjudicated habitual drunkards.

Any legislation that follows this twofold pattern will reduce crime but will not abridge the constitutional rights of citizens.

Review of The Play

The GENERATION GAP — you've heard about it, talked about it, may go see it in action at the Garrett County Playhouse this week. The old saying, "If you can't beat them, join them," is a good idea, but see how Walter Davis, Sr. solves this most pressing problem of the "NOW" generation. Henry Denker, the author of "What Did We Do Wrong" gives the Generation Gap a new twist. This is a show that can be seen by all ages, but is especially worthwhile for parents over 30 who have teenage sons and daughters, who are in college or about to go to college. If you were one of those who enjoyed last season's "The Impossible Years," you will thoroughly enjoy this show.

The show opens with a happy married couple talking about normal things, or do they? Norma Davis, played by Susan Stoner, is not only a social leader in her community, but a great reader and believer of current magazine articles, and the book by Dr. Spock. Susan is well cast in this part, and does an excellent job of wife and mother throughout the entire play. Milburn Mehlhop as Walter Davis, Sr., runs the gamut of a patient husband, president of a large company, a loyal father to a real ....., no I won't tell you, . . . go find out. Needless to say Milburn is tremendous again, and each week gets better and better. David Cramer as Walter Jr., is a college student, who wrote a delightful song that caused him and three of his friends to be expelled from college. Of course they tried to present to the college president their Bill of Rights, in addition to the song. David plays a most sincere role as a hippie type student, and you'll love him.

This is the first play this year that Director Bob Nesbitt has appeared. I have said before that his direction is well done, and this is no exception. Bob plays Scott, a dropout of various colleges throughout the nation, in addition to being a most convincing hippie. Cindi, played by Marsha Wischusen, is the only girl hippie, but through the dirt and dress of a hippie, Marsha remains very pretty, and her acting improves each week.

Woody Jackson, acted by Tony Bruskas, is the 4th member of this group. Tony will be remembered by GCP audiences long after he leaves here, I've heard some of the local girls saying some very nice things about Tony and David Cramer.

Sean Spriggs and Jana Hahn have minor roles in this play, but do a most convincing job.

As I said, there is a new twist given to the generation gap. The second act will "bring the house down," as they used to say. In this act, Milburn shows all fathers what they should do, if and when, their children act as his did.

This is good comedy, and most timely. Don't miss "What Did We Do Wrong" this week at the Garrett County Playhouse. Better make reservations as Gene Yell should pack the Playhouse the rest of the week.

This is my last review of this season, and I have enjoyed doing these reviews. I am most disappointed in the people of Garrett County, and especially Oakland, Grantsville, Friendsville, etc., for not backing the GCP. If it weren't for the summer visitors, Mr. Yell would not be here for this, the 16th season. Many times I have heard that there is little culture on our Mt. Top. Here we have one of four Summer Stock companies in Maryland, and we should be proud to have this in our area.

This writer has viewed productions in the Morris Mechanic Theatre and Painter's Mill in Baltimore, and the Broadway stage. The scenery may be better to see, but the acting, locally, is comparable. I get more from the Theatre in the Round than a regular stage production. It's as if one is part of the play itself. —C.L.B.

There's A Girl

and the following year was produced in New York, becoming an overnight hit.

The Garrett County Playhouse version will be directed by Robert Nesbitt, with Gene Yell and Sean Spriggs designing the setting.

Heading the cast of seven is Robert Nesbitt as Robert Danvers, with Marsha Wischusen cast as his mod "bird" Marion.

Other side dishes on the menu are Jana Hahn as Danvers' society girl, and Susan L. Stoner as an Italian who likes Chinese cuisine. In the role of Danvers' editor-friend is Dave Cramer, while Tony Broskas and Milburn Mehlhop round out the cast, adding a dash of rue.

Continuing through Saturday, August 1, at the Blue Barn is "What Did We Do Wrong?" which explodes the generation gap. The cast headlines Milburn Mehlhop, father of a drop-out college son; and Susan L. Stoner his wife. David Cramer plays the son, with Marsha Wischusen, Tony Bruskas and Robert Nesbitt as three of the unwashed generation. The cast is completed with Jana Hahn and Sean Spriggs as senior citizen observers.

Mr. Hinebaugh and James Rook, assistant parade chairman, were emphatic in announcing that floats for individual political candidates would not be accepted.

Two Oakland Families Exchange Homes

Two Oakland families have exchanged homes. The Walter Dawsons, who were living at 514 Green street, bought the John Adams home at 315 North Fourth street and moved there. When the Adams vacated the Fourth street home they moved into the home formerly occupied by the Dawsons on Green street. The change was accomplished last week.

lege Park, Mickey Pardow, Baltimore, Fred McNair, Washington and Jack Eaton, Pittsburgh. The Senior doubles winners last year, Ralph Whittaker, Frank Hartz, Richmond, Va., plan to defend their title.

With five courts avaliable for competition, Mrs. Deacon said with favorable weather the tournaments would advance rapidly with plans for the finals events on Saturday afternoon. For the first time in a number of years, U. S. Senator Jennings Randolph will be present to present the prizes at the conclusion of the tournament.

Mrs. Deacon said she was hopeful that several local tennis enthusiasts would enter the competition and also that many of the local and Deep Creek Lake people would attend the matches, particularly the finals Saturday afternoon.

Oakland All-Star Throttle Frostburg

The Oakland Little League All-Stars advanced in the District Little League playouts Tuesday evening by defeating the Frostburg All-Stars 9 to 2 at Oakland.

Frostburg defeated Hancock 13 to 2 in the opening round last week.

Oakland earned the right to meet West End of Hagerstown on Wednesday in Hagerstown. Valley defeated Conococheague 1 to 0 and will meet the winner of the Oakland-West End game for the district one championship.

Ricky Welch put the game out of reach for Coach Don Savage's Oakland squad with a grandslam home run in the top of the seventh inning off relief pitcher Marty Delaney who had moments earlier come into the game replacing Paul Kahl, victim of a two-run homer by Kevin Liller.

Oakland tallied seven times in that sixth inning to break a 2-2 deadlock which had existed since the fourth inning when Frostburg scored twice to knot the count.

Oakland scored a pair in the third inning. Lance Uphole went the distance on the mound for Oakland, firing a two-hitter. Kahl was charged with the loss, yielding those two third-inning tallies and Liller's homer in the seventh.

Welch, Liller, Mike Colaw and Uphole had two hits each for Oakland, and Uphole scored twice. Oakland had nine hits.

Playing for Oakland were D. Green, R. Welch, M. Weeks, K. Sines, R. Savage, E. Panther, K. Liller, M. Colaw, L. Uphole, E. Wotring, Pendergast.

Eight Are Killed On State Highways

Eight persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the survey published by the State Police. Three of those killed were drivers, two were passengers, and three were pedestrians. Alcohol was a contributing factor in one of the deaths, speed in six, and "driver error" in six.

"In many cases it is, of course, the negligent driver who kills a pedestrian; too often, however, it is the pedestrian himself who is responsible for the accident which caused his death," said Lt. Col. W. H. Conroy, deputy superintendent of State Police.

"Pedestrians, as well as drivers, have a responsibility to promote highway safety," he added.

return to work while talks are in progress. While the commissioners have the final word in the matter as they do with the school board, at least the impasse would be off dead center.

Any solution will take real effort on the part of the citizens as a whole. We can remember one time in the past when farmers gathered at the creamery with pitchforks in their hands to resolve some labor differences.

Several wild ideas have been spread around. Some are suggesting that citizens refuse to pay taxes until road work is resumed, or pay only that portion of taxes for other services rendered. This is a sure way to lose your property because the county government is authorized by law to sell ones property if taxes are not paid in full. Ones taxes do pay for services other than roads.

Some are suggesting that school bus operators refuse to operate their buses if county roads remain in such deplorable condition. But this neither is a reasonable suggestion, for they have responsibilities and contracts to carry out a job.

That two commissioners and 140 former roads workers are making life miserable for nearly 20,000 other Garrett Countians is causing a growing sense of outrage.

There are several things that do not help and should not be tolerated. There should be no suggestions of inciting to riot or rebellion. There should be no threats of coercion, no threats to merchants who do not choose to contribute to a road workers fund, no dynamiting of driveways or bridges; no threats to any person who seeks an honorable job and desires an opportunity to work. These suggestions do not indicate anti-unionism They do indicate pro-Americanism.

Folk Singing Teen Team Will Be At Teen Rally Sat.

Oakland Beaten By Hagerstown

Oakland's aspirations for the district one title in the Little League were wiped out last night by West End Little League of Hagerstown which handed the Oakland team a 6 to 2 defeat at Hagerstown.

Joe Repp pitched a two-hitter and struck out 12 while on the mound and on the offensive Repp singled once and scored two runs.

Oakland got on the scoreboard first when it picked up two runs on Doug Ream's single, two walks plus a West Side error that allowed both runs to score.

West End charged back to knot the count in the last half of the same inning. West End captured the advantage for keeps in the third inning when with two out Repp singled to right and trotted home with the tie breaker on Steve Greathead's double. Greathead then moved to third on Vind's single and tallied on a single by Ed Thomas. Hagerstown added two insurance tallies in the fourth when Oakland's catcher, Ed Panther, was unable to hold a throw from the outfield allowing the two runners to score.

Hagerstown will meet Valley Little League for the district 1 title.

County Produced 1,076,038 Tons of Coal During 1969

During the calendar year 1969 the Garrett county coal mines produced 1,076,038.08 net tons, according to the forty-seventh annual report of the Maryland Bureau of Mines, prepared by Harry B. Buckley, director. This was some 55,118 less tons then were produced the previous year.

During the same period there were 100 laborers and 165 outside employes for a total of 265 men.

The same report showed that during the year Allegany county mines employed 51 laborers and 79 outside employes for a total of 130, and the production of coal for that county was 305,606.88 net tons.

There were thirty-four operators including Brenneman Coal company, Buffalo Coal company, Inc.; Burrell Bros. Coal corporation, Callis Coal company, Cross Cut Coal company, Dorsey Coal, F. and P. Coal, Folly Run Coal; Harvey and Evans Coal, Kinsinger Coal, W. R. Nethken and Company, Inc.; James Nelson Coal, Les Paugh Coal, R. and R. Coal, Harland Ream Coal, Upperman Coal, Willow Coal, Wolf Run Coal, Brenneman Bros. Coal, Buffalo Coal, D. and K. Coal, Ebensburg Coal and Clay, M. F. Fetterolf Coal, Ginniman and Ware Coal, Menallen Coke, Moran Coal, W. R. Nethken and Company, Inc., leased to G. and S. Coal, Parnell and Richards Coal, Clarence Rodamer Coal, Michael Rostosky Coal, Russell Shafer Coal, Shallmar Coal, Harold Upole Coal, and Win-More M. and C. company.

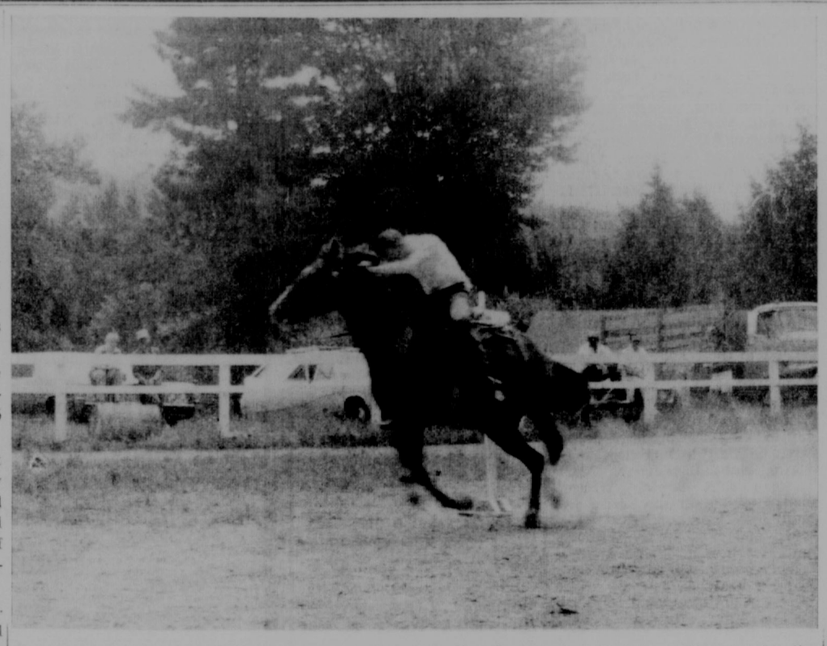
Garrett and Allegany counties are the only coal producing counties in the state.

The breakdown showed that in Garrett county 756,558.46 tons were produced by strip mining, 256,638.62 tons by deep mining and 62,841 tons by auger mining.

Six seams of coal were mined in Garrett county, Kittanning, Freeport, Clarion, Pittsburg, Franklin and Bakerstown. The tonnage by basin included Upper Potomac, 708,727.07; Georges Creek, 610,764.88; Lower Youghiogheny, 40,354.01; Castleman, 21,389; and Upper Youghiogheny, 410.

The report included a paragraph on the Kitzmiller mine rescue team which was still active with Chester L. Evans and Melvin K. DeShong supervising the practice sessions. Members of the team included during 1969 Claude D. Boyce, James C. Brady, Harold F. Hawk, Thomas H. Davis, George K. Barnard, Junior Fazenbaker, James E. Droppleman, Allen E. Pysell and Lonzy R. Clark.

There were five strip mining permits backfilled in 1969 with five backfilled and planted in 1969, for a toal of 459.07 acres backfilled and 148.40 acres planted. There were no strip mining forfeitures in 1969, the report stated. The complete report was made to Marvin Mandel, governor of Maryland.



Larry Schenk, on Cheyenne, won the pole bending timed race last Sunday afternoon in the 4-H horse show. His time was 14.2 seconds.

Nethken and Company and G and S Coal Company, Inc.; Stanley Virts, Charles Pattison representing Pattison Heirs; Mrs. Anetio Goodwin. A public meeting is to be held at which the various lines of construction will be discussed and a plan of construction and location made.

A bid was received for construction of county airport hangars from John Rolls, for $17,000. The bid is to be studied.

The Board conferred with Lieut. Samuel Conrad of the Maryland state police, James E. Frantz, sheriff; and Fred A. Thayer, state's attorney regarding protection for men wanting to work on county roads. Procedures and possible arrangements of keeping the peace were discussed.

The fish was believed to be the same one which the evening before had broken Mr. Gaither's line and escaped. The jitterbug was later found and the same plus was used again.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

340 Broughton Rd.
Bethel Park, Pa.
July 25, 1970

Mr. George Hanst, Editor
Dear George:

We visited the Oakland cemetery the Sunday after Fathers Day and the "housekeeping" was terrible. I understand it was worse a week or two before that. Last year on Fathers Day the grass was long enough to make hay.

We understood that the Perpetual Care program was to keep the cemetery looking presentable. Did that mean at all times or just on the main holidays, when the cemetery would have many visitors?

It has been said by many that a good "inside look" at a city government can be obtained by visiting its cemetery.

Sincerely,
D. W. Walter, Jr.

Huckleberrying

Summer days call for the beach or shade tree, but another mundane pleasure is mine, sitting on the back porch, munching handfuls of sweet little juicy berries, the gift of July and the sun and soil. While you sort and clean the day's picking, you can think of only comfort. There were favorite edges along the forest, or meadows in the country, which featured old stumps surrounded by a circle of low bushes, and plenty of sunshine, so that you had to muster your fearlessness and consider the idea of avoiding a basking reptile, but picking huckleberries was a country activity giving its own rewards for patience.

A botanist would distinguish clearly which it was that we found the most palatable, the Vaccinium angustifolium, which is common to the Alleghenies, or the dryland blueberry, Vaccinum pallidum, but in our younger years it mattered less than anything, as we knelt or sat to begin picking, meanwhile listening to the LOUD drops in the bucket, hoping that the thuds would soon become more dull, as that meant that the berries had covered the bottom and were now filling your container. Most really practical pickers could work with two hands, and the wisest often tied a small tin or cup to the belt and emptied into another vessel, giving themselves what psychology would name a short-term beneficial goal. Some people prefer the end product of a blackberry pie, but for this writer it was gayer to pick huckleberries, with no scratching or high briers and just as much flavor.

Later in the season appeared the highbush blueberry, whose habitat is from New England to Georgia, but somehow the sunshine was not built in as properly and they grew so openly and high that there was little effort in picking them. That seems contradictory to the preceding but every mountaineer wants a hint of a challenge to gain his product, and standing up to pick, well—.

Lunch on a berry-picking day was a gala event; everyone needed to see who was most victorious. If you could push up your long sleeves, brush the grass, and straighten your back, a comrade would share such delicacies as pickles, fudge, or lemonade. It was back to labor soon or you might be tempted to nap and thus suffer the ignominious fact of an unfilled bucket.

Whittier speaks of the country boy whose strawberry-kissed lips are red; by the same phenomenon the huckleberry eater is known, but his is a mouth of blue. In country school days, when two or three choice associates could enjoy repartee when seated together in one screwed down desk, we always anticipated the joke of one boy's lips and teeth after he had dined in proper season. Lucky boy, he had no fears of our laughter, for his mother had packed a piece of huckleberry pie in his lunchbox, and weren't we the peons in this case, having none? It was the same young chap who respelled for us in a folk rhyme, "H U Huckle, B U Buckle, Huckleberry pie!" At that stage we were so unsophisticated that a treat was a dish of huckleberries with sugar and country cream—that was the pre-Ice Cream Age.

Huckleberries call to mind a wonder of eastern Garrett County, Wolf Swamp, or simply "The Swamp" to people living near Big Savage. Surely its murky, stench-filled soil, the real source of the Savage River, offers an enigma, huckleberry bushes growing there taller than an adult's head. They offer an enticement to anyone who can endure the smurky gloom to get several gallons of berries, and it is helpful to research these phenomenal growing conditions as future proof to scoffers. Real blueberries have been found to require a nitrogen gathering fungus on their roots and the fungus grows best in a sand-peat mixture, so the swamp may not be an enigma after all, for ecologists feel that so great is association with peat that this environmentally isolated area may someday be pressurized into coal.

Books say that true huckleberries are shiny black and more acid than blueberries, being truly of a separate genus Gaylussacia and members of the heath family along with their associates, rhododendron and arbutus. But our ignorance begets happiness, for whether huckleberries or blueberries, those succulent fruits, blue-black and packed with a tiny red rim around yellow, enriched our days and gave us the gift of personally procured food. Huckleberries ripe? When are you going?

Christmas Tree Growers Meet At Custer Plantation

Some seventy-five members and guests of the Maryland Christmas Tree Growers association met Saturday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Custer, north of Oakland.

Dr. Francis Goulin, horticulture extension service, University of Maryland, spoke to the group on air pollution as it affects Christmas trees and showed trees that had been damaged by air pollution.

At the morning session there were equipment demonstrations of the latest machinery in Christmas tree operations and the latest herbicide and insecticide demonstrations which were acceptable by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

In the afternoon they visited the tree plantation of Ernest L. Weiss, near Thayerville, and looked at the air monitoring station placed there by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The group also visited the tree plantation of Dr. James H. Feaster, Jr., near Crellin.

William Graham, Bel Air, state president of the association, presided at a banquet held in the recreation room of the Mt. Lake Park United Methodist church at 6:30. The Deep Creek fire company had served a box lunch at the Custer farm. In charge of arrangements were Paul Mateer, secretary for the state association and Dr. Custer, Maryland trustee for the National Tree Growers' association.

Epidemic - Even To Us

Rita Shrout

Although the United States is a democratic nation, we have instigated various social programs; eg., our welfare system. In numerous projects I feel we've gone too far in forms of money and material aid, but conversely we've often done too little. The area of public health is one we have shamefully neglected. We have seen diseases develop to epidemic degrees, and still we hold tightly onto our money, refusing organized medicine the opportunity of research and possibly cure. Because we are all especially affected by social diseases, our financial support in erasing them should not be sparse.

Venereal disease is now at epidemic stages all across the United States. A recent TIME magazine announced that 650,000 Americans under twenty were annually contracting either syphilis or gonorrhea, as estimated by the U.S. Center for Disease Control in 1965. And, of course, the rate has increased since then.

We in Garrett County seem to be far removed from V.D. and its consequences of heart damage, blindness, or general paralysis; but should we sit back and wait for it to reach us? Yes, it can be cured when recognized early, but why not prevent it?

The major problem facing health authorities today is funding. State finances are presently inadequate for discovery and treatment of cases, much less for researching preventative measures; and, there is little monetary assistance from the federal government. The medical field sees little hope in eliminating syphilis or gonorrhea until prevcntative vaccines are developed. That is why we, especially, should be active in the fight for financial aid to research. If we act now, while our area is free and untroubled by the epidemic, it may never reach us. On the other hand, if we refuse to get involved, if we refuse to write our congressmen and senators demanding more aid for the prevention and treatment of venereal disease, then it will increase. (Just over a one-year period, New Jersey scaled a 55 percent increase in reported cases of syphilis.) It will spread. It will expand and infiltrate not only New Jersey and New York, but even to the most primitive areas, and eventually everyone will have it. Then we'll have to do something about it, won't we?

OCEAN'S EDGE

Yesterday I saw the ocean for the first time. Jim and I had been invited to a house party at a cottage on the shore. Having recently moved East from the Midwest, I had anticipated nothing more on the drive down than a weekend of fun and games, swimming and dancing.

But I wasn't prepared for the ocean. Its grandeur and beauty stirred me. Today I walked along the beach for long hours watching the waves or searching the shore for shells, listening to the wonderful roar of the sea as whitecaps splashed around me.

Tonight as I stood at ocean's edge, the stars seemed near. Breakers crashing rhythmically sprinkled phosphorescence on the sand. For an instant I was caught within infinity. Sky, beach and tides contained me—in that moment I saw God.

I may never again achieve the clarity of that second on the beach, but someday I may. For this experience has awakened in me a longing to know more about God and the Truths the beauty of His world reveal.

NO "ONLY CHILD"

Lesson for August 2, 1970

Background Scripture: Genesis 4:1-24; 1 John 3:11-15.
Devotional Reading: Matthew 5:21-26.

God seems to have the knack for asking disturbing questions, doesn't he? Recall a few of them with me.

First, there's that little unpleasantness about Adam and Eve picking fruit from the forbidden tree in the Garden of Eden. From their hiding place they heard God calling them, "Where are you?" Finding them and seeing their shame, He asks again, "Who told you that you were naked?" Worst of all is the next question: "What have you done?" No doubt about it, God knows how to ask the right questions. If only Adam had done as well with the answers.

Rev. Althouse

Good questions

But the questions do not end with Adam and Eve. Cain, their son, will face some of these questions himself. In the middle of his act of sacrificial offering, Cain is surprised by God's query: "Why are you angry, and why has your countenance fallen?" Cain cannot afford to answer that one sincerely, so he remains silent.

In due time, however, another question is put to him which he cannot avoid: "Where is Abel, your brother?" It is not difficult for us to understand the consternation and distress that cause him to reply with a question of his own: "I do not know; am I my brother's keeper?"

Good questions all—let's see if we can find some equally good answers.

Two sons were born to Adam and Eve. One, a farmer, is Cain; the other, a sheepherder, is Abel. How simply and symbolically the writer of Genesis is demonstrating a primary fact of life: no two persons are alike!

Despite their common parentage, these two brothers are quite different from each other.

Both brothers took their sacrificial offerings to God. The offering of Abel was pleasing to God, but that of Cain was not. Why? We cannot know for certain, but it seems likely that Cain's sacrifice was rejected by God, not because the gift was not good enough, but because Cain was nursing an ailing temper and bruised ego within himself. More important than the gift he gave was the spirit with which his sacrifice was given. Abel brought his gift out of gratitude to the Lord, but Cain brought his only to gain God's favor. Instead of coming to give praise, Cain came to seek it.

Why He was angry

"So Cain was very angry, and his countenance fell." Why was he so angry? He could not bring himself to answer God, but neither could he hide his jealously for his brother Abel. Just as Adam and Eve pointed the finger at the serpent, Cain looked upon his brother as the cause of his unhappiness.

Remember that this is our story too. Are we not like Cain? Don't we also seek to project our troubles upon others and blame them for the unhappiness we feel within? Isn't it when we cannot face our own guilt that we must find a scapegoat to bear it for us?

Whether Cain intended to murder his brother or not, the result was the same. Abel lay dead because his offering had gained God's approval. Men are still killed today for motives no greater.

Where is your brother?

Cain was to learn, as his parents had learned, that one cannot hide from God and his terrible questions. He meets the question first with a lie and then an insolent rejection. The reply of Cain is not so much a question as it is a declaration of independence. But there is no independence from one's brother, whether he be near or far.

I heard someone comment about this story that it was interesting but didn't "have anything to do with me because I'm an only child: I have no brothers or sisters." But he missed the point: in the sight of God no one is an "only child."

MOST BAD BREATH CAN BE CONTROLLED

Once considered an almost unmentionable subject, bad breath is now more openly discussed. There are many possible causes of bad breath and therefore many different ways to control it. If it is a problem stemming from a condition in your mouth your dentist can suggest an effective method to lessen or even eliminate it. Certain mouthwashes and other products can be useful in everyday care.

Other causes of bad breath can come from the stomach or lungs and in some cases has been related to emotional stress. Once the cause has been determined a way can usually be found to stop it. Do not be afraid to discuss bad breath with your physician or dentist.

J. Glenn Beall, Jr. Reports from Washington

Congressman, 6th District, Maryland

Congress this past week considered an extremely important appropriation bill which provides funds for the operation of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for fiscal year 1971, which began on July 1. Authorizing a total of $18.8 billion, the HEW legislation represents the largest bulk expenditure made by our government in any area except national defense.

Because the bill appropriates funds for so many worthy causes, it is sometimes difficult to detremine in which area funds should be increased and in which programs federal spending should be cut. Also, throughout deliberation on legislation of this nature, which commits such a sizable portion of our government's money, we must constantly strive to come as close as possible to a balanced budget.

The appropriation legislation finally agreed to by the House Committee on Appropriation would increase the funds available to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare by $2.3 billion over last year. It should be pointed out to those who will most certainly complain that certain projects did not get enough money, that this increase is the largest in terms of dollars and in terms of percentage given to any segment of government this year, and that for almost every HEW activity increases have been granted.

First of all, a significant increase has been awarded for the staffing of needed community mental health centers bringing the total amont for this program to the highest level in its history.

Secondly, $338 million is provided in the legislation for the construction of hospitals and other medical care facilities originally proposed under the Hill-Burton Act. This represents an increase of $166 million over last year's appropriation and again is the largest amount ever authorized in the history of the program. In addition, the bill would establish a new program to subsidize the interest on the cost of hospital construction.

The largest increase over last year comes in the funding of the National Institutes of Health. Much of the increase will be devoted to additional research on the causes and cures of such dread diseases as cancer, heart disorders, stroke, arthritis, and childhood illnesses.

Certainly, we should all recognize the invaluable work the Institutes have done to combat these primary killers and cripplers in the past, and support continued efforts in these areas. I was therefore pleased that every program of the Institute of Health is funded in an amount at least equal to that provided last year, and that in most instances there has been an increase.

For instance, the National Cancer Institute's total increase over last year is $46 million or over 20 percent. Funding for the National Heart and Lung Institute is raised by $17 million. Dental research and research on arthritis and medical science there is an increase of 10 percent, and for child health and human development the appropriation this year is 25 percent higher than last.

To another vital health area—manpower— the 1971 appropriation brings an increase of $48 million. Currently, there is a critical shortage of personnel trained in the health professions. According to the latest figures, we need 50,000 fore physicians, 18,000 more dentists, 150,000 more nurses, and 227,000 more qualified people in associated health fields. By providing grants and loans both to educational institutions and individual students, the HEW appropriation bill should help considerably in training additional people for the medical professions.

Obviously, appropriations for the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare have a direct bearing on all of us. There is a great temptation to appropriate all the money that is requested but we must keep in mind that funds are useful only when they can be wisely spent. Although there will be those who complain about these appropriations, they nevertheless represent that amount which we feel can be judiciously used in the next fiscal year.

Day of Recognition Proposed To Honor Nation's Policemen

Throughout history man has given special respect to those who sacrifice their lives for the safety and security of their fellow man. In ancient and primitive societies this respect often took a fanciful, fictional form. We are told that the Norsemen used to promise the warriors who died in battle that they would go to a special afterlife in Valhalla where they would live with Gods. In the Middle Ages, the Mohammendans believed that their warriors would go to Paradise, a special kind of place where all the pleasures that they may have been denied on earth would be available to them.

In the United States we pay respect to those who give their lives for the country in more rational and more restrained ways. One is through our national cemeteries, the best known of which is Arlington National Cemetery where many of the nation's heroes are buried, where the unknown dead of three wars are laid to rest and where people from throughout the world come in pilgrimage. Most of these honored dead gave their lives for society on the field of battle. Their deaths represent a high sacrifice, a kind of dedication to the nation and her people. Their sacrifice should be an example and an inspiration for every succeeding generation.

But sadly, there are Americans who have given their lives for society, for the survival of our ideals and our way of life but whose deaths have received only passing notice. These men are the police who protect our citizens in cities and states throughout the country. More than one hundred of these public servants lose their lives in the line of duty every year. They get passing notice in the cities where they serve but for the most part they are forgotten. These men are heroes in the same sense as those who die fighting a war. Men who die alone in the streets often give greater illustration of self sacrifice and dedication to service than those who go out with large marching bands and flying banners to meet foreign enemies because these men are with the enemy every day that they are on duty. Their common enemy, an enemy who sometimes appears with the face of a friend, is danger to the public safety. It is an enemy which may appear suddenly from around any corner to snatch life from these men.

I believe we should establish a system of national recognition of our heroic police who die for their country so that their sacrifice is properly recognized. The example set by these brave men should be preserved for future generations to study and follow.

I am proposing that the President of the United States conduct an annual recognition day for the fallen heroes of our city streets, the police who die while protecting the American public. I am also proposing that an appropriate medal be struck, a medal which would be presented by the President to the families of such brave men killed in the previous year. No medal can replace a lost loved one for the families of these men, but such a gesture would demonstrate the thanks of a grateful nation for the sacrifice not only of these men killed on duty but of the thousands and thousands of law enforcement officers throughout the country whose devotion to the cause of justice is so vital to the maintenance of a truly free society.

Sermonette By Area Ministers

Where Do We Go From Here?

How many times have you asked that question when you have reached the end of a road, or a point in your life when to continue in the same direction seems unwise or futile? The question may be induced by conditions that have become unbearable, or by some moral or spiritual crisis in which you are involved. Under such conditions a change seems imperative.

This same experience comes to groups. Nations encounter crises in their careers which call for drastic change in policy or procedure. At such a time there are doctors aplenty with their prescriptions—economic, political, social. In the time of the prophet Hosea, Israel had reached a crisis in her history, and the question might well have been asked, "Where do we go from here?" Hosea said, "Return, O Israel, to the Lord, your God; for you have stumbled in your guilt." (Hosea 14:1) His answer rings a bell. "You have gone away from God, now you must come back."

Often in a crisis a spirit of fatalism crops up. A person assumes that he is in the hands of some cruel fate which has decreed his downfall, and that he is helpless to avert it. Hosea's words deny that. The prophet insists that man is a responsible being. Each man has a choice. It is not fate which has brought him to his condition, but his own evil choice. He can stop. He can "Return to the Lord."

Hosea also had a deep insight into human inadequacy. He pointed out to Israel that somewhere along the line she had got smart and thought that she could go it alone, but she is not able to do it. The prophet Jeremiah put it this way, "I know, O Lord, that man's way is not his own, That it is not in man's power as he wants to control his steps." (Jeremiah 10:23) Therefore, Hosea commands, "Return, O Israel, to the Lord, your God." Israel was not wise enough, or strong enough, or good enough to control her destiny, and neither is the United States or any other modern nation. We need to obey the command, "Return. . . to the Lord, your God."

A motorist who discovers himself on a wrong road hates to be told that he must go back ten miles to get on the right road. We all hate to double back on our tracks. It seems like such a waste. We usually feel that if we keep going in the same direction, but at a faster speed, we shall be more likely to arrive. That is one of the deceptions of sin. It is evident in the world today. People of every nation have prayed and worked for peace. All agree that peace is a desired goal, but we have thought that the road which leads to peace is called "preparation for war." This has not brought peace and never will.

We need to turn around and go in another direction. Instead, mankind seems to think that if we accelerate our speed, get faster planes, bigger aircraft carriers, bigger bombs, we shall arrive. History gives us no reason to believe that we shall. And so, God commands us now, "Return!"

We find it hard to return, not only because we hate to admit that we are on the wrong road, but more especially because we hate to admit that we are on the wrong road because something is wrong with us, and not somebody else. "For you have stumbled in pour guilt." One of the baffling facts about sin is that as it increases its hold on you, your consciousness of its presence in you decreases. Look at our world today! The evidences of sin were never more grim and tragic than now, while the sense of sin was probably never so weak.

Sin is being out of step with the will and purpose of God. It is to be out of harmony with God. Disharmony in our families, in our nation, and in the world, are due to sin. But the ultimate source of the trouble is not in the family, the nation, or the world, but in us—you and me. Jesus came to show us the way back to God, which is the only answer to the question, "Where do we go from here?" God commands each of us now, "Return . . . to the Lord, your God; for you have stumbled in your guilt."

vs.

The Unknown Heirs, Devisees, and Personal Representatives of Thomas Watson, William Watson, Joseph Watson, and Frances Moderwell.

No. 5923 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to obtain a decree declaring absolute ownership of Lots Nos. 950, 952 and 954, as shown on the Plat of the Town of Mountain Lake Park, Maryland, to have been vested in Effie Louise Waters at the time of her death on January 29, 1970, and that the heirs, devisees and personal representatives of Thomas Watson, William Watson, Joseph Watson and Frances Moderwell will be enjoined from asserting any claim to said lots.

The Bill states:

That Martha Dent Watson was during her lifetime seized and possessed of three lots in the town of Mountain Lake Park, Garrett County, Maryland, which are known and designated as Lots Nos. 950, 952 and 954, as shown on the Plat of said town of Mountain Lake Park, which lots were conveyed to the said Martha Dent Watson as Mattie D. Watson by three deeds, the first from Park Improvement Company of Garrett County, Maryland, dated November 7, 1902, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 42, folio 550, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland; the second from Park Improvement Company of Garrett County, Maryland, dated March 23, 1903, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 44, folio 353, one of the said Land Records; and the third from Mountain Lake Park Association dated December 2, 1904, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 47, folio 581;

That the said Martha Dent Watson departed this life testate during the year 1905, a resident of Fairmont, Marion County, West Virginia. By the terms of her Last Will and Testament she attempted to devise the above described real estate in the following terms: "I give my Mountain Lake Park property to Louise Waters but in case she dies without issue to go to the heirs of my 3 brothers, Thomas, William and Joseph and the heirs of my sister, Frances Moderwell." That the said Last Will and Testament of Martha Dent Watson was never recorded among the Records of the Orphans' Court for Garrett County, Maryland, nor were any letters of administration granted by said Orphans' Court on the Estate of Martha Dent Watson.

That the said Louise Waters lived in a dwelling located on the said real estate from 1905 until her death on January 29, 1970. The said Louise Waters departed this life testate on the date aforesaid and by the terms of her last Will and Testament, recorded in Wills Liber H, Folio 471, one of the Wills Records of Garrett County, Maryland, she bequeathed and devised all her property and estate to three nieces, to-wit: Leora Wade, Madge Arnett and Freda Yost, who is now Freda Yost Starn. She appointed The First National Bank of Oakland as Executor of said Last Will and Testament and directed the said Executor to sell at either public or private sale all real estate and tangible personal property that she may own at the time of her death, except personal property specifically bequeathed and to pay the proceeds arising therefrom, after the payment of her debts and funeral expenses, to the three nieces, as aforesaid;

That it is the opinion of The First National Bank of Oakland that the said Louise Waters acquired title to said real estate by open, notorious and adverse use of same since 1905, until her death in 1970.

Since the death of the said Louise Waters, The First National Bank of Oakland, through its Trust Officer, has been in constructive and peaceable possession of said real estate.

That The First National Bank of Oakland has a duty as Executor of the Estate of the said Louise Waters to sell said real estate under the power of sale granted to it under her Will. That The First National Bank of Oakland has been advised by legal counsel that in the event of a public sale of said real estate the purchaser probably will not accept title.

That said real estate has been appraised for THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS ($3000.00);

That there is no action at law, nor any proceeding in Equity pending to enforce or test the validity of the title to said real estate;

That the probable contentions of prospective buyers of said real estate are without merit and constitute a cloud upon the title to said real estate.
